

HUGH TAYLOR

State Aide Given Post

Gov. Mark Hatfield today approved the appointment of Hugh Taylor, 62, veteran State Department of Agriculture employee, as chief of the division of plant industry, on the recommendation of Director Frank McKennon, whom he succeeds.

In addition to his long tenure with the Department of Agriculture, which began for Taylor on July 7, 1934, he has had considerable personal experience in dairy farm and crop management.

A Salem resident since 1941, when he became assistant chief of the division, Taylor had previously served as supervisor of shipping point inspection at Ontario.

Before entering state work, he owned and operated, together with a brother, one of the largest (135 cows) retail dairies in the state. He later owned and managed a 64-acre orchard tract at Weiser, Idaho, which produced an average 60 cars of apples yearly.

Taylor is an executive board member of the Association of American Seed Control officials, and a Western representative of the organization. He is also a member of the Western Seed Control Officials.

Son of a pioneer Oregon farmer and public servant, Walter K. Taylor, who was mayor of Corvallis for several terms, he attended Oregon State College and served with the Navy. His mother, 84, is active in Corvallis civic and church circles.

He is a member of the Presbyterian Church, Salem; Men's Garden Club, Salem; the Masonic Lodge, and the American Legion. His son, Ralph Taylor, is a Salem attorney.

"Frank McKennon is recognized throughout the West as one of the top leaders in agriculture and this appointment offers an excellent challenge in which I hope to be a credit to my predecessor and continue with his policies," Taylor said.

Springfield To Host Meet

The second annual Oregon State Coin Jamboree will be held in Springfield on Saturday and Sunday, January 24 and January 25. The Willamalane Coin Club of Springfield will host the jamboree at the Park and Recreation District's Memorial Building at Eighth and North A streets, and there will be ample free parking space at this location.

There will be 15 hours tables with dealers from several states. The auction on Saturday will be at 2 p.m. Sunday's auction, also at 2 o'clock will feature choice materials.

Coin collectors are invited to come and exhibit their coins and currency, and should bring their own cases for exhibit. Ribbons will be awarded each classification.

Registration fee is 50 cents, optional, and coffee will be served both days free to those who register. There will be no admission charge. Visitors are invited.

Wooden nickels will be sold as souvenirs, one commemorating the Oregon State Centennial and the other the Coin Club Jamboree. The nickels will sell at 15 cents each, or two for 25 cents.

Anyone who wishes to order any of these wooden nickels by mail should write to Harry Hawkins, 2740 Main Street, Springfield, Oregon.

An organizational meeting will be held on Monday, January 26, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 115, KUHS.

Present plans are to award certificates for the satisfactory completion of the courses.

For further information, call Clara Fink, instructor, at TU 4-7470, evenings or the high school vocational office, TU 4-7583, during office hours.

VERY SIMPLE
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mayor Norris Paulson, noting that both political parties use the same decorations and hunting for their national conventions, offered another reason today for the Republicans to hold their convention here next year.

"All they would have to do," he said, "is take down President Wilson's picture and put up one of President Lincoln."
