

Reds Will Put Pressure On West Powers To Okay East Europe Commie Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev apparently intends to press the Western powers hard in forthcoming talks to accept the present Communist rule of the countries of Eastern Europe.

U.S. officials said today that seems to be the significance of a blunt, little noticed section of a speech covering foreign policy issues which Khrushchev made Tuesday at Tula, a city south of Moscow.

Although Eastern European countries long have been under Communist government, the Western powers have taken the line that Poland and Czechoslovakia, for instance, would some day gain freedom from what the West denounces as Communist tyranny.

Authorities have been analyzing the Tula speech here and in other Western capitals for clues to Khrushchev's immediate and long-range objectives in his campaign against continued Western occupation of West Berlin. They expect much better information on his purposes after his talks this weekend with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Macmillan may come to Washington for a conference with President Eisenhower following his Moscow trip, he told Parliament in London Thursday. He said also he plans to visit Bonn and Paris.

Khrushchev's Tula speech was regarded by experts in the State Department as taking a very tough line. He specifically warned the Western powers that if they tried to shoot their way to Berlin it would mean war. President Eisenhower replied at a news conference Wednesday that if there was any shooting the other side would have to start it.

In the course of his talk about the Western position, Khrushchev said that Western leaders have spoken of getting concessions out of the Soviet Union in any negotiations which are held. He declared that "we have nothing to concede."

Addressing himself to Western leaders he declared:

"Therefore, we say: be sensible! Understand our position. We do not want any acquisitions, either political or material. Let us endorse that which has happened as a result of the second World War and which has been recognized by the whole world. It is not to the liking of imperialists that after World War II socialism (communism) took root in Poland, the GDR (the East German Communist state), Czechoslovakia and other countries. Yet there is no escape from these facts."

Officials here who are experts on Soviet policy and diplomatic maneuver said this was probably the most precise statement of a major Soviet aim that Khrushchev has made. Usually, they said, he talks in terms of the "right" of the German Communist regime to Western recognition or generally in terms of "noninterference" in the affairs of other countries — meaning that the Western powers should not propagandize against Communist rule in Eastern Europe or elsewhere.

With respect to East Germany some experts think that one of Khrushchev's immediate objectives is to compel the Western governments to recognize the Communist regime as a legitimate government.

This could be one of the purposes of his Berlin campaign, as well as of his insistence that if the two parts of Germany are ever to be united it will have to be through direct negotiations between the West and East German governments.

By maintaining that position on reunification Khrushchev presumably hopes to give prestige to the East German regime whether or not he contributes to the unification process. Should the Western powers ever take him up on this formula he may believe it would result in securing a permanent foothold for organized communism in the reunited German nation.
