AN EXCHANGE STUDENT from Germany, Dieter Heinrich, who attends Dunsmuir High School, spoke to the Dunsmuir Women's Club at its January meeting recently. Dieter, who makes his home in Dunsmuir with the Durdward Gass family, is shown here with Mrs. Gass.

JOE SEARLES, left, assistant civil defense director, and Chief Melvin G. Gordon gave pertinent facts on the need for home preparedness to leaders of Klamath County Home Extension Units at a workshop at the county fairgrounds January 20. Films were used to illustrate the talks by authorities on the dangers of not being ready for any eventuality.

Homemakers Hear Need Of Action

More than 100 women representing about 50 women's organizations were in attendance at the civil defense meeting which was held recently at the fairgrounds according to Ruth Gustavson, county extension agent. The purpose of this meeting was to acquaint homemakers with the need for family action in the case of an emergency and to become familiar with the necessary preparations.

Assistant civil defense director, Joe Searles, opened the meeting by discussing the civil defense plan for Klamath County. In this he discussed its mission, its organizational structure and resources, and the role that is expected of women's organization in civil defense. The film "Operation Welcome" was shown which explained traffic control, registration and inquiry, housing refugee families in rural homes. Mrs. Mabel Mack, associate director of the Extension Service, Oregon State College, and Mrs. Nova Young, consultant nurse, Oregon State Civil Defense Agency, explained the reasons for home preparedness and the women's committee for civil defense at national, state and local levels and how these committees function.

A skit "Let's Plan to do it Now," which explained how all family members can participate and be prepared for family action, was presented by Mrs. Or-

German Exchange Student Says Studies Easier Here

By PEGGY WALSH
DUNSMUIR - Dieter Heinrich, German exchange student attending Dunsmuir High School, explained to the Dunsmuir Women's Club at its January luncheon meeting that the American Field Service student program is a "preventative" measure.

He told the members that the American Field Service after doing volunteer ambulance work during two world wars chose the student exchange as a project to insure against another crippling, maiming war.

Dieter himself expressed enthusiasm for this method of encouraging world understanding. "You cannot read about people and look at pictures of them and know them," he said. There are now 1,200 foreign students in the United States this year and the program is growing, Dieter said.

Dieter said that 80 per cent of German youth do not go beyond the eighth grade. Of the remainder, 14 per cent go to trade or vocational schools for two years, six per cent go to the high school preparing them for university training but less than three per cent graduate.

Participation in sports or working while attending high school is almost physically impossible with the work load of 14 subjects, Dieter said, and the triple load gaining in popularity in the United States, college, job and marriage, Dieter classed as "impossible."

German youth have "the spirit of obedience," Dieter said and none defy their parents or teachers or approach them with familiarity. Asked for a comparison, Dieter grinned, "Your system has certain advantages."

He said the school he attends exists wherever there is room, churches, basements, etc. "It would be too much trouble to move the students, the teachers have to hurry from place to place."

He compared his country in size to Oregon and said a population one third that of the United States lived within its borders. "Coal is still our most important source of industrial energy," Dieter pointed out in his well-prepared speech.

His American mother, Mrs. Durdward Gass, was also an honored guest at the luncheon at the Hotel Dunsmuir. Mrs. Harry Harper Jr. presided and Mrs. John Mather was program chairman. Table decorations of driftwood were prepared by Mrs. Nellie Masson.

This was a leader training meeting in which the women will be presenting this information to the organization represented. The meeting was sponsored by the county extension office and the civil defense office of Klamath County.

WEED-The importance of all citizens taking an active part in civil defense, was stressed by George Van Buskirk, Yreka, assistant director of Civil Defense in Siskiyou County, who was guest speaker for the Weed Business and Professional Women's Club January meeting. He emphasized the need for civil defense organization as a peace time measure to meet disaster problems as well as its importance as preparedness for wartime.

"Space Age" was the title of a film presented by Arthur Fish, Weed elementary schoolteacher, who spoke on National Security and related the condition of world affairs today.

Mrs. Hazel Cates, president, presided at the meeting held at the Y-Cafe.

The club members attending voted to donate $25 to the Weed Senior Girl Scouts; and a $5 donation for promotion of the Siskiyou County Science Fair.

Mrs. Joyce Holmquist, Mrs. Mary Young and Mrs. Emiline Ganim were elected to serve as the nominating committee and will report a new slate of officers at the February meeting.

Observance of the club's fourth birthday will be the theme for the next meeting, February 19, slated as a social event to be held at the home of Mrs. Cee Strothers with Mrs. Eda Ruffalo, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Rena Santini, Mrs. Grace Smith and Mrs. Strothers.

The time will run from 8:30 p.m. until 11:30 p.m. The code of teen-age ethics will apply at all times, regarding dress, and makeup, as well as time to be home.

Morse Snipes At Neuberger

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) accused Sen. Richard Neuberger (D-Ore) Friday of "legislative cribbing" in the introduction of a bill authorizing construction of Bully Creek Dam and Reservoir in Oregon.

Morse said Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) introduced, on behalf of Senator Neuberger, the same Bully Creek bill Morse and Neuberger co-sponsored in the last session of Congress.

"I regret this act of legislative cribbing on the part of my junior colleague," Morse said, "and in keeping with my own record of assistance to deserving Oregon projects, I again introduce my Bully Creek bill."

A spokesman for Church said the Idaho senator introduced the bill at the request of Neuberger, in Oregon undergoing medical treatment.
