had a cash balance on July 1, 1957 of $61,189.49.

In his summary, Vergeer stated, "In my special report on the airport's finances, it was clearly pointed out that this proposed loan can be repaid from annual airport budget appropriations, and still leave necessary cash reserves for this fund to remain on a cash basis."

The CAA has given no indication when it could be expected to act on the application.

A tentative plan for a terminal building was drawn some months ago by John Howard of the firm of Morrison and Howard, but the estimated cost was then listed as about $200,000.

Indications were that if the plan for $100,000 is approved, a terminal building would be so constructed that it could be enlarged at a later date if deemed necessary.

The CAA is interested in the construction of airport terminals because provisions are made in such matching funds for office availabilities for the CAA in such terminals.

The city council formally approved the program at a recent session, and the city budget committee was polled by Mayor Suter for their approval on transfers from the city property fund.

Industrialist Denies Charge
BOSTON, Mass. (AP)—Bernard Goldfine, New England textile tycoon and close friend of former presidential assistant Sherman Adams, has denied one contempt charge but still has two more facing him.

He and Miss Paperman pleaded innocent, and Federal Judge Charles E. Wyzanski ordered an immediate trial. The case was suspended for a day when the court agreed to a defense motion, and ordered the government to search for some old records — and produce some new ones.

One order directed Fred G. Pastore, supervisor of the IRS Intelligence Division, to make a diligent search through some two tons of Goldfine records to see if the lot includes some that the government contends Goldfine has failed to turn over.

The other order directed five IRS agents to produce today any reports they had made to supervisors regarding the Goldfine investigation. Judge Wyzanski said he will rule on whether the reports contain secret information.

The case is due to come up again Thursday in federal court. Goldfine is to show up in Washington Friday to be arraigned on an 18-count indictment charging contempt of Congress for refusing to answer questions last July before a subcommittee on legislative oversight.

It was in that investigation that testimony brought out that Goldfine had made gifts to Adams and other political figures.

NATO Chief Issues Plea

PARIS (AP)—NATO's supreme commander in Europe, U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, pleaded with the Atlantic Pact countries today to move quickly into missile rearmament.

In a strong presentation to the foreign ministers of the 15-nation alliance, Norstad outlined present strength and future needs in the face of Soviet military swaggering, primarily over Berlin.

Informed sources said Norstad told the secret gathering his military command needs intermediate-range American guided missiles as soon as they can be placed on the European bases from which they could reach the Soviet Union.

Only Britain has thus far accepted these missiles. The Italians are close to signing a similar agreement. French delay on acceptance is the big stumbling block to getting what Norstad considers an adequate force of missiles in Europe.

Norstad's speech was described as sober and serious. A NATO spokesman, asked if the commander expressed satisfaction with Allied military progress, replied: "It would be wrong to conclude that there was any optimism or pessimism. Realism would be a better word."

Before Norstad spoke, many of the delegates displayed little or no sense of urgency toward the strengthening of land forces or equipping them with missiles. For one thing, U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had told them "Tuesday with the statement that 'our military advisers are absolutely confident that the Soviet Union will not risk war over Berlin.'"

Soviet warnings of nuclear war if the West insists on continued access to West Berlin were termed by Dulles "empty threats which ought not frighten anyone." Norstad also appealed for speedy fulfillment of NATO plans for 30 full-strength, combat-ready divisions in Europe, plus 100 battalions armed with short-range, tactical missiles by 1963. So far, the NATO force lacks half of the divisions, due chiefly to the lag in West German armament and the diversion of most French strength from Europe to fight Algerian rebels.

A military report to the NATO ministers warned that the Russians could launch a massive attack without resorting to weapons of mass destruction.

Informants said the Russians could throw one million men into a central European attack. The Soviet military power was estimated at 170 line divisions of 2-500,000 men, 20,000 planes and 500 submarines.

Norstad's appeals were backed by the other top NATO commanders at the conference.

The naval men have been urging more antisubmarine forces—planes, destroyers and escort vessels. They feel their forces now are adequate only for the most limited defense, with no extras in case of war.

OKLEE, Minn. (AP)—A Democratic county chairman says he helped author the controversial "Coya come home" letter which led to her defeat.

A handwriting expert in Washington testified two days ago that the letter was written by Maurice Nelson, chairman of a volunteer committee that campaigned for Mrs. Knutson's Republican rival.

Miss Cooper who did not appear. When asked if they had changed the locks on the building the day following the dismissal meeting, Mrs. Elliott answered that they had. "However," she said, "this was done because of the many valuable items stored here, and because we were not certain just who had master keys to the place."

She was emphatic in her avowal that this was the primary reason why the locks were changed the day after the meeting.

Members of the board stated Miss Cooper could have returned at any time to pick up her personal belongings. They also denied that she was directed not to communicate with any of the staff.

Mildred Campbell of Bonanza, board member for the past 19 years, indicated that she had been dissatisfied for some time with Miss Cooper's administrative ability.

All agreed that Miss Cooper is an excellent reference librarian, and has contributed a great deal to the community.

County Judge Charlie Mack said, "The county court greatly appreciates the time and effort put into this problem by the members of the library board. They have accomplished a great deal to straighten out this problem which the court has been aware of for some time."

Miss Ebert, state librarian, also issued a statement following a prolonged discussion with the board.

She said, "A conference was held on Tuesday afternoon with the Klamath County Library Board and members of the county court. Extensive evidence of delinquencies of internal management was submitted.

"These problems have been called to Miss Cooper's attention over a period of time and because they have not been corrected, it was imperative for the board to take action. These conditions would not be obvious to library patrons and it is unfortunate that they must be made public.

"Miss Cooper has been a dedicated librarian and has many fine personal and professional attributes. However, in my judgment, the board had no other recourse but to seek a change in library administrators."

Veteran Senators Disagree

How State Will Pay Bills

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two veteran state senators are in disagreement on a vital question — how the state will pay its bills between now and June 30, 1960.

Fiscal experts conceded during a two-day hearing of the Joint Legislative Tax Committee that the state will have a deficit of 282 million dollars by that date.

Sens. James McBride (D-Ventura) and Hugh M. Burns (D-Fresno) agreed Tuesday at the end of the hearing that the state must enforce strict economies.

But McBride insisted no new taxes would be needed for at least a year. He said the state should borrow from other funds to help make up the deficit, effect economies, and wait for the rising general economy to bring in new revenue.

"I still think the committee will agree with me to some extent and work out a borrowing program," McBride said. "Then we'll see where we can cut down."

Burns doubted that the state could balance its budget by taking money from special funds held by a number of agencies and boards.

Burns said the state could cut the state budget by no more than 45 million dollars without curtailing required state services, and could obtain another 20 millions from special funds. In any case, he said the deficit would be huge.

"I can't see any other answer but increased taxes," he said. "I'm against any single shot gun, though. An increase should go across the board. A certain percentage should be in consumer goods."

Duncan is representing his mother in the criminal proceedings, scheduled to get under way late today.

Ventura District Attorney Roy Gustafson late Tuesday night said Mrs. Duncan admitted paying a stranger $50 to pose as her son while she posed as Olga. They obtained an annulment of the marriage on the grounds that it had not been consummated.

She was arrested last Saturday when authorities said they learned of the confessed impersonation.

Search for the pretty young nurse, who was expecting a child in January, was spread to a wider area when police disclosed a missing persons report showed several pieces of luggage were gone from her apartment.

The mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, 54, was held on $50,000 bail for traveling to nearby Ventura in August with an unidentified man to have her son's marriage annulled.

Demo Helped Write Letter

OKLEE, Minn. (AP)—A Democratic county chairman says he helped author the controversial "Coya come home" letter which led to her defeat.

A handwriting expert in Washington testified two days ago that the letter was written by Maurice Nelson, chairman of a volunteer committee that campaigned for Mrs. Knutson's Republican rival.

The letter, sent to the congresswoman by her husband in effort to get her out of politics, has been labeled by Mrs. Knutson part of a "malicious conspiracy" on the part of her political enemies.

James Turgeon, Red Lake County Democratic chairman, gave this sequence:

"Andy (Mrs. Knutson's husband) came to me early this year and asked me to help him. He told me what he wanted to say and I wrote it out for him in longhand. Later I typed out several copies for him. There must have been half a dozen or so copies and I also gave him the handwritten one."

"I had forgotten all about it until Andy called me about Thanksgiving Day and asked who wrote the letter. I told him, 'Andy, you know that I wrote that letter for you.' That's the last I've heard."

Turgeon declared emphatically that Nelson had nothing to do with the letter. Nelson, a Fosston, Minn., attorney, headed a campaign committee supporting Odie Langen, Republican who defeated Mrs. Knutson in the November election.

"I don't know why Andy is changing his story," Turgeon said, "but he seems to change it every time the sun comes up."

Chief's Aide Tiptoes Out

BAGHDAD (AP) — William M. Rountree, assistant U.S. secretary of state, left Iraq quietly, almost furtively, today. His Iraqi Airways plane took off for Beirut, Lebanon, where he will change planes en route to Athens.

The envoy's departure contrasted with the hostile demonstrations which marked his arrival. There were no crowds on the streets. The exact time of his departure had been kept secret.

The Iraqi government nonetheless took no chances. Soldiers stood every 30 or 50 yards along his route from the U.S. Embassy to the airport.

A David Fritzeland, other embassy officials and a representative of the Iraqi protocol office saw him off. Rountree declined to make a statement.

Organized mobs shouted "Go home" and hurled mud, eggs and stones at the flag-flying limousine of the U.S. Embassy when Rountree arrived Monday on a fact-finding tour of the Middle East.

Recluse Dies With $10,000

CUSHING, Okla. (AP)—A 90-year-old man who apparently died of starvation had $10,001 in cash on his body, officers disclosed.

Asst. County Atty. D. O. Cabbage said it appeared there had been no food for more than a week in the home of George W. Williams, 90, Williams was found dead Monday night.

The recluse, who once had been active in civic affairs at nearby Yale, lived alone in a scantily furnished house.

Tavern Operator Forfeits Bail

Mrs. Dorris May Short, operator of a tavern in Dairy, forfeited $200 bail Wednesday after failing to appear in district court to answer a charge of selling lottery tickets.

Mrs. Short was represented by her attorneys, David R. Vandenberg Jr. and John Denman, who said their client would not appear as a defendant.

Judge D. E. Van Vector ordered bail forfeited, punch boards confiscated by state police, and merchandise returned to the defendant.

Mrs. Short had been accused of offering candy as a reward from punch boards displayed at her tavern. She was arrested by state police and had pleaded innocent to the charge.

The court had scheduled a jury trial today, but the panel was excused when the defendant did not appear.

HIT-RUN DRIVER SOUGHT

John Cannon, 119 Wendling Street, reported to city police that his car was run into by a 1957 Studebaker pickup bearing Oregon license number 8F-2713. The pickup allegedly backed into Cannon's vehicle and took off without the driver leaving his name or address; the incident occurred Friday. Police report that registration records show the license to be that of a vehicle belonging to M. A. Richardson, Grants Pass.

SUIT FILED

The Oregon State Board of Labor has filed suit in circuit court against R. P. Ellingson Lumber Company to recover wages it claims are due Wayne Cody, a lumber handler. The board seeks $144 remaining due from an original claim of $860, plus a $600 penalty, plus interest and attorneys fees.

Thrift Of Trees Jails Murphyhan

A 39-year-old man from Murphy is being held in county jail pending completion of his arraignment on a charge of larceny, lodged after he was allegedly found in possession of Christmas trees which did not belong to him.

State police say that the man, Charles R. Turner, was stopped while driving along Poe Valley Road Saturday with a load of trees. Some of these trees, they allege, bore markings which the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company was using to identify trees cut by its personnel on its holdings in the area.

Fred Goelker of Weyerhaeuser identified the trees after Turner had been stopped, and signed the complaint. Police said Turner admitted the theft.

Turner appeared in district court Monday for arraignment. He was given additional time and will appear in court again Friday at 10 a.m. He is being held in lieu of $2,000 bail.
