

MICHAEL, peeking around the door; Mark, with a welcoming smile, and Roddy, with an "Oh, Boy" expression, with their father, Dick Wendt, greet the boys' uncle, Larry Wetter, and his son, John, who will share their Thanksgiving dinner with them.

DINNER IS OVER and Nancy Wendt is having a quiet hour reading the story of Thanksgiving to her three sons and nephew. Even after turkey and all the fixings, the boys can munch on some apples.

FAR REMOVED FROM THEIR NATIVE IOWA, the Richard Wendt family and Larry Wetter and his son are giving thanks for this Thanksgiving Day. Mr. Wendt is manager of Car-Ad-Co and Mr. Wetter is affiliated with the same company. The two families have been residents of Klamath Falls for about two years when the Wendts moved from Dubuque, Iowa, and the Wetters came from Rockwell City, Iowa. From the left are Richard Wendt, Mark Wendt, Larry Wetter, his son, John, Mrs. Wendt, Roddy and Michael Wendt. Scenes such as this are symbolic of the American way of life in all parts of this country, and the world where Americans congregate to give thanks on Thanksgiving Day.

THREE LITTLE BOYS are willing to help their mother in the last minute preparations.

DO WE HAVE TO DECORATE with them, Daddy, can't we use the turkeys to play with?

THERE WILL BE NO MISTAKE in places at the table when the boys finish lettering pumpkin place cards.
