Search For Missing Boy Still On After 3 Years

EAST MEADOW, N. Y. (UPI)—Three years ago today the young wife of an Air Force enlisted man carried a loaf of bread out of a Long Island supermarket and then gasped.

The infant daughter, Mrs. Marilyn Damman had left in a baby carriage and the nearly 3-year-old son she had told to wait there was gone. Fearing the boy had pushed the carriage into the traffic she ran frantically around trying to find them.

Soon afterward, a friend and neighbor found the carriage and 7-month-old Pamela behind the supermarket but Pamela, a blond, anemic boy with an impaired walk, was gone.

This was the beginning of the puzzling Stephen Damman case, still very much alive in the files of Nassau County police.

The boy's disappearance touched off a widespread search on the theory for a while and then wandered off and became lost. Hundreds of volunteers, including Air Force buddies of the boy's father, Airman First Class Gerald Damman, then 26, searched but found nothing.

It wasn't long before police tentatively labeled the case a kidnapping. The parents appeared on television stations to make appeals. The sickly boy's identification requirements were printed in newspapers. But nothing tangible ever turned up and today the case is as puzzling as ever.

The clues are about the same but everything else has changed. The Dammans are divorced and Damman no longer is in the Air Force. Mrs. Damman, now 24, is Mrs. Ted Haney, wife of a clerk in the Newton, Iowa, National Guard Armory.

Damman also is back in the farming town of Newk which he and Marilyn returned to after the search appeared hopeless.

Neither of the Dammans has given up hope entirely, but both realize the chances are slim.

Interviewed by telephone, Damman said there always is a "small hope" Stephen will be found. He said time has healed the wounds "in a small way, but never completely."

Damman, now 28, said the heart-breaking developments had nothing to do with the end of his marriage. "It was a matter of personalities," he said.

Mrs. Haney also said she still held some hope for the finding of Stephen, but disagreed sharply on the cause of their divorce. The disappearance had "everything, quite definitely" to do with the split-up, she said.

She said Damman's folks "held it against" her that the child was lost and said Damman told her many times it was her fault the child was taken. She was granted the divorce on the ground of cruelty, charging Damman turned against her after Stephen was lost.

America, Allied Nations Concur On Talk Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Allied nations have agreed on strategy for their talks with the Soviet Union on how to avoid surprise military attacks.

The conference starts in Geneva next week.

The Western plan stresses that the military experts and scientists should first concentrate on studying weapons capability and preventive measures.

Only later would the great powers tackle disputed political issues, such as where and how zones of inspection should be created.

The Western approach appears to be the exact opposite of that charted by the Soviet Union. The negotiations, therefore, will start off with the same dim chances for success as the current East-West talks on ending nuclear weapons testing.

The surprise-attack negotiations aim to prevent the opportunity for any big power to organize and launch in complete secrecy a surprise military force designed to achieve victory in the first hours of war: Both the Soviet Union and the United States in past years have accepted the validity of this idea.

The Western experts say this requires first of all an analysis of the capacity which the great powers will have over the next few years in intercontinental missiles, manned bombers, submarine-launched rockets and similar devices capable of striking atomic bombardment of another country.

If military scientists could agree on the destructive potential of the Western view, they should then be able successfully to analyze the problems of preventing the mass destruction weapons from being used with surprise. They would design a system of ground and aerial inspection teams which in theory, at least, would keep tabs on military developments on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

The Soviet approach to this problem is that the experts should tackle at the outset questions of specific zones such as a Communist-free zone in Eastern Europe, nuclear-free zone in Eastern Europe.

The United States and its allies are prepared to argue that such political matters should be delayed until a second conference.

PTA NEWS

FAIRVIEW

Three speakers were present for the October 23 meeting of the Fairview PTA to talk on health problems of children and the measure in the November election ballot that will seek funds for continuance of maintenance of the community's present parks and recreation areas.

Mrs. Charles Finch spoke on rehabilitation of retarded children, the need for understanding and continued research on "Cystic Fibrosis," the little known and often fatal disease of childhood, and the progress that has been made in medical research.

Bob Bonney, city recreation director, spoke on the measure on the November election ballot that if passed will give added funds for the maintenance of parks and recreation areas.

The meeting, conducted by the president, Mrs. Alice Bradley, was opened with the flag salute led by Bradley Finch and Alan Metzger, sixth grade students. Irma Wauchope, second grade teacher read a poem.

First grade students in the rooms of Mrs. May LaClair, presented nursery rhyme skits and her room won the room count for largest parent attendance.

The next study group meeting will be November 12. The next regular meeting will be on November 20, a night meeting with visits to classrooms planned.

Refreshments were served by sixth grade mothers.

ROOSEVELT

Bob Bonney, city recreation director, met with members of the PTA October 23 to talk on the measure on the November election ballot which could affect the future of Klamath Falls area parks and recreation spots. He traced the development of the recreation program for the last several years.

Mrs. Ernest Bishop opened the meeting with prayer followed by the flag salute led by Mrs. Rex Hatt's Camp Fire Girls.

Mrs. George May, ways and means chairman, announced the school carnival for November 7. There will be 35 booths, a talent show, games for preschool children in the basement, cafeteria and pie and coffee in the prizes.

Mrs. R. Frank Tucker, orientation teacher at Klamath Union High School, spoke on personality development and mental health.

YREKA ELEMENTARY

YREKA — The need for higher standards in education was emphasized by Dr. Alva Graham of Southern Oregon College, when he recently appeared as a guest speaker at the meeting of the Yreka Elementary School Parent Teachers Association, at the Jackson Street School in Yreka.

Dr. Graham's subject was "Changes in Education since Sputnik," and he stressed that not only the best students, but everyone should have the opportunity to acquire a higher education, especially in languages, science, mathematics and social science.

Presentation of the flag during the business session was by Girl Scout Troop 239, led by Mrs. Carl Franson and Mrs. Jack Messner. Flag bearers were Carol Coleman, Carol Hunter and Mary Etta Schultz. Mrs. Fred Caldwell read the inspirational message taken from the Psalms.

Mrs. Fred Messner, P.T.A. membership chairman, reported that 400 parents and teachers had become members of the P.T.A.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. J. D. Landrum, Mrs. Ed Patrick and Mrs. U. E. Stanshaw, who had used the Halloween motif for decorations.

Portlander Tells Penguin Total

PORTLAND (AP)—Jack Marks said by radio-telephone from Antarctica Sunday that he has caught 30 birds on his latest penguin-hunting expedition.

Earlier reports said Marks so far had captured 38 small Adelle penguins.

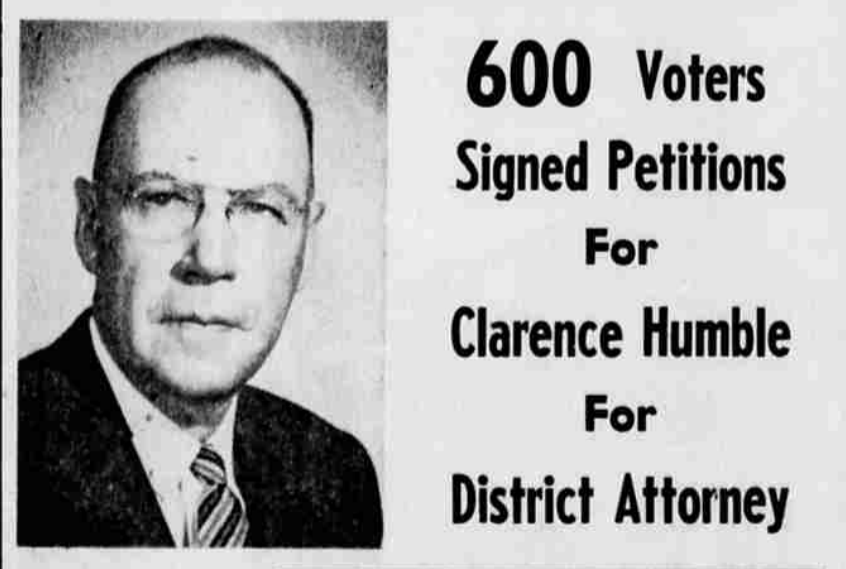

However, Sunday he said in a conversation with his wife here that he had gotten only 30 penguins, but hoped soon to catch some large Emperors.

The phone-radio conversation was hooked up here by a ham operator.

PARTY ABANDONED

McCLOUD — McCloud Area Legion, Cheula Post No. 92 members voted to again forego the holding of a Christmas party, this year. Instead of the party the post is asking for suggestions, from residents of the area, for a worthwhile project upon which they may expend funds in a comparable amount. Any suggestions will be given to Robert Martin, commander, or any local Legionnaire.

VOTE FOR Fred H. Heilbronner for County Commissioner

I have lived in Klamath County 53 years, raised my family here and operated my own fuel business for 36 years. Klamath County has been good to me and now that I have the Time and Energy I would like to work for the people of the County as your Commissioner.

This is a big county from Gilchrist on the North to the California State Line, from Greensprings to the Lake County Line, but I have a car and will travel to work this a good County for you to live, to make and raise your families.

- I will work for keeping O.T.I. in Klamath County.
- I will work to continue our road program to all parts of the County, to improve our recreation areas and our tourist attractions.
- I will work to keep your taxes at the lowest possible level and provide the necessary services.
- I will appreciate your vote for me for County Commissioner.
