

Firms Asked For Support

DUNSMUIR — Organizations and business firms in the Dunsmuir area are being contacted this week for support of Dunsmuir's participation in the American Field Service and foreign student program.

Last year the Dunsmuir Women's Club sponsored a foreign student, Ulla Bernsten of Sweden, and aided Susan Thom, a Dunsmuir High School student, who participated in the AFS summer program in Europe this summer.

This year Dunsmuir is host to Dieter Heinrich of Frankfurt, Germany, and his stay is a community-wide project. Brunel stated, The chamber of commerce endorsed the project and assisted in arranging for Dieter's arrival. The Dunsmuir Women's Club and high school PTA have already promised assistance.

An American Field Service foreign student pays for his transportation from his home to the United States and becomes a member of a family during his stay without reimbursement to his "American" parents. Funds needed by the sponsoring group are to pay for his transportation within the United States and incidental expenses. Brunel explained, About $650 is needed for this year's project and to start a fund for continuation of the program in Dunsmuir.

The American Field Service, which began as a voluntary ambulance workers organization in World War I, has taken the foreign student program as a means of promoting peace.

Teachers Group Schedules Meet

A meeting of the Klamath County Intermediate Teachers Association is scheduled for Saturday, November 8, at Altamont School. A coffee hour from 9:30 to 10 a. m. will precede the business meeting and program.

Teachers of intermediate grades will display student's work on forest conservation; this year's project on conservation. Conservation topics over a five-year period include forests, soil, water, wildlife and irreplaceable resources. Lois McGourty will be in charge of displays.

There will be a preview of the handbook, "Art Education in Elementary Grades," by Chloquin grade school teachers, Rosalie Hoback, Agnes Pfeiffer and James Rockholt. A film, "The Loom's Necklace," will be presented. There will also be a display of Indian art.

Peterson School is providing the Smokey Bear identification cards for the teachers attending.

'Hams' Hosted By Radio Club

McCLOUD — Members of the Mount Shasta Radio Club were hosts to amateur radio operators from other Siskiyou County towns on November 1. The meeting was held at the Catholic Church Parish Hall.

Visitors from Yreka who attended the dinner meeting were Lynn Roberts, county civil defense director, and Dick Stockton, county civil defense radio officer. Others attending were Bruce McCuen, Weed; Hubert Franklin, McCloud; Elden Poe and family, Dick Van Laven and his mother, Mrs. McKibben, James La Porta, Bert Sousa, Gene Lensing, Ed Stockton and Ted Graves, all of Mount Shasta.

This was the first meeting of the group and plans were made to hold others in various towns throughout the county.

LIFTING OPERATIONS
McCLOUD — Karl Lanquist, Mount Shasta Forest Tree Nursery superintendent, announced 28 employees are presently engaged in lifting and shipping 2-year-old pine seedlings at the nursery east of McCloud. When completed, the workers will have lifted and crated for shipment about four million small trees. They are being shipped all over California, according to Lanquist. New acreage, presently being cleared, will add about 10 per cent more growing area at the nursery.

Young Metropolitan Star Said Man Of Many Voices

Albert Da Costa, the young Metropolitan star who will sing here Thursday, November 6, at the Pelican Theater under auspices of the Community Concert Association, is a man of many voices.

During his lifetime of less than 30 years Da Costa has sung publicly in every range in both clefs, from soprano to bass, and he has changed his voice no less than five times. He is now a dramatic tenor.

Education Meet Slated

Approximately 300 persons have been invited to attend a conference on secondary education called by Governor Holmes at Salem on November 6 and 7.

Among those expected to attend from Klamath Falls are Mrs. V. E. O'Neill, Mrs. Paul Buck, Mrs. Arthur Moore, Winston D. Purvine, Carrol Howe and Arnold L. Gralamp.

The conference will devote its attention to facts, figures and the future of secondary education in Oregon. At least three-fourths of the conference participants will be non-educators.

Dr. James B. Conant, former president of Harvard University, will be the banquet speaker. He will emphasize the ways the comprehensive high school can serve present needs. His remarks will be based on findings derived from a year-long study of the American high school system which brought him to Oregon early this year.

Dr. John R. Ludington, U.S. Office of Education, on Friday afternoon will compare Russian and U.S. education, basing his remarks on a recent six-week tour of Russian schools.

Agriculture Boss Gives Guest Talk

MONTAGUE — Jess Grisham, Siskiyou County agricultural commissioner, Yreka, appeared as guest speaker before members of the Shasta Valley Farm Center Tuesday evening, October 28, at the Montague Auditorium.

Sedg Nelson, farm adviser of Siskiyou County, discussed the difference of calf feeding on loose and pellet hay.

During the business session, election of officers was held which resulted with the current officers being reelected for another term of office. They are Brice Martin, chairman; Roland Dexter, vice chairman; June Severns, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. George Fiock was elected as the new delegate to represent the Shasta Valley Farm Center at conventions during the coming year.

and that he says, is where he intends to stay.

He began as a boy soprano and has many male opera stars. During his childhood he was a soloist in a children's choir in his hometown Episcopal Church in Amsterdam, New York. Later in his teens his voice deepened to alto.

After a three-year service during wartime with the Navy, when he sang at many service camps and war bond rallies, Da Costa decided to take up music as a career. He trained at the Juilliard School of Music in Manhattan as a basso. He became a pupil of private teachers when he began to climb back up the clef, to bass-baritone, then to baritone. He entered the Metropolitan Opera 1951 Auditions of the Air to make an impressive showing as a baritone but judges urged him to shift to the tenor register. He was then in his early 20s.

The decision to change brought a terrific response in his voice which began to open up and flow freely and naturally. He returned to the Auditions of the Air in 1954 and this time as a dramatic tenor, earned first place.

From that time his career has skyrocketed. Following his debut performances in small roles in "Tristan," and "Parsifal," the management gave him the break that every singer dreams of. He was given the assignment of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger."

The triumphs he scored on that occasion marked the emergence of an important new star on the Metropolitan stage.

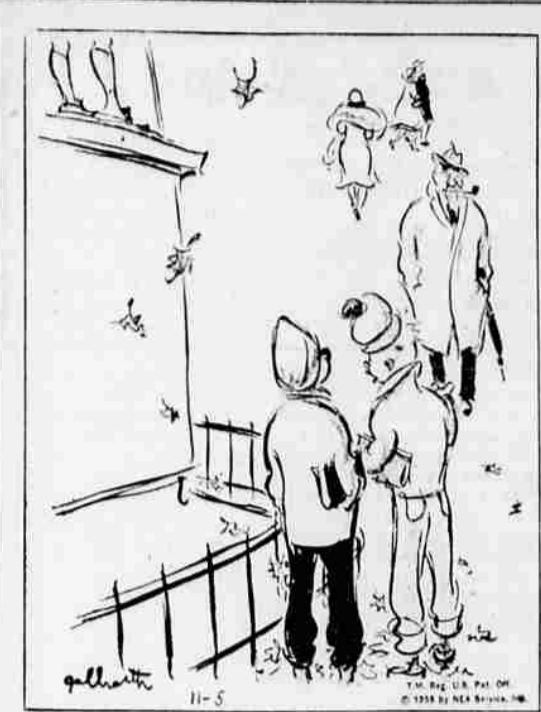

Admission to Thursday's concert will be by membership tickets only.

Timber Auction Slated Friday

Sale at oral auction of 22 million board feet of timber from the Nannie Creek Drainage will take place at the office of the district forest ranger, Friday, beginning at 10:30 a. m.

The timber offered for sale is estimated to include 2,400,000 board feet of Ponderosa pine, 1,100,000 board feet of sugar pine and western white pine, 2,500,000 board feet of Douglas fir and 8,200,000 board feet of white fir and other species. Gilchrist High News

The three-act comedy, "Curtain Going Up," by Gregory Johnston, under the direction of Anne Dolezal, will be presented Friday, November 7, at 7:30 p. m.

"Curtain Going Up" is similar to the Thornton Wilder production, "Our Town," in that stage props are kept at a minimum.

Miss Burgess, the pretty new teacher at Riverview High, played by Sharon Hitt, faces all sorts of obstacles in producing her first play. Among them are a "professional" actress with plenty of advice; an eccentric, crochety janitor; the disappearance of the play books; some very crossed-up high school romances; and a banker's daughter driven to theft by her father's ambitions.

"Curtain Going Up" is the story of the production of a high school play in comic terms with the action taking place in the audience as well as on stage.

Buffalo steaks are served by many restaurants in the Black Hills of South Dakota. But one drive-in offers buffalo chow mein.
