Church Vows Unite Couple

LAKEVIEW—Barbara Sue Forga became the bride of Royce Weatherford in a double ring ceremony, Friday, February 6, at the Deliverance Tabernacle. The Rev. Walter L. Price read the service at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvis C. Forga and Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Weatherford of Pearcey, Arkansas, are parents of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Ellen Ruhl was soloist and was accompanied by Mrs. Bob Peterson who also played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace gown with full waist length skirt and a white satin bolero jacket. Pearls and sequins trimmed the lace tiers of the skirt. A cluster of white flowers held her veil and she carried a nosegay of roses on a white ribbon.

Connie Wyman was maid of honor and wore a gown of lavender lace. Carolyn Forga was bridesmaid for her sister. Her dress was of pink lace. Both carried nosegays of chrysanthemums and wore necklaces that were gifts of the bride and bridegroom.

Janice Kay Forga, small sister of the bride, was dressed in pink nylon lace for her role as flower girl and carried a basket of white chrysanthemums.

At the reception which followed in the church parsonage, the cake was served by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Clay Presley. Coffee was poured by Mrs. E. S. Forga, also the bride's grandmother. Mrs. Eva Mae Alexander poured punch and Mrs. Alvas Elliott Jr. registered the guests. Both are aunts of the bride.

TOO EXPENSIVE
Back in 1961, really good kid gloves cost $1.30 a pair and ladies were complaining about glove prices!

STORK SHOWER

MONTAGUE — A pussywillow "diaper" tree and a glamorized feathered stork predominated the table decorations used for the surprise "silver" stork shower given in honor of Mrs. Lavella Compton, first grade teacher at the Montague Elementary School on Tuesday afternoon, January 27, with Mrs. M. W. Glenn and Mrs. H. J. Hurd in charge of preparations.

Tables were centered with pink and white streamers with bouquets of pussywillows and jasmine. White candles, and party favors of marshmallow storks for each guest completed the table appointments. The pussywillow "diaper" tree held the center of attention, each branch holding napkins folded into the shape of a diaper, each containing a silver dollar.
