HENLEY BEEF CLUB

Election of officers highlighted the first full meeting of the Henley Beef Club which was held at Bill and Linda Taylor's on November 9. President for the new year is Bob Brower, with Don Breithaupt, vice president; Carolyn Brower, secretary; Sandra Woodard, treasurer; Lila Ritter, news reporter; and David Woodard, song leader.

Our leader, Dale Williams, handed back our old record book covers and will have the new record books at our next meeting which will be at Phillip Dixon's on December 14, at 1:30. Calves will be weighed at our next meeting and Mrs. Ritter has volunteered to take the members around to help weigh the calves.

We discussed the demonstration contest and decided to wait until we had more information. Interested members should find a suitable subject by the next meeting. A dance was suggested as a money-making project, and a committee of Linda Taylor, Sandra Woodard and Carolyn Brower were appointed and is to report at the next meeting.

Rope halters were made by the members who brought one-half inch rope, and all calves are to be taught to lead by next meeting.

At the close of the meeting, our new song leader, David Woodard, led the members in "Home on the Range." Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Taylor.

CAMP FIRE NEWS

CENTRAL DISTRICT

The regular monthly meeting of the Central District Camp Fire Leaders' Association was held November 6 in the county library lecture room under Mrs. Louise Homer, chairman.

Final plans were made for a Dad-Daughter banquet to be held November 18 at the fairgrounds. Mrs. Dolly Moore, field representative, discussed "Trees" in keeping with the Camp Fire Girls' national project, "The World Around Her."

Mrs. Homer installed these new officers for the coming year: Mrs. Robert Clark, chairman; Mrs. A. M. Cherry, vice chairman; Mrs. E. R. Wilcox, secretary; and Mrs. Katherine Collins, treasurer.

Mrs. R. L. Harris and Mrs. Bernard Fiegl served homemade cookies and coffee on a table carrying out the Thanksgiving theme.

Home Extension

Klamath County homemakers are having a lesson on color during meetings which are being held throughout the county during November. Leaders were trained at meetings held at the fairgrounds October 28, 29 and 30.

To appreciate and become more conscious of color in everyday living, to be able to know and understand color, and to be able to use color in pleasing relationships are the basic objectives that homemakers are learning from the lesson.

Just as an object has thickness, length and breadth, homemakers are learning that color has three dimensions also. Hue is the name of the color and tells how warm or cool a color is. Value tells how light or dark the color is and intensity tells how bright or dull a color. They are learning that the value of a color is changed by adding white or water to the true color making it lighter or by adding black to the color to make it darker. These are called tints and shades. A color can be no brighter than its true color and homemakers are learning that to dull a color, the complement must be added to gray it.

When colors are combined in related or contrasting color harmonies, the general rule is that the larger the area the color is to occupy the duller the color and the smaller the area the brighter the color.

This lesson was made available through the Agricultural Extension Service and those interested in this material and in participating in the home program may receive the information by calling at the county extension office in Room 217 of the Federal Building or by phoning TU 4-8151.

TULELAKE

What is acceptable in finished garments? This and many other questions concerning the 4-H clothing project were answered during a special 4-H clothing leader training meeting conducted by Margaret Kohl, state 4-H specialist, recently at the Tulelake Field Station.

Clothing leaders who attended the day-long meeting were Ileen Buckingham, Dorothy Hartly, Frankie Workman, and Violet Hurlburt of the Tulelake 4-H Club; Frankie Porterfield, Esther Soss of the Home-stead 4-H Club; Mildred Dingler, Betty Baghot, Becky Binabarger of the Lava Beds Club; and Frances Cross and Olive Holbrook of the Butte Valley Club.

The first part of the training meeting was devoted to a discussion of the 4-H clothing project organization and available literature. The balance of the program concerned the study of finished garments and problems related to teaching the project.

Each year training is provided for Tulelake's 4-H clothing leaders who are teaching the 60 4-H members carrying the clothing project. The Tulelake 4-H Club Council requested this training program and it was provided for by the Siskiyou and Medoc counties farm advisers' offices.

LEADERS' ASSOCIATION

The regular meeting of the Klamath County 4-H Leaders' Association was held with 17 members and junior leaders present. Charles Merritt announced that the following persons would serve on the nominating committee to select officers for the coming year:

Frances Campbell, chairman, Betty High and Stanley Masten.

Following the business meeting Miss Lillian Hoffman and Francis E. Skinner, 4-H agents, led a discussion on knowing and understanding 4-H members. Miss Hoffman conducted the phase on "Understanding Club Members." Skinner centered his discussion around the "Club Members Together."

Bulletins covering this subject matter are available at the 4-H club office.

Some discussion was also given to the importance of junior leaders in the group and how best to use the talents of junior leaders. It was pointed out that there has been a change in the age limit of junior leaders and they must be in the ninth grade in high school. Along this same thought in regard to older club members, Skinner displayed literature which embodies a program for older club members called 4-H Empire Builders.

Skinner also had a copy of the new secretary's record book which he showed and explained to those present. It contains a suggested constitution and gives the requirements and goals for a standard 4-H club.

Refreshments were served by the leaders from Keno, Fairhaven and Lindley Heights.
