1. March 16 — The Cascade Limited jumped the track between Crescent Lake and Chemult. Twelve to 14 cars derailed, and while 49 passengers were injured, 14 seriously, there were no deaths.

2. February 20 — Flames destroyed two large storage sheds and finished lumber at Car-Ad-Co Lumber Company in Pelican City with an estimated loss of $350,000. Fire crews from all parts of the county fought the blaze.

3. May 5 — Voters turned down both the KUHS and the city elementary school budgets for the first time since the 1920's. KUHS vote 847 to 686, and elementary 896 to 644. Both budgets were later approved after they had been trimmed slightly. The vote was a record turnout for school elections.

4. February 27 — Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Parker, West Coast Air Defense commander, Hamilton Field, California, turns over first shovel of dirt for construction of 290 Capehart Title VIII family housing units near Kingsley Field. Total cost over $4,500,000. First home was occupied in December.

5. March 22 — KUHS Pelicans won the State Class A basketball title defeating Grant of Portland 52 to 46 in the finals. They marched to the finals with a 70-62 victory over Beaverton, 56 to 42 over Roosevelt of Portland, and 66-52 over Franklin of Portland. Here, first team all-state Glenn Moore goes up for a Pelican basket. Bob Petersen and Dave Robinson were named to the second all-state team.

6. April 29-30 — Three OTI instructors were asphyxiated in a madeover bus while on a fishing trip near the Little Deschutes River. Dead were John C. Roman, 47; George A. Harper Jr., 39, and Ray Perkey, 49.

7. April 23 — Four men, left to right, Dinsmore Taylor and T. B. Watters, management specialists; Dick Popp, assistant forester, and Don C. Foster, area director, Bureau of Indian Affairs, supervise counting of Klamath Tribal ballots. Final results showed 1,649 members, or about 77.3 per cent voted to withdraw out of the tribe's 2,133 members.

8. June 11 — Circuit court trial of city policeman John Wilson ended surprisingly when Clyde Cloud, man who charged Wilson beat him, was 35 minutes late to testify and his story didn't jibe with the court clocks. The charge against Wilson, shown here with his attorney E. E. Driscoll, was dismissed. First trial date in January ended when Wilson's attorney, Ben Goddard, died.

9. April 10 — Orville Hamilton, Klamath Falls police chief for 14 years and member of the department since 1937, resigned following criticism of the department by the Klamath County Grand Jury and a subsequent survey report by Inspector Richard Young of the Berkeley, California, police department. Sgt. Charles Howard was appointed chief.
