

MRS. ALICE APPLGATE PEIL

Early Days Of Linkville Are Recalled By Native

By RUTH KING

The lead article in the September issue of the Oregon Historical Quarterly was written by the first white girl born in Klamath County, Alice Anna Applegate Peil, now living in Ashland. Mrs. Peil was born March 28, 1872 at Klamath Agency, the daughter of Ivan Deatur Applegate and Margaret (Hutchinson) Applegate.

Mrs. Peil wrote on old Oregon school days with earned authority. Her pioneer father taught for a time in the Umpqua Valley and her reminiscences go back to the life of her maternal grandmother, born of Scotch parents in the North of Ireland who taught as she raised a family of four. Years later the family reached Linkville and with the start of the first school in the little settlement went into the schoolroom to teach with a new member of the family on the way.

The little schoolhouse stood near the site of the Winema Hotel, Mrs. Peil writes, and drinking water was carried from across the street from a bubbling spring.

Her mother taught in a country school near Jacksonville, then later in Ashland where she met her future husband, father of Mrs. Peil. They came to Klamath County and were faced with the problem of educating their children in a lonely area which included Indians, snakes, rocks and alkali dust storms.

The family lived in a log cabin 20 miles east of Linkville for a time and when the growing family began to reach school age the parents bought property about a mile from the Linkville schoolhouse and moved "in."

There were no sidewalks and the trail to school, Mrs. Peil says in her article, was a long one, waded through sticky mud that pulled off our rubbers, or when struggling through deep snow. Fortunately we had a very efficient teacher, Mr. A. P. Armstrong, later the founder of Armstrong Business College at Portland.

The schoolhouse was typical of that day. In one corner, surrounded by a wet floor, Mrs. Peil remembers stood the water bucket with its big dipper, a potbelly stove, a tin wash basin and a very dirty towel.

Later a schoolhouse was built closer to their ranch home and Mrs. Peil continued to prepare for eventually entering the Monmouth State Normal School. It took 10 days to reach the campus.

In February, 1895 she returned to Klamath County to teach her "first

TURNING HOBBY INTO PROFIT is Maxine Foote of Montague, shown here with some of her candle creations. She began her candle making as a hobby and has ended up by making it a successful business venture.

Candle-Making Hobby Now Profitable Sideline

BY BETTY DOW

MONTAGUE — "How to make a hobby pay off," could well be the motto of Maxine Foote of Montague, for her hobby which was started "just for fun," has turned out to be a profitable sideline for her.

She makes candles, which in itself is not so startling a fact, far as Baltimore.

This hobby is not a full time job by any means. Mrs. Foote has a husband, Grant, and a 14-year-old son, Jerry, to keep house for. Her husband, who had a going business as a cabinetmaker for several years here in Montague, found it necessary to give up his shop work, and became an insurance salesman, and Mrs. Foote has always kept up the bookkeeping and other office work, as well as her regular housewife duties.

Besides this, she is quite active in community affairs, including secretary for the Shasta Valley Community Club, and she has established herself as an able director and producer of the annual Montague PTA shows. Not only does she plan the show, she also designs the costumes for them, and she is also an exceptionally fine tap dancer.

But, still in her spare time, she loves to work with her candles, and takes pride in seeing just how beautiful she can make them, to please not only herself but her customers.

Goldfine Lost Trial Appeal

BOSTON (AP) — New England Industrialist Bernard Goldfine, under a three-month jail sentence for contempt of court, has lost his bid for a new trial.

Goldfine is scheduled to begin serving the sentence Jan. 7, but U.S. District Court Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr., admitted him to bail Friday pending his appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Being admitted to bail, court attaches said, means Goldfine will be free until the case is heard by the appeals court, probably not until much later than Jan. 7.

Goldfine's secretary, Miss Mildred Paperman, under a 10-day sentence for contempt of court, also was admitted to bail pending action on her appeal.

Both were convicted last Monday of criminal contempt after U.S. internal revenue agents charged the pair failed to turn over records of Goldfine textile mills for study.

Judge Wyzanski also denied motions for acquittal and for reduction of the sentences of Goldfine and his secretary.

Goldfine faces trial in Washington March 16 on a contempt of Congress charge for failure to answer some questions about his financial affairs before a congressional subcommittee last summer.

The Washington hearings brought out testimony that Goldfine and Sherman Adams, former assistant to President Eisenhower, had exchanged gifts. Adams, who denied any wrongdoing, later resigned his White House post.

'Big Daddy' Told To Work

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Eric Nord, 40, former high priest of the so-called "beat generation" has been ordered by a judge to secure gainful employment.

Nord was sentenced to three years probation and $300 fine Friday by Superior Court Judge Melvyn Cronin for contributing to the delinquency of two runaway teenage girls.

The 300-pound "big daddy" of the "beatniks" accepted the sentence soberly. He wore mustache, red beard, and sported a beret. After the court appearance he departed on a tiny three-wheel scooter, telling reporters his "gainful employment" would be the production of a movie about San Francisco's "beat generation."

Barkeep Finds Queen's Text

KING'S LYNN, England (AP)—Only Queen Elizabeth, bartender John Harvey and a handful of others knew what the Queen was going to talk about in her Christmas Day speech to the Commonwealth.

Harvey knew five hours before the radio-television broadcast. He picked his copy of the speech out of a gutter.

Harvey, 29, spotted a fat leather briefcase lying in a gutter. He picked it up, looked inside, pulled out a sheet of papers, and started reading.

"The Queen's speech. . ."

He told the police, who rushed it by patrol car to Sandringham, the country home 11 miles distant where the Queen and the royal family were spending Christmas.

The Queen was to make her broadcast from there. The notes Harvey found were the television script, British Broadcasting Corp. producer Anthony Craxton had lost them.

Harvey, credited with having saved the broadcast from confusion, delay and possibly a monarch's wrath, was offered a reward of five shillings (70 cents).

Said Harvey: "It's not worth collecting."

Tax Officials Guess Again

ROME (AP) — The Rome tax collector and the city's biggest money earners were embroiled Saturday in their annual guessing game.

The tax office published the reports of taxable income for 1957 submitted by leading taxpayers. It also published its own estimates of how much they really earned.

Where the figures differ, the taxpayers and the tax office will negotiate on an acceptable figure.

Again this year the biggest self-reported income in Rome was of industrialist Franco Palma. He said he earned the equivalent of $198,400. The tax office said he earned $240,000.

The city's biggest earner according to the tax office was Prince Alessandro Torlonia, a wealthy landowner, with $800,000. He submitted a provisional report of $73,600 and will pay taxes on that while the difference is being negotiated.

Gypsies Benefit By Hula Hoop

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (AP) — Even Gypsies are whirling hula hoops — but some get paid for it.

While other Gypsies strummed guitars, Rosita Altavilla, 23, danced with a plastic hoop Friday on a highway near this town in the toe of the Italian boot.

The Gypsies collected the equivalent of $50 from the crowd of 800 that gathered before police made Rosita quit blocking traffic.

THIEVES HIT KAISER

HONOULULU (AP) — Police investigating a burglary call from the home of industrialist Henry J. Kaiser, reported today the theft of a $500 watch and hundreds of dollars worth of other gifts—from underneath the Christmas tree.

Toy Car Puts Estes In Bed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) tried out a toy electric automobile his 12-year-old son wanted to buy. The result: three days in a hospital and three weeks in a leg cast.

Aides said a neighborhood chum of the senator's son David got an electrically powered toy auto for Christmas. David wanted one like it to replace his homemade model powered by a salvaged lawn mower motor.

The senator took the manufactured model for a trial spin, and tried dragging his feet when he couldn't find the brakes to stop it on a downhill run, the aides explained. But his leg was twisted and his foot pulled under the machine's rear wheel.

A trip to Bethesda Naval Hospital disclosed badly sprained ligaments and a dislocated kneecap. A cast was put on the injured leg. Doctors said the senator could leave the hospital Sunday.

Bus Topples To River Bank

MADRAS, Ore. (AP)—A Trailways bus collided with an automobile, went off the road, down a 15-foot embankment and stopped just short of the Deschutes River Friday night, but none of the bus passengers were injured.

One person in the automobile, Johnny Sampson, of Toppish, Wash., was seriously injured. He was taken to Prineville Hospital.

Del Hinchaw, of Portland, was driving the loaded bus. The other occupants of the car left before they could be identified.

The accident occurred near the entrance of the Warm Springs Indian Reservation on Highway 26.
