Chums Fete Cold Sufferer

HALIFAX, England (UPI)—Matthew Sutcliffe, a railway porter, caught cold one blustery March day in 1928 and went to bed to shake it off.

Except for his mother that was the last time anyone saw him until Thursday. Sutcliffe, now 52, stayed in bed.

His neighbors in Nelson Street turned out in mass Thursday when he appeared on the street for the first time in 30 years to accompany his 82-year-old mother Mrs. Annie Sutcliffe, to a hospital.

The doctors had decided Mrs. Sutcliffe was too old to live on her own and sent an ambulance after her. They did not know about her son until the ambulance called.

Sutcliffe, who bedded down in the same hospital, told a reporter: "I was very happy at home and never really wanted to go out. Mother looked after me very well."

He said his main interest during his 30 years in bed was to "read all the newspapers" and follow the soccer scores.

Solon To Ask For Probe Of J. E. Hoover Smear

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) said today he will ask the Senate Internal Security subcommittee to investigate "a deliberate smear campaign against J. Edgar Hoover and the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

Butler, a member of the Senate investigating group, listed three recent moves which he said he regarded as critical of Hoover and the FBI.

"It seems to me that the American people are entitled to know the origin of the vicious smear campaign, who is behind it and how it is financed," he said.

Butler called attention to a 60-page article in the Oct. 18 issue of The Nation magazine. He said the article consisted "largely of misrepresentations, distortions, half truths and innuendoes obviously designed to damage the FBI's reputation." He said thousands of extra copies of the magazine were printed and said the Senate committee should determine "who contributed the money for such a large printing."

When a charge similar to Butler's was made a month ago by Preston J. Moore, national commander of the American Legion, Carey McWilliams, editor of The Nation said the issue "was in no sense a smear job on the FBI."

Butler said another attack will be made by the New York Post. "I am reliably informed," Butler said, "that reporters for the Post are seeking out former FBI agents and asking the most repulsive questions imaginable concerning Mr. Hoover. No self-respecting newspaper would permit such questions to be asked."

James A. Wechsler, editor of the Post said of Butler's statement: "This is the latest in a series of attacks apparently designed to discredit an independent study of Mr. Hoover and the FBI even before the research has been completed and the articles written."

"As I have pointed out in response to earlier attacks, the simple fact is that the Post is preparing a comprehensive study of the FBI director and his organization. We are interviewing a wide variety of sources in an effort to obtain a complete and balanced report. We trust Mr. Hoover does not share the view that he, unlike all other government officials, should be immune to objective reporting."

Butler said the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee has announced "its intention of joining this smear campaign through its official magazine."

Replying to Moore's assertion last month, Clark Foreman, director of the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee, said articles on the FBI had been prepared for the October issue but it had been decided to hold them until spring. He said the material would outline citizens rights under the Constitution. Foreman said some people had complained that they had been "harassed by agents."
