

THIS DRAWING TOOK FIRST PLACE in the fourth grade category in the exhibit of Oregon school children's art that was part of the 1958 state fair. It is the work of Dennis Gooing, done while he was in the class of Mrs. Verna Long at Fremont School. The work displayed at the fair was selected by local school authorities to represent their districts. Locally, Howard Hall, KUHS art instructor, and Gordon Kensler, school district art supervisor, selected 22 entries from the annual school art exhibit held in the spring. Dennis was one of three Klamath Falls entries to take a first place.

Pay Increase Due Workers

Wage increases are in immediate prospect for civilian workers at Kingsley Field as a result of a wage survey conducted there recently.

The increases will range from 10 to 13 cents an hour and are to be effective on the first pay period after November 7.

The Army and Air Force Wage Board conducted a survey of installations in the Klamath Falls-Medford area which brought about the increases, base commander Col. Jack Williams said.

Under government classification, wage board employees will get a 10 cent increase, amounting to 4.58 per cent; wage foreman employees will be increased 13 cents an hour, 4.3 per cent; and wage leader employees will receive about 11 cents an hour more, or an increase of 4.62 per cent.

The survey here was conducted under John W. Sinders, chief of the personnel division, VA Domiciliary, Camp White, Oregon, Colonel Williams said.

Polisher Of Ike's Talks Notes Hard Work By Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower does a lot of work on his speeches, says the man who turns out the finished product.

Malcolm C. Moos only laughed when asked whether it was he who had suggested the new campaign approach which Eisenhower used last month. Eisenhower hit harder than usual then at Democrats, using such terms as "spendthrift government and left-wing radicals."

Moos said he had no comment, but quickly added that Eisenhower "knows what he is doing. One should never underestimate him."

He brushed aside the notion that he was a ghost writer in the popular sense for Eisenhower. He first gets from the President himself the rough outline for a presidential speech, and then goes to work to whip it into shape.

"But," Moos said, "the President works over his speeches intensively after he gets the rough draft. He dictates great sections of it at times. He puts himself into it."

Moos said Eisenhower is extremely talented in the organizational structure of his speeches.

"He throws off a lot of sparks on ideas, how he wants to approach a subject, what he wants to say, the kind of research needed and the structure," Moos said.

Moos is new at his job. A professor of political science at Johns Hopkins University, he began his present duties in September.

Moos, 42 and a native of St. Paul, Minn., earned his Ph.D. at the University of California after taking bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of Minnesota.

Man Found Guilty Of Drunk Driving

Ned W. Davis, 38, 328 McKinley Street, was found guilty of driving under the influence of alcohol in a district court jury trial Thursday.

The six-member jury heard evidence for less than an hour and a half and returned its verdict within 10 minutes after being charged by District Judge D. E. Van Vactor.

Davis was arrested October 10 by state police on South Sixth Street just beyond Summers Lane. He was fined $150 and placed on probation for one year.

Prisoners Taken To Institutions

Deputy Sheriff Fred Calfee left for Salem Thursday with two prisoners from Klamath County.

They were Lee Arnold Craig, 52, transient, sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary for forgery, and Clifford Barkley, 45, Chilquim, charged with rape of a 4-year-old girl and ordered to the state hospital at Salem for an indefinite period of observation.

Barkley was ordered to the hospital only a few hours before he left.

Polish Leader To Be Asked To Explain Latest Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will ask Polish leader Wladyslaw Gomulka to explain his move in joining Russia to denounce American policies as endangering world peace.

Gomulka's remarks made Wednesday after talks in Moscow with Premier Khrushchev, have disturbed top State Department officials.

Authorities are particularly upset over his outspoken support for new Soviet demands for an end to four-power control of Berlin.

His denunciation of "American Imperialists" comes at a time when Poland has appealed for more economic aid to bolster its shaky economy.

During the past two years, the United States has extended 193 million dollars in aid to Poland, mainly surplus food, cotton and machinery. This aid, given despite some congressional opposition, has gone to help Gomulka with his professed objective of leading Poland toward more independence from Russia.

Jacob Beam, U.S. ambassador to Poland, returned Sunday for consultations with the State Department on Polish-American relations. His trip, scheduled for several weeks, preceded Gomulka's recent utterances, however, and informants said the trip is not connected with dissatisfaction over Gomulka's remarks.

Most officials played down the possibility the Eisenhower administration would suddenly end its aid program.

Their tentative conclusion was that Gomulka echoed Moscow's line in order to survive and continue his drive to increase his nation's independence.

Despite this understanding of delicate position, authorities nevertheless believe he should stick to the facts. Instead, they said, he teamed up with Khrushchev in a distorted effort to blame all the world's ills on the United States.

Responsible State Department authorities closely followed Gomulka's 18-day stay in Moscow for conferences with Khrushchev.

They more or less shrugged off the joint Soviet-Polish communique afterwards which assailed American policies, even though Gomulka supported Soviet denunciations of U.S. moves in the Formosa area.

Gomulka's speech in Warsaw on returning Wednesday, however, is looked upon as even more anti-American.
