

HERE'S even cleaning magic come true. Frigidaire designers waved the wand and this is what happened: Milady pulls the entire oven out of the range cabinet where she can clean it easily, without stretching or stooping. The top lifts off so that even the back wall of the oven is completely accessible. This exciting development is featured in Frigidaire's new 40-inch electric ranges for 1959. Custom Imperial model shown here also features automatic spatter-free broiler and wide variety of other automatic controls to make cooking a breeze.

Home Appliances By Frigidaire

New home appliances for 1959, highlighted by electric ranges with a revolutionary oven that pulls out for easy cleaning, are announced by Herman F. Lehman, Frigidaire's general manager and General Motors vice president.

Frigidaire is currently introducing four new lines of products, which are packed with meaningful design and styling ideas. There are nine new electric ranges; 11 refrigerators including two Frost-Proof combinations with frostless freezing systems; six upright and chest food freezers, and 11 room air conditioners.

In describing the new ranges with pull-out ovens, Lehman emphasized that the unique design "marks a new concept in convenience for homemakers that not only minimizes drudgery but speeds up even cleaning by as much as 50 per cent."

For cleaning, the homemaker simply pulls out the entire oven.

Cranberry Relish

Homemade cranberry sauce dressed up with spices and California Sherry wine makes a Spiced Cranberry Relish that's unbelievably delicious. Make this a day ahead to ease the Thanksgiving day rush. And make plenty—this goes fast!

Remember, too, the other ways Sherry adds to holiday enjoyment. A glass of dry Sherry makes a pleasing appetizer before the festive meal; and sweet Sherry is an agreeable accompaniment to pumpkin or mince pies.

WINTER SALAD

Wash 1 small head of cauliflower and bread into small pieces. Cook 5 minutes only in boiling salted water. Drain. Combine with a No. 2 can of pineapple chunks, well-drained. Pour 1/2 cup French dressing over the combination and chill. Just before serving, lightly mix in 1/4 cup sliced stuffed green olives. Arrange on a bed of greens. Serves 6. No additional dressing is needed. An Italian type dressing makes a prettier salad than a red, red French dressing.

DATE SURPRISE

For an easy holiday confection, stuff pitted dates with a filling of creamed cheese mixed with drained crushed pineapple, half and half.

Pidgin English Is Unruly, But Very Useful Language

LONDON (AP) — Fella belong Mrs. Queen, he say pidgin English is still a useful means of communication.

The British Colonial Office couldn't agree more. In places like the Solomon Islands, which have several dozen different languages, everybody understands pidgin.

The administrative officers in local districts accordingly translate orders from London into pidgin so the natives can understand what is wanted of them.

The fella belong Mrs. Queen, is of course, her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. He was so described by natives he met on his Pacific tour two years ago. Recalling this in a speech to the English-speaking union, he called pidgin a splendid language.

Its origins, however, are far from splendid.

Pidgin was developed by English traders of the 17th century as a means of talking business with the coastal Chinese. "Pidgin" itself is believed to be a Chinese corruption of "business."

The traders were mostly uneducated men who held the British view that a foreigner can understand English if you only shout it loudly enough at him.

The crews of the trading ships were illiterate slum types. They made extensive contributions to pidgin.

"As a result," says the Encyclopedia Britannica, "it is an unruly, bastard jargon, filled with nursery imbecilities, vulgarisms and corruptions."

Nevertheless it is spoken by millions of natives.

Pidgin is easy to learn. U. S. soldiers in the Southwest Pacific were supplied with a pidgin handbook. One example:

"Yufela yu stand fast. Yu no can walkabout. Suppose yufela walkabout me killim yu long musket."

As any fool can plainly see, that means "Don't move or I'll shoot."

FEATHER SHOES

Fancy footwear takes a fat pocketbook when designed by Levine. One-of-a-kind pumps were featured as a prop for a jeweled butterfly clip in Tiffany's window recently. The shoes, made of eyes from peacock tail feathers, cost $900.

Former Skating Titlist Now Successful Designer

By GAY PAULEY
NEW YORK (UPI) — Three years ago Sheila Muldowny traded her ice skates for a sketching pad.

Today, the New York debutante and figure skating titlist is a successful designer of clothes for the active sportsman.

"I'm trying to put some fashion into sports wear," said the pretty, dark-haired designer. "Goodness knows the field is wide open. All of us are so used to the conventional. The white tennis dress, the velvet skating skirt with bulky quilted lining. Most of the designers of skating clothes never were on a rink."

"Am I trying to make the clothes sexy? Now I ask you. How sexy can a woman be when she's beating a man on the tennis courts?"

"But I do think active sports-wear should be beautiful, as well as comfortable and practical."

The 23-year-old skater had made her own costumes for years before she turned fashion "pro." Her fall and winter collection, sold in better stores across the nation, concentrates on skating fashions. But for spring, she will make clothes for other sports, including tennis and golf.

She feels that skating alone offers a big sales potential. "More and more people are taking it up," she said. "Did you know that last winter Wollman Rink (a public rink in Central Park) drew 375,000? And look at the crowds always in Rockefeller Center."

Her first collection of skating wear was in wool jersey, but now she includes wool plaids. All are designed for mix and match coordinating.

Sheila Muldowny has been skating since she was five—"I think I was born with a silver skate in my mouth," she laughed.

She also was born with silver spoon. Her father is chairman of the board of Telerey Tube Co., which makes television tubes. She attended fashionable Brearley, a private school on Manhattan's Upper East Side. She made her debut at the junior assemblies in 1953.

The designer, who is five feet two inches and a well-proportioned 110 pounds, is a U. S. gold medalist in figure skating, won the Eastern States Senior Women's championship in 1953, and the Swiss international title in 1954. She also designed the first uniform to be worn by a U. S. Olympic figure skating team.
