

Hesitant Father Signs Complaint

NEW YORK (AP)—The father of Lisa Rose Chionchio was so delighted at getting his infant daughter back unharmed that he balked for a time today at signing a complaint against the baby's alleged kidnaper.

- The political situation — boiled down to essentials:
- The congress is assembling and getting down to business.
- The Oregon legislature is assembling and getting down to business.
- The California legislature is assembling and getting down to business.
- The Washington legislature is assembling and getting down to business.
- They all need MORE MONEY.
- At the same time—
- It can be stated on reasonably good authority that the average taxpayer could use a little more money.
- What's the prospect?
- It seems likely that some compromises are in order.
- A thought in conclusion:
- Every dollar that is taken out of the taxpayer's pocket in the form of taxes is a dollar he doesn't have left to spend.
- Getting farther from home—
- What of the Cuban revolution?
- A lot of people have been shot against walls. As this is written, the dispatches indicate that a lot more people will be shot against walls before everything settles down.
- History tells us that is bad business.
- There is the French Revolution and the Terror that followed it. Heads rolled in the streets of Paris. The French Revolution, with its heads rolling in the streets, with its aftermath of Napoleon and its final debacle in the Congress of Vienna, which could think of nothing to do after all the head-rolling and all the blood-baths than to bring back the Bourbon kings whose abuses had brought it all about, set France back a century.
- It would be a pity if that happened in Cuba.
- Norway Pledges West Support
- OSLO, Norway (AP)—Norway's government today pledged continued support for the Western alliance but also promised to work for disarmament and a halt to nuclear weapon tests.
- In a message opening Parliament, King Olav V said the government will also take an active part in the drive to stop adverse effects of the European Common Market on economic cooperation that has been built up among all nations in Western Europe since the war.

kidnaping and claimed the baby was her own, born without assistance in her Brooklyn flat.

Court attaches said that there would have been no case against Mrs. Iavarone had the papers not been signed.

Mrs. Iavarone's attorney, Joseph Fontana of Brooklyn, said he would ask for a complete mental examination of his client when she is arraigned.

The 43-year-old bleached blonde was booked Monday on a charge of taking Lisa Rose Chionchio from St. Peter's Hospital Jan. 2 when the infant was 2½ hours old.

Her bail hearing in Brooklyn Felony Court was put off until today. Conviction on the charge carries a possible prison sentence of 20 years to life.

The motive for the kidnaping, police said, was Mrs. Iavarone's desire to pressure a boy friend, Joseph Pizzimenti, into marriage by having him believe he was the father.

The intense search for the child ended Sunday night. Police and FBI agents, directed by a telephone tip, found the baby in Mrs. Iavarone's clean but untidy apartment in a humble section of Brooklyn.

She insisted the baby was hers, claiming she had delivered it by herself the night of Jan. 2.

Medical evidence contradicted her claim. Blood tests, the baby's footprints and a physical examination of Mrs. Iavarone established the baby's identity and ruled out the woman's story, police said.

Before the results of the medical tests were made known, the infant's father, Frank, 28, joyfully made positive identification from a small birthmark over the left eye and, he said, "her beautiful hands and feet."

The baby, in good health, was returned Monday to the arms of her happy, tearful 26-year-old mother, Frances. In a jubilant reunion at St. Peter's Hospital, the mother said it was the happiest day of her life.

The infant, who had gained one ounce over her seven pounds at birth, had received good care in the first nine days of her life.

The Chionchio family expressed compassion for the alleged kidnaper and renewed a pledge made while the baby was missing that she could visit the child.

Legal Hassle Halts Paying Of State Bills

SALEM (AP)—The state of Oregon was unable to pay its bills today as the dispute over who is secretary of state appeared far from settlement.

Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton and attorneys for Gov. Mark Hatfield had not reached agreement today on how the matter should be presented to the state Supreme Court.

State Treasurer Sig Unander served notice that no state warrants should be drawn by the secretary of state's office until the supreme court decides who the secretary of state is.

Gov. Hatfield announced the appointment Monday of Howell Appling, 39, Portland implement dealer, as the new secretary of state.

But outgoing Gov. Robert D. Holmes already had appointed David O'Hara, retired chief of the state elections division.

Hatfield's attorneys said they had expected to bring the suit Monday afternoon. Orval Thompson, legal advisor to ex-Gov. Holmes, had been expected to be attorney for O'Hara, but Thompson stepped out of the picture Monday because he was not the governor's legal adviser any more.

Consequently, the Hatfield lawyers had to start negotiations with Thornton, who will represent O'Hara.

Today it had not even been determined who would sue. Thornton said the plan of the Hatfield lawyers to bring the suit was unacceptable to him.

Meanwhile, Appling occupied the secretary of state's office — but he couldn't pay the state's bills.

Many Greet Mark, Wife At Reception

SALEM (AP)—More than 1,000 greeters passed through reception lines for Gov. and Mrs. Mark Hatfield Monday afternoon and evening.

Another 275 showed up unexpectedly at the residence of outgoing Gov. Robert D. Holmes.

The crowd at the reception for the new governor stretched from the governor's office into the corridors. A chorus, organ, band and bagpipers played in the capitol rotunda.

Holmes was almost overcome with emotion by the appearance of friends at his home. The Holmes family had expected 25 or 30. They had 275 visitors and a band.

The band, the Royal Chinooks from Holmes' home city of Astoria, slipped away from the Hatfield reception to entertain Holmes.

At Holmes' request, the band struck up "When the Saints Go Marching In."

It was the first time that anybody could remember such a tribute to an outgoing governor. Usually, he's a forgotten man immediately after the inauguration.

All of Hatfield's staff and their wives were on hand for the new governor's reception.

It was well after 9 p. m. before the Holmes family had a chance to eat some dinner.

Holmes, who says he won't seek public office again, told of a phone call he received the day after Hatfield defeated him.

It was from Harry Truman, who said:

"You'll get over this defeat because you're a young man."

"But give 'em hell — every day."

Chief Foresees Surplus In $77 Billion Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told the new Republican leaders of Congress today his 77 billion dollar budget for the new fiscal year contemplates a surplus of about 100 million dollars.

House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana told newsmen there is hope of a tax reduction in the next two or three years if the heavily Democratic new Congress goes along with Eisenhower's spending and legislative programs.

The President's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 will go to Congress next Monday. The White House recently announced it would be a balanced budget calling for spending about 77 billion dollars — approximately two billion less than in the current year.

Today, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in reply to a question that Eisenhower informed the GOP congressional delegation the budget actually contemplates a surplus of about 100 million dollars.

In the current fiscal year a deficit of about 12 billion dollars is in prospect. This was Eisenhower's first meeting with the party's congressional chiefs since election of new leaders last week.

In advance of the White House session Dirksen said he expected only a general discussion of the legislative program. He said there was no arrangement to report to Senate Republicans, who have yet to set up their policy committee.

Storm Drops Snow Blanket

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A fast moving storm moved through the Northeast early today spreading a two-inch snow blanket from the Great Lakes into northern Pennsylvania and through New England.

Some snow and freezing rain glazed western New York ahead of the snow.

Clearing skies brought sharp temperature drops in the mid Rockies. Overnight low readings ranged down to 10 to 15 below zero.

The storm system in the Northeast tapered to snow flurries after daybreak.

Moderate weather prevailed in large areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast.

Showers dampened Western sections of the country and cooler air moved into northern California and the Pacific Northwest. It also was a little cooler in parts of Minnesota.

Considerable sunshine and generally southerly winds warmed nearly all of the Midwest and East Monday. Southwesterly Gulf winds sent temperatures rising in Florida.

Temperatures were higher than 24 hours earlier in nearly all areas east of the Rockies, with the greatest warming in a belt from northern Alabama and northern Georgia northward through the Virginias into Pennsylvania, Ohio and the Great Lakes.

Soviet Proposals Blasted By Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today Russian proposals for the future of Germany are brutal and stupid and fraught with danger for the peace of Europe.

Dulles told a news conference the United States and its Allies stand firm on their basic policy of tying a reunited Germany into the Western World.

But he also said, possibly for the first time, that German unification might be accomplished by ways other than through free elections. He declined to elaborate.

Dulles left no doubt he expects to take a very firm line on the German policy issue when talking with Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan here Friday. After the talk with Dulles, Mikoyan will see President Eisenhower on Saturday.

Dulles said he hopes the talks with Mikoyan may eliminate the dangers of miscalculations and accidental mistakes between the Soviet and U.S. governments but he said the United States is not negotiating with Mikoyan.

He left the way open, so far as the United States is concerned, for the talks with Mikoyan and other current diplomatic moves to lead to later negotiations, possibly in a four-power foreign ministers meeting.

Dulles said the United States is prepared to accept a broad agenda for such a conference but would not accept a listing of subjects narrowed only to Russia proposals.

This country has no new proposals to make to Mikoyan, Dulles said. It is standing on a proposal made by the Allied powers Dec. 31 for East-West talks on the German conference to be held in Prague or Warsaw in the next two months to draft a German peace treaty.

Soviet proposals for the treaty include barring German membership in any alliance, especially the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and placing other rigid restrictions on Germany's future.

It was of such proposals that Russia and the Western powers are completely opposed on their basic approach to a solution of the German problem.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has called the Soviet approach brutal, Dulles said, adding that he himself and his associates think it is worse than that because it is stupid and it will not work.

Mikoyan Caps Busy LA Tour

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—Visiting Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan capped a busy Los Angeles tour with a surprise appearance on a local television show Monday night.

The bustling Soviet official hobnobbed with movie stars, college students and dyed-in-the-wool capitalists before dashing through Hollywood in a police-led caravan to keep the hastily made TV date.

Not an egg, tomato or epithet was hurled at Mikoyan all day, in sharp contrast to his earlier visits in Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco. Police and State Department representatives kept him under close guard and will shepherd him to the airport today for his return flight to New York.

On the 25-minute TV program, Mikoyan answered a set of questions—carefully approved beforehand—that were submitted by commentator Paul Coates.

Mikoyan described himself, as he has throughout his United States tour, as a friendly grandfather who feels the differences between the U. S. and the Soviet Union can best be resolved by working closer together, especially in trade.

Could the dispute over the West's occupation of Berlin lead to a war? asked Coates.

"As far as we are concerned, we do not want a war," Mikoyan said through an interpreter. "But it is up to the other side to keep peace."

Earlier in the day, Mikoyan was asked for comment on whether his Saturday meeting with President Eisenhower in Washington might help resolve the Berlin situation.

"I don't know what we will discuss at this time," he said. "But we will discuss everything that will be of interest to Mr. Eisenhower." He merely shrugged when asked whether the Berlin dispute would come up.

Ex-Officer Raps Police

The city council heard sharp criticism leveled at the present operation of the police department by a former police officer at its regular Monday night meeting.

Otis Metsker, 4735 Oregon Avenue, who stated he used to be a member of the police department, found fault with the present operation of the department, and suggested that the council reinstitute foot patrols in the downtown area, and go back to the use of motorcycle patrolmen.

Metsker stated he had been approached by panhandlers in the vicinity between Eighth and Ninth on Klamath Avenue a number of times recently. He also related an incident where a mother and child were afraid to go to their car in the vicinity of the same place because of men congregating in the area.

He stated that to his knowledge he had seen ex-cons on the streets and had not noted that they had been picked up for vagrancy.

He also did not like the idea of police cars being painted so the public could identify them readily.

After listening to his complaints, the council referred the matter to the police commission for its consideration. Councilman Walter Fleet, chairman of the police commission, reported that the patrolmen were now out of their cars about one-third of the time on beat activity. He took issue with Metsker, pointing out that police cars now patrol all areas of the city, not just the downtown taverns as in the past.

Incidentally, the police report drunk arrests in December showed a 100 per cent increase over 1957. There were 61 such arrests in December 1957 as against 125 in December of 1958.

Most of these arrests were of the on-street variety. These had increased from 27 in December 1957 to 105 for December 1958.

Persons who have failed or refused to pay their occupation taxes for the year May 1, 1958 to April 30, 1959, will be in for a court test. The council passed a resolution authorizing the city to go into court to gain injunctions against these persons which would prevent them from doing business or practicing their professions inside the city limits until they have paid their occupation tax.

City Attorney Henry Perkins reported only a few such instances, but said that the resolution was necessary to empower the city to act promptly in cases of failure or refusal to pay the tax.

Permission was granted to members of the KUHS sophomore class to sell hot chocolate on the street at 717 Main Street for three successive Saturdays, beginning January 24. Increase Noted In Unemployment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unemployment jumped back above four million in December as employment declined seasonally with curtailment of outdoor work in winter weather.

The government reported that employment fell by 680,000 in December, dropping from 64,633,000 to 63,953,000.

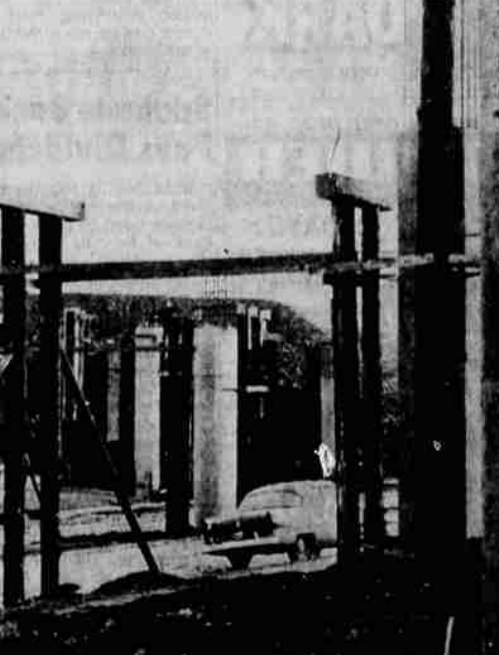

Unemployment increased by 275,000 to 4,100,000 compared with 3,833,000 in November. This was the largest increase among the 12 months since last June when unemployment reached 3,437,000—the recession high.

TOKYO (UPI)—Tokyo police are planning to add women to the force to help fight juvenile delinquency. To be eligible for a police job, a woman must be a widow and a mother.

THE BRIDGE SUPPORTS for the California Avenue overpass are already poured and work on the steel structure of the bridge should soon be underway. Approximate cost of the California bridge will be $199,720.
