Key U.S. Base On Okinawa Stands Ready

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI) — This key U. S. base in the Western Pacific is ready for atomic or brushfire warfare.

The 3rd Marine Division under Brig. Gen. David Shoup is primed for any brushfire, and the 313th Air Division, under Brig. Gen. Dale O. Smith, is ready "if the chain is pulled on the big one."

Under U. S. security laws, no one is permitted to say whether nuclear weapons are stockpiled on this Ryukyuan Island stronghold less than 45 minutes jet-flying time from Shanghai. But most Americans on Okinawa believe unquestionably that such weapons are in stock on "the rock." They feel uneasy if they knew they weren't.

"Of course, I can't comment," Smith said. "But you can say we are not unhappy with our armaments."

Smith, at six-foot-seven, is the tallest Air Force general in the business and is considered one of the ablest commanders in his service.

Asked if Okinawa, by its proximity to the China coast, would not be particularly vulnerable in case of atomic missile war, Smith replied:

"I don't think the Chinese have atomic missiles. But I don't believe they would attack us because it would be like Pearl Harbor — war against the United States."

In the case of all-out war, Smith believes that the major blows would be aimed, not at Okinawa, but at the United States itself.

"Of course," he said, "there is always the possibility of sneak missile attacks from submarines, but we'll trust in the Seventh Fleet to take care of that."

During last fall's Quemoy crisis, the Reno, Nev., born general was back in Washington receiving treatment for a back ailment that still troubles him. But he is proud of the role his command played.

"We supported air operations in the area to the fullest and we sent the squadron to Formosa within seven hours after orders were received," he said.

Only the quick reaction of the U. S., in his opinion, saved the offshore islands. Without this, he indicated the Reds would have moved in.

"I believe the crisis was manufactured," Smith said, "to take the people's (Red Chinese) minds off the hardships of the commune system."

Turning to Russia's achievements, in outer space, Smith said: "I wouldn't be surprised if the Russians are first in getting a man into outer space. All of their projects are done with the psychological value in mind and they perhaps don't place such a high value on human life."

"Our program, I feel, is a much sounder one. It's better balanced and I think will achieve greater results in the long run."

Alien Reports Due Friday

The United States Immigration and Naturalization Service reminded all aliens in the state of Oregon today that only five days remain in which non-citizens must file their annual address report as required by law.

James L. Turner, district director, pointed out that address reports are available at the nearest immigration service office or post office for the convenience of non-citizens required to report their address to the government each January under a provision of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952.

Turner said the only non-citizens not required to report their addresses are persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives of certain international organizations

UP THE LADDER

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Twenty-five years ago Mrs. Louise Scott could have been a domestic at the old 40-room Kreuger Mansion. Now she owns it. Mrs. Scott, a South Carolina Negro farm girl, came north after graduating from high school and took a job as a maid-servant. She went to night school, where she studied beauty culture. In 1944 she opened her own beauty salon here. Now she has a chain of five.

She bought the four-story Kreuger Mansion, once owned by Newark brewer Gottfried Kreuger, and is turning it into a neighborhood house.
