

MOVING OUT THE OLD to make room for the new was going on at B&B Radio and Electric, 316 South Sixth, as Mrs. Mary Bray and Joe W. Emmert worked all day Saturday sorting out old 78 rpm records to provide space for new Stereo albums. Approximately 2,500 78s were given by the firm to the commissioned officer's club at Kingsley Field, Klamath County Nursing Home, Henley High School and the Henley and Peterson elementary schools. The 78 rpm records were thought to be one of the largest collections in the state.

Labor Bill Fight Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said Thursday the key fight over his labor control bill will come on a floor effort to strip from it all provisions affecting the Taft-Hartley Law.

He declined, in talking with a reporter, to predict how this might come out at this early stage of the proceedings.

The Labor subcommittee which Kennedy heads continues its public hearings today. Witnesses will be Archibald Cox of Harvard University, who helped draft the Kennedy bill; and Godfrey Schmidt of Fordham University.

Other senators supporting the Kennedy bill said they think the Senate floor vote on knocking out the Taft-Hartley changes would be very close.

These sources said privately that most Republican senators and many Southern Democrats probably would support such a move.

Several of the provisions also are in the Eisenhower administration bill introduced Wednesday, but that measure also includes other proposed changes strongly opposed by labor.

The AFL-CIO made it clear Wednesday that it would strongly oppose cutting Taft-Hartley changes from the Kennedy bill.

Andrew J. Biemiller, director of the AFL-CIO department of legislation, said at one point his organization would not support the bill if it happened. But he later withdrew that statement.

Three of the Taft-Hartley changes in Kennedy's bill are strongly desired by labor. These would:

1. Knock from Taft-Hartley a provision under which dismissed strikers are not permitted to vote in a bargaining election. As it is now, only their replacements vote.

2. Permit a building contractor to enter an agreement with a union without waiting for a bargaining election.

3. Direct the National Labor Relations Board to take full jurisdiction of all federal cases and not permit states to handle them where the state law differs from the federal statute.

Kennedy noted that the first two of these are substantially the same as provisions in President Eisenhower's bill. On the third point, the administration bill would permit states to act in cases not taken over by the labor board.

King Simon Of Bulgaria Sees Downfall Of Reds

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — "Communists cannot rule forever. Despotisms have always fallen. Why should this one be an exception? It may be a long time, but the real judgment of the people will come in the end. When it does, I want to be ready. And I can wait, for I am young."

Those determined words came today from exiled King Simeon II of Bulgaria. His country has been a Soviet satellite since the Red coup in 1946.

Simeon is half way through a year of intense training, grooming himself for what he hopes will be a return to the throne. Or if not that, then some other on-the-spot service to his people.

At 21 he is one of the oldest cadets among over 900 at Valley Forge Military Academy in neighboring Wayne. He is cramming two years work into one, taking to discipline as some youths embrace romance.

That is the annealing process chosen by this handsome, six-foot, dark-haired lad.

Whatever the future may have in store, the present is rich in laurels. Simeon has just been named the finest upper class plebe in the corps, given a medal, and made a sergeant.

Pretty good for a king without a kingdom, he mused. Yet he was quick to point out that he is a king in exile, not an ex-king. A regency ruled for him after the Germans had killed his father, King Boris, and until the Reds moved in.

He tackles even drudgery with zest, scrubbing and polishing, brushing and sweeping, making beds, cleaning weapons and other gear.

"I want to be spared nothing," he asserted. "There is nothing about my life I dislike. My fellowship with classmates is wonderful. Self-discipline makes leaders as well as followers. It helps you to get more out of life."

His day runs from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m., crowded with class periods, drills and other formations, hours of study.

"He'll hardly date or dance," one academy official related. "He shies from girls. You can't get him to relax. I've never seen one so young so dedicated."

He carries on a kind of government-in-exile, helping refugees with passports, money problems, and finding missing relatives. His countrymen in North America call him king.

Simeon was crowned at the age of six, but soon a Soviet election ousted him. He fled with his mother, now in Madrid, and his sister, Marie Louise, who is married to a Toronto stockbroker of princely German blood.

"The Communists spread a lie that we were given 20 million dollars when we left," Simeon said. "They gave us nothing. We would not have used it if they had. Their money was tainted. Our income is from what we were able to get out of Bulgaria and from money left us by my grandfather."

That was his mother's father, the former King Victor Emanuel of Italy. When Simeon finishes at Valley Forge he plans to tour the United States for several months, then join his mother in Madrid.

Oregon Colleges List Lake Pupils

LAKEVIEW—Reports from some of the Oregon colleges show many of the Lakeview students achieving scholastic honor roll standing during the fall term, as a result of making at least a B plus average for the term.

Four out of the 10 Lakeview students who registered as freshmen at Oregon State College this past fall were listed on the honor roll. With their grade point averages they are Gayle Jones, 3.61; Barbara Freeman, 3.56; Judy Snider, 3.06; and Marvin Tyler, 3.27. Brian McNeal, whose parents are now residents of Lakeview, made straight A grades during the term.

At Southern Oregon College, Ashland, Melba Snow made a straight A average, or a grade point average of 4.0. Marjorie Samples made 3.67; Lanette Ashcraft, 3.50; Karen Elle, 3.18; and Starla Trippett, 3.06.

At Lewis and Clark College, Jack Williams was one of 29 students commended for "sustained outstanding scholarship in 1957-58" at a special honor invocation early in the month. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams of Lakeview and is a member of Adignos, junior academic honor society which honors and promotes scholarship on the campus. Standards for membership include intellectual curiosity as well as superior achievement. His is a junior chemistry major.

Bank Directors Succeed Selves

LAKEVIEW — At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Lakeview Federal Savings and Loan Association on January 21 at the office of the association, the directors whose terms had expired were elected to succeed themselves. They were L. E. Ogile, R. E. Harlan and Marguerite K. Nelson. Chick Chaloupka, w a s named to fill the unexpired term of M. M. Barry.

At the directors meeting which followed, B. C. Robinson was elected president; R. E. Harlan, first vice president; J. E. Blair, second vice president; E. G. Favell, secretary-treasurer; and Marguerite K. Nelson, assistant secretary.

The dividend declared by the association as of December 31, 1958, was 3 1/2 per cent per annum, which is the same as it has been for the two previous six months periods. Assets increased from $1,188,237 as of June 30 to $1,231,472 as of December 31.

Representatives Hit New License

SALEM (AP) — Coastal area representatives told the House Fish and Game Committee Wednesday a bill to require licenses for salt water fishing would hurt the tourist business.

They said it would take away the public's privileges. State Game Commission Director Phil Schneider appeared in opposition to a bill which would allow the governor to extend the hunting season after it had been suspended for fire hazard.

He said extension of the season would leave migrating herds at the mercy of the hunters. The committee delayed action on the two bills.

Oregon Seeking RR Tax Repeal

SALEM (AP) — A memorial asking Congress to repeal the 10 per cent tax on passenger transportation was passed unanimously by the House Wednesday and sent to the Senate.

Sponsors said the tax was levied in 1941 as a war measure to provide revenue and discourage transportation of passengers. They said there is no excuse for such a bill in peacetime.

Ed Members Hear Jurist

SALEM (AP) — Clackamas County Circuit Judge Ralph M. Holman told the House Education Committee Wednesday that lowering the compulsory age for staying in school from 18 to 16 would be a progressive step.

Holman, a member of the Judicial Interim Committee which proposed the bill, told the committee it had to determine the function of schools—education or protection.

He said labor laws also should be relaxed to broaden employment opportunities for those who leave school early.

Holman said some children are harmed by requiring that they remain in school until they are 18 or graduate. He estimated that less than 5 per cent of the students would quit.

Wise words from Dato Raja Haji Oman, present cabinet member of the government of Malaya in the East Indies: "If everyone believes in religion, the world will have lasting peace because religion itself is peace."

4-H NEWS

LAKEVIEW—Lake County's 4-H Leaders Association was awarded one of three "certificates of achievement" sponsored by the Portland General Electric Company at the annual 4-H Leaders Conference banquet last Wednesday in Corvallis.

Mildred Scoville, president of the Lake County Association received the award.

These awards are made for outstanding leadership and accomplishment in furthering the development of 4-H Club work in the county.

Benton and Clackamas counties received the other certificates and Linn County won the traveling trophy.

Nearly 300 4-H leaders from all over the state attended the two-day conference. This year's conference was devoted to planning sessions concerned with project revisions and improvement of such activities as 4-H camps and fairs, with the theme "Focus on the future through 4-H." Lake County's delegation included Mildred Scoville, Virginia Petty, Margaret Kay, and County Extension Agent
