

PELICANA PRESENTATION equipment is checked by Harold Diehl, who is in charge of the lighting and amplification system for the event which will take place at Mills Auditorium April 10. Since Pelicana is a variety show, the lighting conditions must be varied with each act. A tape recording must also be made of the show, and then edited for airing over one of the local radio stations.

Wagon Train Oregon Bound

PORTLAND (AP)—An Oregon-bound train of five covered wagons, due to leave Independence, Mo., on April 1 along the old Oregon Trail route, will have a modern touch.

The wagon train, part of Oregon's Centennial Celebration this year, is expected to take 130 days for a 2,000 mile journey.

But wayside points need not fear that 30 Oregonians will completely emulate their forefathers. The group plans to carry its own food, rather than live off the land. They also plan to use a flatbed truck and trailer to carry water and hay, rather than turn their stock loose to forage.

The wagons—now under construction at Eugene—will follow existing roads, which closely parallel the old Oregon Trail through Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Idaho and Oregon.

Gordon (Tex) Serpa of Ashland will be wagonmaster.

Special March 3 Election Will Be Year's First Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special election March 3 to elect a Missouri congressman will provide this year's first test of major party strength at the polls.

The election may have a certain psychological value in subsequent state and local contests later in the year.

In the special election, the voters will choose a successor to the late Democratic Rep. George H. Christopher, who died Jan. 22. It is the home district of former President Harry S. Truman, and includes seven rural counties and part of Kansas City.

Democratic party officials said they expect to win in the normally Democratic district, but noted that Republicans won it for one term in 1952. Republicans considered their candidate faces an uphill battle. Both sides agreed special elections are often unpredictable.

Democrats expressed some fear that the manner in which the Democratic candidate was picked may have left some hard feelings in the rural counties.

The Democratic candidate is William J. Randall, 48, a Jackson County judge—administrative, not judicial—and a native of Truman's home town of Independence.

He is a compromise candidate, having been selected at a Democratic committee meeting to break a five-hour deadlock between two other choices.

Christopher won last November by nearly 54 per cent of the vote, but party officials say they will be surprised if the Democratic margin even approaches that.

The Republican candidate is William R. McKee, 43, suburban Kansas City lumber dealer, who managed the Jackson County campaign of James A. Rahm, Republican candidate defeated by Christopher last November, 52,792 to 40,912.

Republican officials here say they will be happy if McKee increases Rahm's 1958 percentage. The GOP House Campaign Committee has sent a field representative to the district to help. Because it is the first major party test of 1959, both parties would like to win in Missouri for whatever value it might have on the scattered elections next Nov.

Money Approved For Memorial

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Superior Court has approved expenditure of $6,936 for a marble bench at Tyronne Power's gravesite in Hollywood Cemetery.

Executors of Power's estate asked that the sum be taken from the estate, valued at $300,000, on the request of the actor's widow, Mrs. Deborah Power.
