STOCKS

WALL STREET NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market closed generally higher in active trading today. The ticker tape was late. Volume for the day was estimated at 4,500,000 shares compared with 4,000,000 Wednesday. Gains of key stocks went from fractions to about a point but plenty of losers remained from the previous irregularity. Youngstown halved a 4 1/2-point loss which followed the court news and Bethlehem canceled all but a fraction of a 1-point dip. U.S. Steel was slightly lower while Republic and Jones & Laughlin added fractions. Magna spurred two points while Anaconda and Phelps Dodge were a point or more higher. Except for Union Carbide, which dipped slightly, chemicals did well. Gains around a point were scored by American Cyanamid, Air Reduction and Allied Chemical.

Heir Decides To Quit Job

NEW YORK (AP) - John B. Gaull, who inherited a 2 1/2 million dollar fortune, has decided for the second time to doff his patrolman's uniform. Gaull, 39, resigned from the police force last February to administer the estate of his late uncle, Dr. Julian A. Gaull, of Roxbury, N.Y. The uncle had made Gaull, married and father of two sons, his chief beneficiary. Later, Gaull applied for reinstatement because litigation over the will had developed. When the will contest was settled last October, Gaull said he was going to stay on the force. However, Gaull resigned Wednesday. He had resigned again, with no plans other than "to live out of town and continue my education."

Nation Told Help Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The nation was on notice today that more money and effort are needed to clean up dirty air over its cities. The first National Conference on Air Pollution got that word from Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education, and welfare. "The only way to make progress is to translate our convictions into dollars," Flemming told the 900 delegates. The three-day conference, which would open Thursday night, was called by the U.S. Public Health Service, a division of Flemming's department, to arouse public interest in the air pollution problem. Dr. Leroy E. Burney, the service's chief, called the session "highly successful" and promised his agency will give "most careful consideration" to its recommendations. He said the conference's proposals should serve as guidelines for future action by his own agency, state and local governments, industry and other groups. The delegates' major recommendation was for more research into the causes, effects and possible cures for air contamination which costs the nation an estimated $7,500,000,000 a year. They called in particular for "vigorous" work by the automobile industry on ways to curb exhaust fumes from motor vehicles, and for more research and information from medical groups on health hazards from dirty air. Some officials from the Los Angeles area, who blamed auto and truck exhaust for much of its smog problem, contended the conference did not go far enough in urging controls for exhaust fumes. Harold W. Kennedy, attorney for the Los Angeles County Air Pollution District, said the delegates "didn't face up to the serious health menace from auto exhausts." They called for the automobile industry on ways to curb exhaust fumes from motor vehicles, and for more research and information from medical groups on health hazards from dirty air.

Search May End Today

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - The search for three Boy Scouts missing since Saturday in the snowy Santa Rita Mountains may end today. "I don't see how the boys could possibly be alive in this freezing weather," Sheriff James W. Clark said. "If we don't find them in the next two days, there's not much chance of finding them" until spring. He said the organized search would end today unless new leads were found. Thursday night bloodhounds picked up a scent on the 7,000-foot level of 9,400-foot Mt. Baldy, where the youngsters were last seen. "I don't want to arouse false hopes but the dogs did uncover something," said Russ Cone, 40, and Tom Cox, both of Los Gatos, Calif., arrived at search headquarters Thursday with their bloodhounds. Cone indicated the scent was found in an area previously overlooked. The dogs were to resume tracking at dawn. Missing are Mike Early, 16, David Greenberg, 12, and Michael La Nore, 13, all of Tucson troop 79. They undertook a mountain-climbing expedition - against the advice of their scoutmaster - with three other scouts. The others turned back after a driving snowstorm hit the mountains Saturday afternoon.

Witness Balks; Charges Dropped

Assault and battery charges against Charles Gaymon Jr. were dismissed in district court Thursday because a complaining witness failed to appear. Evelyn Larson, 20, who gave officers a Portland address, charged that Gaymon struck her on the jaw the night of November 12 following an argument on Broad Street. Also during the argument, Gaymon and Vincent Hunt, 19, both were cut with knives and both required hospitalization. Gaymon, 33-year-old resident of 324 Broad Street, originally was scheduled for trial last week. The trial was postponed because his attorney was called out of town. The failure of Miss Larson to appear in court to support her charges resulted in Judge D. E. Van Vactor's dismissal of the case, and his order that Gaymon be released from county jail.

Panel Demonstration

MERRILL - A panel demonstration on Christmas decorations will be sponsored by the Merrill Lost River Garden Club at the Merrill Recreation Hall, Tuesday evening, November 27. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. Included on the demonstration program will be hints and ideas on how to make wreaths, wags, kissing balls, corages and door and mantel decor. Anyone interested in the project is cordially invited to attend.

Vacationing President Ike Seeking Elusive Par Game

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - Vacationing President Eisenhower takes out after par again today at one of America's most testing golf courses. Relaxing in a kind of old-shoe comfort at the Augusta National Golf Club, the President played 18 holes shortly after arrival from Washington Thursday afternoon. The weather was just about ideal - brilliant sun with the temperature in the mid-seventies. The forecast is for more of the same. The President is being joined today by Mrs. Eisenhower, who delayed her departure from the White House to be hostess at a luncheon for United Nations women delegates. The Eisenhowers plan a 10-day stay, through the Thanksgiving day weekend, at the club where they have spent many vacations. The temporary White House once again is a cozy white frame cottage - called "Mamie's Cabin" - near the 10th tee. This is the President's 21st visit to Augusta since he was elected six years ago. Next week his golf may be mixed with business conferences - sessions with government officials expected from Washington for discussion of the legislative program and the budget Eisenhower will send to Congress in January. But press secretary James C.

Pair Injured In Accident

The job-hunting trip of Leon Marellano, 26, bound from Edinburg, Texas, to Sunnyside, Washington, with his wife nearly ended in tragedy near Chilquin Thursday morning. As it was, the couple lost their car when it rolled over after hitting a slick spot on Highway 97, but escaped serious injury. Marellano and his wife, Silvestra, 27, made their way to Chilquin after the accident which apparently occurred at about 5:30 a.m. State police were unable to make a complete report on the accident as they learned about it only after the Marellanos reached Chilquin. However, it appears that the car was totally demolished and that the Marellanos were thrown from the vehicle. They were brought by Peace Ambulance to Klamath Valley Hospital Thursday afternoon. Hospital authorities reported Friday morning that Marellano had sustained a back injury but was "doing all right." His wife apparently suffered superficial injuries and a general shaking up. Only Mrs. Marellano speaks fluent English, the couple's native language being Spanish. They were making their way to what they hoped was a new job for Marellano, by his working at odd jobs along the way. They are now fund-less and car-less, but should receive some help from the county welfare office and the state motor vehicle accident fund.

Next Move Up To Reds

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - East and West maneuvered today over the composition of a U.N. committee to make recommendations for international cooperation in outer space exploration. It was Moscow's next move. Negotiations were held up while Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valentin Zorin awaited the Kremlin's reactions to concessions offered Thursday by the United States and 19 nations associated with it in an outer space proposal before the U.N. Assembly. The U.S. group agreed in principle for the first time to a Soviet proposal to create a permanent U.N. committee for international cooperation in exploration of outer space for peaceful purposes. But the 20 nations did not go along with the Soviet suggestion on the makeup of a preparatory group that would study and recommend means of using outer space peacefully. The West felt the list of 11 nations the Soviet Union suggested would give her at least six possible votes on some disputed questions. The Soviet list included the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union as major powers, India, the United Arab Republic and Sweden as neutrals, Argentina for Latin America, and Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia for the Communist bloc. Delegates said they expected there would be several private exchanges, particularly on the committee lineup, before any agreement is reached.

Music Educators Meeting Slated

The Southern Oregon Music Educators Association will conduct its annual fall meeting in Churchill Hall on the Northern Oregon College campus Saturday, Herbert Cecil, chairman of the association and SOC Music Department staff member, announces. School music teachers from Jackson, Klamath, Lake, Josephine and Douglas counties will attend. The organization is concerned with all musical activities in the public schools and is especially concerned with the organization of the annual spring music contests. COPPERTS FORCED DOWN MOUNT SHASTA - Heavy pea soup fog caused five Army helicopters to land at the Faun Club, about five miles north of Mount Shasta, yesterday morning about 11:30. The group of six airmen, under the command of Capt. J. C. Claunch, was en route from Fort Worth, Texas, to Fort Lewis, Washington. They were following Highway 99 from Red Bluff when they had to make the emergency landing. The fog, at press time, was still so thick that the airmen were not able to continue on their way to Washington. J. O. McKinney, Herald and News correspondent, stated that visibility was less than 100 yards with automobile headlights.

ELECTED CHAIRMAN

At the recent annual meeting of the Oregon Music Educators Association, held in McMinnville, LaMar K. Jensen, band director at Fremont Junior High School and Klamath Union High School, was elected band chairman of the state organization. This position involves overseeing state band affairs, including organization of the All-State Band and responsibility for a column in the Oregon Music Journal. Jensen has long been active in music education affairs of the state, having served as chairman of the Southern Oregon District last year.

Miss Ouska produced five large envelopes which contained check stubs and other papers having a bearing on Beck-Shefferman transactions. The government, which accuses Beck of evading $240,000 in income taxes during 1950-53, is expected to attempt to place each document into the trial record.

Chicago Man, Beck Linked

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) - David Daniel Beck Sr., was one of some 400 persons who could get it wholesale from Nathan Shefferman, Chicago labor relations consultant, testimony in Beck's income tax evasion trial showed Thursday. Miss Florence Ouska, tall, bespectacled bookkeeper for Shefferman, said her employer handled thousands of dollars of purchases at wholesale prices for his business and labor union friends, including Beck, former head of the Teamsters' Union. Miss Ouska produced five large envelopes which contained check stubs and other papers having a bearing on Beck-Shefferman transactions. The government, which accuses Beck of evading $240,000 in income taxes during 1950-53, is expected to attempt to place each document into the trial record. Miss Ouska said Shefferman "wanted everybody to be happy." She said he would order an item for a friend, get billed for it at wholesale cost and then later collect from the friend. Shefferman's name has cropped up repeatedly in the trial, which started Nov. 10. The Senate Rackets Committee, in its investigation of Beck linked Beck and Shefferman in numerous transactions.

Toiler Sought In Slay Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A nationwide search was pressed today for a construction worker police believed to be the father of a baby whose body was found buried in a pet cemetery in Frederick, Md. Larry Lord Motherwell, 42, the man in question, took his 14-month-old Mongoloid daughter from a Takoma Park, Md., nursing home in 1953. She was his daughter by his first wife, who was found drowned in her apartment here in 1953 in what police ruled an accidental death. Police said Motherwell also was wanted for questioning about the mysterious disappearance of a wealthy former Washington resident, Mrs. Pearl Ada Putney, 72, who was last seen Aug. 15 leaving a motel in Marysville, Calif. Motherwell was reported to have aided Mrs. Putney in management of a $50,000 inheritance, mostly in securities, which also is unaccounted for. She also may have had as much as $19,000 cash on her person. Police said they dug up a coffin containing the decomposed body believed to be that of a female child 12 to 18 months of age. Motherwell told a friend at about the time he took his daughter from the nursing home that his dog had died and he wanted to bury it in a pet cemetery, police said. Witnesses told police the box in which the body was found was buried in June, 1954.

Klamath Circuit Court To Hear Insurance Spat

A long-standing dispute between two insurance companies over a $6,333 claim has made its way into Klamath County Circuit Court. The dispute stems from an incident more than four years ago when a state car driven by Thomas Garrett, agent for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, was damaged by a state police game officer, set fire to a grain field owned by Tulana Farms. Tulana then sued Truck Insurance Exchange, as the insurer for the state of Oregon, for $6,303 damages. Truck Insurance refused to pay the claim, according to the suit now on file, and therefore Tulana sued Garrett and Willis for $15,751. At this point Government Employees Insurance Company entered litigation on behalf of Garrett, a federal employe, prepared to defend itself against any claim beyond the $10,000 for which it had insured Garrett. Again Truck Insurance refused to pay the claim. Tulana amended its suit to demand $79,301 damages, and on the day before the trial Truck Insurance denied it was responsible for Garrett's coverage, according to the current suit. During course of the trial, Government Employees Insurance settled for $9,500. The present suit maintains that Truck Insurance was responsible for payment but has paid only $6,333. Government Insurance has filed for the remaining $3,167 damages it paid, plus $1,500 attorney's fees, plus interest. Other suits on file: Roscoe G. Lilly has sued Ruby L. Valentine, executrix for the estate of Marion M. Valentine, to recover $21,195 it claims remains due from a promissory note Marion Valentine signed March 1, 1957. The suit maintains that Marion Valentine signed a note for $21,500 at 4 per cent interest, backing it with a mortgage against Valentine's share of a jointly operated trucking firm. Lilly maintains that Valentine paid only $400 of the note. He now seeks the remainder of the note, or foreclosure of the mortgage to satisfy the claim. Mrs. Evelyn E. Pearce, mother of 4 1/2-year-old Ronnie Vernon Pearce, seeks $17,500 general damages from John Kostynovich, contractor on a Kingsley Field heating project. The suit claims Kostynovich was negligent in leaving exposed steam pipes in an open trench into which the Pearce child fell from a tricycle last September 15 suffering, the suit maintains, burns, a skull depression, and mental anguish. Wade Crawford seeks $30,000 damages against O. A. McCord, maintaining defamation resulting from a complaint McCord filed against Crawford for allegedly trespassing on his property and cutting a fence in June 1957. The suit was dismissed. Crawford seeks $15,000 general damages, $15,000 punitive damages, and $60 attorney's fees. J. L. Calhoun, dba Calhoun's, maintains Swan Lake Moulding Company owes him $200 for improvements made on Swan Lake property last March 21. He seeks the $200 bill, plus $200 attorney's fees, plus a lien on the property involved. The State Industrial Accident Commission has sued Anna M. Hesseck, operator of Ann's Cafe, for $63 which it alleges remains unpaid of an original $120 state claim first filed last March 15.

Yreka Native Rites Slated

Mrs. Bonita Alfreda Kesterson, 50, wife of manager of the Klamath Pine Mills Company, William Ivan Kesterson, died about 10:30 p.m. Thursday, November 20, in Hillside Hospital. Mrs. Kesterson had been in failing health for some time and had returned by air at noon from a San Francisco Hospital. She was a native of Yreka, California, born June 3, 1899. Mr. and Mrs. Kesterson lived for several years at Grants Pass and for six years operated at the Kesterson Lumber Company at Dorris. They moved to Klamath Falls in the spring of 1932, continuing in the lumber industry. Mrs. Kesterson was a member of the First Methodist Church. Survivors include the widower, William Kesterson, this city; a daughter, Mrs. James (Dorothy Elaine) Skeel, Palo Alto, California; one son, Wilbur Leon Kesterson, assistant manager, Klamath Basin Pine Mills Company, Klamath Falls; mother, Mrs. Carrie O. Puhf, Gold Hill, Oregon; a sister, Mrs. Hulda L. Avena, Sacramento; also three grandchildren, Margaret Elaine and Bryan K. Skeel, Palo Alto, and Brett Kesterson, Klamath Falls. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Ward's Klamath Funeral Home.

Ground Corps To Disband

WASHINGTON (AP) - Radar soon will replace the 280,000 civilian volunteers who spent many hours in the past nine years watching for enemy planes in American skies. The Air Force announced Thursday the Ground Observer Corps will be disbanded Jan. 31. The reason: The human eye cannot keep up with requirements of the jet and missile age. Several radar networks-across the arctic, Canada and the U.S. northern border, and along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts-now protect the United States. The Air Force believes these networks would spot jets and missiles long before they flew over the GOC's 16,000 observation posts. In addition, the Air Force said new automatic equipment can collect and interpret observation data faster than the GOC's 50 filter centers. Leo A. Hoegh, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, has invited members of the GOC to take part in civil defense work after the corps is disbanded. Man Sentenced In Candy Theft

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Roy Jackson, 35, gets more days in jail than he does pennies in his thefts. He was sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse Wednesday for theft of a 10-cent candy bar. Last March he drew a 30-day sentence for stealing 20 cents from a news vendor's change box. Jackson, no home, no occupation, told Judge Louis Comerio he stole the candy because he was hungry.
