

Ballot Measure Number 3 Reviewed By AP Reporter

By PAUL W. HARVEY Jr., SALEM (AP) — Oregon's Legislators, who get $600 a year, are asking again for an increase in salary in Ballot Measure No. 3.

They want $1,200 a year. They also are asking for the right to appropriate expense money for themselves, a privilege they don't now have.

In 1957, they got about $8 a day for each day they were in session. They have been getting $600 a year since 1951.

ARGUMENTS FOR: We'd get better legislators if we paid them more. It isn't fair to ask people to serve at a sacrifice.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: Paying more money will not result in better legislators. It just would attract people who want the salary. Serving in the Legislature should be a public service.

Teachers in Legislature (No. 13) This is the only initiative on the ballot. All others were referred by the Legislature.

It would permit school teachers to serve in the Legislature. The state Supreme Court has ruled that they can't because they are part of the executive branch. The Constitution forbids anybody from holding positions in both branches.

ARGUMENTS FOR: It is discriminatory to bar teachers from making laws. Teachers can provide the Legislature with special knowledge about the schools.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: It is a practical way to give the Supreme Court extra help to catch up with its docket.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: Let's have the Legislature permanently add two more members to the nine-member court, instead of using this temporary expedient.

Grand Jury (No. 7) The recent Multnomah County grand jury found itself handicapped by having to consider routine criminal matters along with its vice investigation.

This measure would allow special grand juries to be empaneled to deal specifically with one investigation. Then the regular grand jury could handle all other matters.

There is no opposition to it.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: It is a conflict of interest when teachers serve in the Legislature, because they pass on laws applying to themselves.

Supreme Court (No. 9) The state Supreme Court is far behind in its docket. This measure would let the court temporarily appoint circuit judges to the high court.

It also legalizes two present practices, which are of doubtful legality. These permit circuit judges to be temporarily assigned to other counties, and permit appointment of lawyers as temporary circuit judges.

ARGUMENTS FOR: This is a practical way to give the Supreme Court extra help to catch up with its docket.

Fashions In The Islands Tamer Than Reputations

By GAY PAULEY, UPI Women's Editor

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hawaiian fashions are tamer than their reputations.

"The whole mainland thinks of us in terms of those wild Aloha shirts," said Robert F. Gaffney, president of the Hawaiian Fashion Guild. "But the real Hawaiian is what we're selling."

The "real Hawaiian" stuff features its share of bold pineapple and palm tree prints, especially during Aloha Week, the annual festival celebrated throughout the islands last week.

But Gaffney said demands from style-conscious women in the United States are helping to tame both colors and designs of sports and resort fashions.

"Haole," says the manufacturers, when they talk of mainlanders' preference for subdued hues and prints.

More than half of the fashion industry's annual sales now are export, Gaffney said. And the guild, with a membership of 21 out of the 50 island manufacturers, hopes to increase that total rapidly.

It is looking to an annual gross of $100 million 20 years hence — which would put fashion right up there with sugar, pineapple and tourism as leading industries. This year, Gaffney said, clothing sales, at wholesale, are expected to reach $11 million, more than double the figure of four years ago when the guild was organized.

"We're trying to do something besides clothes for Coney Island, and still keep the authentic Hawaiian flavor the women want," said Gaffney. Gaffney, a commander in the naval reserve, and his wife, who helps with designs, run the only children's clothing firm in the islands.

I saw resort collections of several manufacturers and found three major style influences: the Far East, Paris and New York and the home-grown, as typified by the muumuu.

Native dress from the whole Pacific basin inspire such popular clothes as the simple sheath dress with slit skirt, adapted from Chinese dress in Hong Kong; the sari of India; the sarong of Java; the banker's coat of China; the pajama, kimono, judo jacket and happi coat (short, loose-fitting peasant coat) of Japan.

One of the first to make the tea-timer was Nani Sportswear, and President F. Robert Frazer said he got the idea from a picture of Siamese dress in National Geographic Magazine. Gaffney's firm has adapted it even for toddlers — lining the underparts with protective plastic.

For some silhouettes, the Hawaiian manufacturers have looked to the West — the chemise and over-blouse fashions both are going strong.

And the feminine demand that figure should show even has caused less voluminous versions of the muumuu, that super-sack native to the islands.

Now, manufacturers are making the holomu, fitted sheath-like to just below the knees. The rest of the way to the floor is flounce.

Entertainers Avert Panic

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Entertainers staved off panic among 90 persons on a limping airliner with songs, dances and jokes.

One of the U.S. Overseas Airlines DC6B's four engines started spurting oil about 300 miles off the California coast en route from Hawaii Tuesday. The pilot feathered the propeller, called for a Coast Guard escort plane and landed safely here 2 hours and 22 minutes later.

"We were hired to entertain the passengers on the flight back from Hawaii," said Hawaiian dance Beck Bodnar, one of 15 entertainers aboard. "When the engine went out, we really whooped it up."

Tina Cannon, Austin, Tex., a Hollywood starlet, said: "We were a little scared at first, but they pulled the curtains and the entertainers took over. Before long we had forgotten where we were."

Actress Seeking To Regain Son

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Lynn Bari says phone conversations between her and her 10-year-old son John were monitored by Judy Garland, who told her: "We are running things. You are all through, kid."

Miss Bari opened a court fight Tuesday to regain custody of John from her ex-husband Sid Luft and his present wife, Miss Garland. Miss Bari described her son as "upset and emotionally disturbed because of the conflicts and altercations between the defendant and his present wife."

For First Time Since 20s, Hollywood Filming Nudity

By BOB THOMAS, AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For virtually the first time since the Roaring 20s, nudity is being filmed on the Hollywood movie stages.

But seekers of the sensational won't be able to see Hollywood's answer to Brigitte Bardot. The results are strictly for overseas consumption.

Nudity is a recent revival in the movie capital, and it may well have been prompted by the clothes-hating BB, plus the exposures in Italian, Swedish and other films. The trend is frowned upon by most industry leaders, who are steering clear of it.

The industry leaders feel there contains this section: "Complete nudity, in fact or silhouette, is never permitted, nor shall there be any licentious notice by characters in the film of suggested nudity."

The industry leaders feel there should be only one version of Hollywood films: those adhering to the code. But some independent producers are seeking a double standard, with a souped-up version for foreign audiences.

"We can't compete with the French and Italian films unless we give them more realism overseas," argues Al Zugsmith. He's attempting it in three films he has made independently for MGM. Jody Fair appears stripped to the waist in the foreign version of "High School Confidential."

Bob Byrnes does the same in "Night of the Quarter Moon" and "The Beat Generation."

"I hope some day we will be able to do the same in domestic versions," the producer said. "We are shackled here by many rules that are archaic."

An inside source reports that the Motion Picture Export Assn., which controls foreign distribution of major studio films, is cracking down on such exposure. The source reported:

"We feel that modesty is the best policy in the long run. Brigitte Bardot can have a vogue for a while and then will disappear. She's just one little French girl. But if we started exposing our Marilyn Monroes and Jayne Mansfields and 30 other stars, we'd end up paying for it."

"We've had success in getting rid of censorship boards in all but four states now, and only one—New York—is effective. The states would be glad to start their boards up again, because they get revenue from us for reviewing pictures. The Bardot pictures have already given them some ammunition. We don't want to give them more."
