

Foil Balloon To Be Fired

WASHINGTON (AP) — An inflated balloon of aluminum foil and plastic film may be the next United States satellite to go into orbit around the earth.

Such a sphere is to be included in the next Army satellite firing attempt, expected in the near future at Cape Canaveral, Fla. It is to be sent aloft in a modified Jupiter-C rocket and inflated automatically with nitrogen hundreds of miles above the earth.

Blown up to a diameter of 12 feet, it could be seen with the naked eye in the reflected sunlight of dawn and dusk.

Similar balloons have been fired aloft—with no attempt to put them into orbit—from the Wallops Island, Va., experiment station now operated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The final stage of a slightly modified Jupiter-C will be a three-foot cylindrical case carrying the compressed balloon and a two-channel radio transmitter for tracking purposes.

The balloon will not have any instruments aboard, but scientists hope to learn something through visual observation of it.

SF Abandons Trade Fair

PORTLAND (AP) — San Francisco has decided not to compete with Portland's trade fair next summer.

The California city earlier announced plans for a fair which would have conflicted with Oregon's 1959 Centennial Exposition and International Trade Fair.

The Portland Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday it has learned that the promoters of the San Francisco fair have postponed their scheduled show until 1960.

Big Game Guide Uses Binoculars In Grizzly Tiff

CODY, Wyo. (AP) — Big game guide Roy Glasgow wrestled with a grizzly bear and came out of the contest with a slight hand wound.

Glasgow said he was watching a grizzly cub through binoculars when the mother grizzly came crashing through the trees toward him. The bear was on him before he could escape.

She wrestled him to the ground. When the bear started biting at his legs, protected by heavy leather chaps, he jammed his binoculars in its mouth.

Suddenly the cub squealed and ran off. The mother bear forgot Glasgow and took off after the cub.

Glasgow's hand was scratched. The binoculars were ruined.
