

Rival Work Law Forces Maneuvering For Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — With decision day fast approaching, forces working for and against right-to-work proposals are maneuvering for every possible vote in six states where the hot issue is on the ballot.

The outcome may well affect the course of the battle in other states. For that reason, rival forces — extending well beyond the borders of the six states — have spent millions of dollars to win voters to their respective sides on the question of banning compulsory labor union membership.

The immediate battleground lies in California, Ohio, Kansas, Colorado, Idaho and Washington. The fight is particularly rugged in California and Ohio, because of their size and importance.

In those six states, an estimated 10 million voters are expected to mark ballots carrying right-to-work propositions. This is about one out of every five persons likely to take part in the congressional elections across the nation.

In each state, the proposed law specifies that a worker cannot be denied a job or removed from one because of membership or non-membership in a union. Chiefly affected by such a ban would be the union shop or similar arrangement.

The opposing views on the issue may be summed up in remarks by two men calling signals in the bitter fight.

William T. Harrison, executive secretary of the National Right-to-Work Committee, says "Americans must have the right but not be compelled to join labor unions."

Jack Redding, director of the National Council for Industrial Peace, says "right-to-work, a misnomer, means right to wreck labor unions."

Most support for right-to-work laws comes from business groups. The opposition is led by organized labor. But both sides say they have backing from all elements of the nation.

Eighteen states have enacted such laws. All except Indiana are in the South and West. Looking beyond the current phase of the fight, proponents are aiming to persuade the legislatures of several more states — Wisconsin, Maryland, New Mexico and Wyoming, among others — to adopt similar bans on compulsory union membership.

Ultimately, backers want to get at least three-fourths of the states lined up on their side in hopes the right-to-work principle can be written into the federal constitution.

How's the fight going in the current battleground states?

Redding predicts all six will defeat the right-to-work propositions. Harrison counters: "I think the other side is going to find the result considerably different after the votes are counted."

The issue has criss-crossed party lines and in some places has pushed candidates into the background. Neither the Democratic party nor the Republican party has taken a formal position.

Killer Seems Unconcerned As Police Eye Trial Site

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Harvey M. Glatman, whose calm recital of how he raped and strangled three young women led veteran homicide detectives to label him a "cold fish," showed little concern today as authorities sought to determine where he would be tried for the crimes.

Glatman, 30, a television repairman, lost his nerve for the first time Sunday since his arrest a week ago.

"What do you think I am—a freak?" he shouted angrily at his jailers as they kept a close watch on him to prevent a possible suicide try.

"Everybody who comes by this cell stops and looks at me," he complained. "They look at me and watch me all the time."

It was the first break of the confessed killer's nerve. All last week he matter of factly told detectives a depraved tale of forcing his attractive victims to pose in the nude before killing them and dumping their bodies in the desert.

His victims, Ruth Rita Mercado, 24, and Judy Ann Dull, 19, both models, and Mrs. Shirley Ann Bridgford, 24, divorcee-mother of two children and lonely hearts club member, were killed during a period from August, 1957, to last July.

Glatman said he met the models by posing as an amateur photographer. He killed Mrs. Bridgford, whom he met through a lonely hearts club, and Miss Mercado in a barren desert area in San Diego County. Miss Dull was killed in Riverside County, he told police.

All three crimes originated in Los Angeles County.

The problem of where Glatman should be tried arose because the crimes occurred in different counties.

Attendance Figures Noted By Livestock Exposition

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Officials of the Grand National Livestock Exposition disclosed today that attendance for the first five performances was 45,798 — 12 per cent higher than it was at this point last year and equal to the 1952 all-time high.

In Sunday night's program, the championship jumper sweepstakes went to Shamrock, a bay mare owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Purcell Jr., Portland. The palomino championship stake first place was awarded to Fort Knox, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hager, Sacramento.

Glenholme Frivolity, a bay gelding owned by Mrs. William P. Roth, San Mateo, placed first in the hackney pony, over 13 hands, stake. Red Rooster, a chestnut gelding owned by Diantha McLaughlin, San Francisco, won the three-gaited, over 15.2 hands, stake.

Other nonfinal horse show winners and their owners Sunday included: Kandu, Steve Novovich, Vacaville, open harness ponies, Short Day, Mrs. Louis Pfau, Pasadena, hunters, toumas of three; Freebooter, E. S. Elkus, Woodside five-gaited horses; ladies; Fort Knox, W. S. Hagen, Sacramento, amateur palominos.

Sneak Thief Deals Blow

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The thief dealt Edward Haynes an enormous blow.

Eddie is 20, a composer's helper, just starting his career. His wife Jeanette, only 19, has leukemia.

The medical bills for her treatment average $25 a week. Eddie met them. He bought a truck, on credit, and started a dry cleaning delivery service.

He denied himself, worked hard and soon he was earning $30 a week from his sideline.

Two months ago Jeanette gave birth to a daughter. The hospital bill for the delivery came last week. It was $347. Still Eddie had made plans to meet it.

Then over the weekend he left his truck parked on the street. It was loaded with orders he was to deliver today — dresses, suits, blankets. The estimated value was $1,000.

The thief broke into the truck and cleaned it out. There was no insurance. Eddie must make up the loss.

AF Housing Rites Slated

An Air Force veteran of 17 and one-half years service, T.Sgt. Virgil R. Mast, will be honored at 12:30 Tuesday, November 4, as the first airman to be handed the keys to one of the new Capehart Housing homes which are nearing completion.

In a special ceremony to be held at the home at 830 A Street, Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Parker, commanding general of the Western Air Defense, will make the presentation of the keys to Sergeant Mast, his wife and their three children.

Col. Jack W. Williams, commander of Kingsley Field, will make the welcoming address. Mayor Lawrence Slater of Klamath Falls will also speak briefly.

The home Sergeant Mast and his family will occupy is a three bedroom duplex, one of the 56 homes which are now ready for occupancy. Work is progressing rapidly on the balance of the 290 homes, and it's expected that all of them will be occupied by next spring.

Activation of Kingsley Field has been contingent upon the availability of suitable housing and the completion of the 290 homes will permit partial activation of the base early in 1959, authorities indicated.

Two Perish In Air Crash

HOOD RIVER (AP) — At least two persons died in the flaming crash of a plane on Shell Mountain 12 miles west of here Sunday night.

Two bodies were removed from the wreckage shortly before noon. It was thought a third person was aboard and the rugged area was being searched.

The owner and pilot was Earl K. Stretcher, a Portland brick mason contractor. Thought to have been with him were his cousin, Royal Thornburg, and his sister, Mrs. Bernice Kulman. All were from Portland.

They had been visiting in Mill Valley, Calif., and took off from San Rafael Sunday noon on the return to Portland. Stretcher did not file a flight plan.

A farmer saw what appeared to him to be a fire on Shell Mountain and when the plane was reported overdue, sheriff's officers checked that area. The wreckage was seen from the air. Ground parties reached it shortly before noon.

Italy Rejects Red Protest

ROME (AP) — Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani today "indignantly rejected" a Soviet protest against construction of U.S.-equipped missile bases in Italy.

"Soviet Russia has no right whatsoever to interfere in Italy's internal affairs, and matters pertaining to national defense are strictly internal affairs," a spokesman for the Premier said.

The Soviet note had been expected since the announcement in September that the United States and Italy had agreed to set up launching bases in Italy for intermediate range ballistic missiles as part of the North Atlantic Alliance's defense chain.

Basilica Of St. Peter's Prepares For Coronation

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The vast basilica of St. Peter's glittered with brilliant light today in preparation for the coronation of Pope John XXIII.

From around the free world, high dignitaries converged on Rome for the spectacular ceremony Tuesday morning—the feast day of St. Charles Borromeo, a favorite saint of the new pontiff.

The ceremony will parade all the medieval pageantry of the Roman Catholic Church.

A procession of representatives of all the ancient orders of the church will escort the new pontiff in majestic splendor to the main doors of the basilica.

Once the pontiff passes through the door, borne on his portable throne by scarlet-clad bearers, the crowd's view of the ceremonies will be cut off.

Inside the foyer, the Pope will walk up five red-covered steps to a throne.

Foreign dignitaries will watch from a platform 20 feet to the pontiff's right, while the 51 cardinals present for the coronation go through the long rite of doing reverence to their sovereign.

The Pope will mount the portable throne again to be carried into the basilica itself while the foreign guests are escorted to their places of honor.

On the way to the central altar the Pope will stop to pray at the chapel of the Holy Sacrament on the right side of the basilica. He will be carried then to the chapel of St. Gregory, on the left side of the basilica, where he will be clothed in the brilliant vestments of the coronation.

The pontiff then will be carried to the central altar, stopping on the way to be reminded, by the burning of flax, of the passing glory of the world. The Pope himself will begin the solemn High Pontifical Mass with the recitation of the confiteor at the central altar.

After the mass, the Pope will be carried to the central balcony, overlooking the vast square with hundreds of thousands of cheering spectators.

The three-tiered gold, jewel-encrusted tiara will be placed on the Pope's head. The Pope then will pronounce the benediction urbis et orbis—to the city of Rome and the world.

The ceremonies are expected to last from four to five hours.

Lakeport Shooting Spree Lands Pair In Hospital

LAKEPORT (UPI) — Vernon Thompson, 49, and Kenneth Kuppinger, 9, were in critical condition at Lakeside Community Hospital today in the aftermath of a shooting spree by Thompson, a Lakeport laborer.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Cecil Kuppinger, told police that Thompson, a next-door neighbor, suddenly ran out of his house and fired five shots while the Kuppingers were raking leaves Sunday afternoon. One bullet hit the boy in the stomach.

Three other children of Mrs. Kuppinger and a playmate cowered inside the Kuppinger home while Thompson cursed wildly and shouted at the terrified children inside to "come out since I'm going to kill you anyhow."

Officers Ernest Slate and Harold Westinghouse arrived on the scene minutes later. Thompson had returned inside his home to reload his .25 caliber rifle.

When he ran out again, he ignored the officers' order to drop his weapon and opened fire on the policemen. Slate fired four shots in return. Two of them hit Thompson in the stomach.

The boy and Thompson both underwent surgery Sunday night.

Chief of Police William Apple today revealed that Thompson had been released from jail Tuesday after serving a sentence for driving without a license. Apple said the quick arrival on the scene by his two officers "probably saved several lives."
