The Klamath Falls Shrine Club members and their wives appeared in original, exotic and humorous costumes at a masquerade dance held October 25 at Reames Country Club. Keith Coddington, Ladd Hoyt and Everett Miner headed the committee which used the Halloween theme for decorations and games. A feature of the evening was the gypsy tent in which Faith Brock told the futures of the guests. A smorgasbord was served at midnight during the intermission of the music played by the Starlighters.
