Daughters Honor Mother At Tea

ALTURAS—Mrs. Della Warner Pengelly was honored with a birthday tea at her home on December 31, given by her daughters, Mrs. Amos Hoyt of Tulake, Mrs. Donald Asher and Mrs. Charles Asher, both of Alturas.

Mrs. Pengelly was born in Sacramento and came to Alturas with her parents, H. G. and Carrie Kimsey Warner.

The large tea table was covered with a crocheted tablecloth made by Mrs. Hoyt. A fruitcake was served from a crystal cake stand which the honoree and her late husband, Henry, received as a wedding gift more than a half century ago. Chrysanthemums of an orchid hue arranged in a crystal bowl and tall white tapers formed the centerpiece.

Rebekah Lodge Installation

Prosperity Rebekah Lodge No. 104 held a public installation of officers Friday evening, January 2, at the IOOF Hall. The lodge room was attractively decorated with silver baskets of pink carnations and sprays of silver evergreens. Mrs. Velma Krauss was installed as noble grand for 1959. Her name in large silver letters was placed above her station.

Candles in the east were lighted by candlelighters Lynnette Angel, granddaughter of Mrs. Krauss, and Cathy Angel of Hildebrand, who were dressed in white satin angel costumes trimmed with rhinestones and glitter. As the little "Angels" entered the room, a quartet of Theta Rho girls sang "The Angels are Lighting God's Little Candles."

Janice McCornack and Lynnette Angel entertained with piano solos and the Theta Rho quartet sang the "President Song." Zelma Howard gave the closing prayer.

A bouquet of pink carnations was presented to Mrs. Krauss from members of the Order of Odd Fellows. She was also presented with a house plant from the Rebekah Lodge and a gavel from her children: James V. Self and Beauford E. Self of Lake Charles, Louisiana. Mrs. William G. Fort of Fullerton, California and Mrs. Albert Angel of Klamath Falls.

bearer; Ann Hescok, inside guardian and Ethel Youngren, outside guardian.

Installing officers for the evening were May Phinney, district deputy president; Nina Crawford, deputy warden; Vera Clemens, deputy secretary; Frances Munsell, department financial secretary; Lorene McCollum, deputy treasurer; Lorene Cofer, deputy musician; Lina Moetschenbacher, deputy inside guardian; Ramona Hanks, deputy outside guardian; Zelma Howard, deputy chaplain and Harriet Estes, deputy marshal.

A reception was held in the banquet room which was decorated in a theme of pink and silver. The refreshment table held pink tapers and a bouquet of mixed spring flowers arranged in a tall antique silver vase. Mrs. Edna Russell poured coffee and Donna Odell presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Helen Blanas, Mrs. Helen McCornack and Mrs. Edith Barlene were in charge of decorations. May Phinney, district deputy president, was in general charge of the installation.

ROUND NAPKINS

Round napkins are fashionable now. Women who do their own ironing may wonder how to do a good job on these. Simply iron them as you do round doilies. Work from the center out to make round pieces come back to size and shape. Also, swing the iron back and forth in an arc from the center.
