

THE KLAMATH COUNTY Unit of the Junior - Senior High School Teachers' Group which met recently at Altamont Junior High School heard Glen Weaver, Oregon State Department of Education speak of "Counsel and Guidance." Kirby Brumfield gave statistical information on occupational guidance. A coffee hour with Beulah Elliott and DeaJean Wright, hostesses, preceded the business meeting. Coming speech festivals were discussed. Seated, left to right, are Frances Koertje, secretary of the Klamath County unit, and Rose O'Leary, president. Standing, same order, are Carrol Howe, Klamath County school superintendent, Kirby E. Brumfield, Glen Weaver and Robert Schmore, vice president.

VERNON J. (JERRY) SILVA, left, looks at the typewriter and check protector which Sheriff Murray Britton, right, helped retrieve Saturday, under Silva's direction, from a canal alongside the Worden-Midland Highway. During questioning by Britton and Deputy Del Summers, Silva, who surrendered on a forgery charge involving a worthless $102 check, via telephone from Eureka last week, told officers where this equipment could be found. According to the sheriff's office, Silva admits that he stole the check protector from the Henris Roofing Company, and that he rented the typewriter from Shaw Stationery. Silva, who is apparently implicated in the passing of at least one other worthless check, in Medford, waived a preliminary hearing in district court Friday, and is being held in lieu of $4,000 bond. — Photo courtesy of Sheriff J.
