

This Session Of Congress Might Appear Productive

WASHINGTON (AP) — This will be a busy, interesting and probably productive Congress. It is unlikely to seem spectacular if only because very little ever does in the grinding legislative mill.

It will be self-conscious, perhaps just a little less conservative than the previous Congress and, despite plenty of conflict, its personal relations with President Eisenhower may not curdle very much.

Democrats and Republicans in this Congress can not help being self-conscious: Its two-year term will be drawing to a close at the time of the 1960 elections when voters choose a new Congress and a new president.

Both groups know their performance these next two years will be a major factor in the election outcome — for themselves and their party — and that the next president may be chosen from this Congress.

It hardly seems in the cards for this heavily Democratic Congress to get into feuding, name-calling and bitterness with Eisenhower in his last two White House years.

During his first six years his relations with Congress members have been unusually polite and restrained, except in political campaigns. There does not seem much reason to change.

For this reason: Without resorting to slam-bang, the Democrats were still able to win control of Congress in three successive elections while Eisenhower himself remained highly popular.

Nevertheless, there will be broad conflicts between Eisenhower and the Democrats in Congress on the programs he wants and the kind they want.

Some people thought, after last

November's elections, that this would be a much more liberal Congress than last year. But in the first showdowns on strength this year conservatives showed they are still in charge.

In the Senate, a coalition of liberals from both parties lost heavily in their first test of strength in a fight over the rules.

Liberal Republicans on opening day tried to name one of their own number their Senate leader, but they were defeated by a majority of conservative Republicans who picked Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois.

House Republicans are still under conservative leadership. They were simply replacing an older man with a younger one when they substituted Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana for their old time leader, Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts.

The two Texans who lead the Democrats in Congress—Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson, are both conservative. So are a majority of the Democrats who are committee chairmen in both houses.

Still, the voters sent a lot of new men to Congress this year, some of whom are expected to take the liberal side. So, while liberals are not in the majority, their ranks have been strengthened.

They should be able to exert some pressure. Particularly Sen. Johnson is not likely to ignore them. Even though he out-maneuvered them on the rules change he is still making some concessions to them.

He is a great compromiser, anxious to have his big Democratic majority work together as much as possible.

He yields a little to each of the opposing groups to reach a kind of middle ground. This may not satisfy either side completely, but still shows some movement without leaving either completely dissatisfied.

1,000 Frozen In Red China
TAIPEI (UPI)—More than 1,000 persons have frozen to death in Communist communes in North China, the Nationalist China Central News Agency reported from Hong Kong today.

Quoting unidentified sources from Communist China, the dispatch said the Reds have imposed a complete news blackout in fear it may deepen the people's resentment against the commune system.

It said four out of ten farmes are still wearing their summer clothes in sub-zero weather.

Science Finds Peanut That Resists Wilt

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—A scientist has produced a disease and wilt-resisting type of peanut by atomic radiation. Other scientists call it a milestone in fundamental genetics, one of the first times an improved strain of any living thing has been developed through atomic research in the United States.

Dr. Walton C. Gregory of North Carolina State College bombarded peanut seeds with 18,500 roentgens 17 times the radiation that can kill a man.

This jumbled their genetic system and produced generations of plants that were dwarfed, huge, erect, prostrate, curled, maimed, sterile, high yielders and low yielders.

From these, Dr. Gregory and other workers at a research farm in Rocky Mount, N.C., developed the desirable variety.

It would take nature thousands of years to provide such mutations. Radiation did it in minutes. The peanuts were perfectly edible. Dr. Gregory said the rays passed through the seeds and scrambled the genes, but neither the seeds nor the growing plants were radioactive.

North Carolina State College announced Sunday the new seed will be available to growers for limited planting by next year.

Police Find Kidnaped Baby Alive, Healthy In Brooklyn

By GEORGE SYVERSEN
NEW YORK (AP) — The kidnaped Chionchio baby was found alive and healthy Sunday night in a Brooklyn apartment. The infant girl had been the object of an intense search since she was snatched from a hospital 2 1/2 hours after her birth nine days ago.

Police and FBI agents, acting on an anonymous tip, located the baby in the second-floor flat of Jean Iavarone, a 43-year-old divorcee and widow with seven living children.

Her apartment is about 1 1/2 miles from St. Peter's Hospital where the child was kidnaped late Jan. 2.

The child was returned to the hospital. Authorities said she was "in good condition." The youngest baby ever kidnaped here, she was taken before her parents had the chance to have her baptized "Lisa Rose."

Mrs. Iavarone denied the kidnaping and claimed the child is hers, police said. They quoted her as saying she had delivered the baby unattended in her apartment Jan. 2.

Chief of Detectives James B. Leggett said the woman would be booked on a kidnaping charge.

First positive identification of the baby was announced by the FBI, quoting the father, Frank Chionchio, 28, a lawyer for the Port of New York Authority, said he recognized the baby on the basis of a "general family resemblance" and a small scar over the left eye he had noticed the night the baby was born.

Leggett said the baby "certainly" is the Chionchio child. He indicated the footprint of the baby found in the apartment matched the footprint of the Chionchio baby taken shortly after birth. He said the comparison was "okay."

The blood type of the baby was identical with that of Mrs. Chionchio, the FBI said, but did not correspond to Mrs. Iavarone's. Leggett said medical examination showed that Mrs. Iavarone did not bear a child nine days ago.

Police Probe Vice Scandal Inside Ranks

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Police launched an intensive investigation today within their own ranks in a vice scandal allegedly involving the police and fire departments and a 15-year-old runaway girl.

Police Chief Frank Story said he would consult with the prosecutor regarding the issuance of warrants. He said the investigation of the girl's story might take several days.

Rookie patrolman James W. Kelly, 24, was stripped of his badge and jailed after signing a statement admitting he had shared a room with the girl last October. An entire platoon of one fire department engine house was placed in a lineup for identification by the girl. Among those accused were four firemen, three patrolmen, a civilian ambulance driver and a suburban police chief.

The girl, from a suburban Euclid family, and Carl Galipo, 21, whom police said admitted acting as the girl's procurer, told of their activities Sunday.

The girl's parents said they had spent $8,000 on medical and psychiatric care for their daughter since 1956. They said she had run away before but had not been guilty of such immoral behavior.
