

Ex-Farmer Quits U.S.

DOWAGIAC, Mich. (AP) — A "for sale" sign has gone up on the farm of wheat rebel Stanley Yankus. The poultry farmer who decided to give up farming a month ago decided Friday to give up the United States.

Yankus, 39, one of Cass County's largest poultry farm operators, says he is "tired of beating my head against a stone wall" in a long fight against government wheat controls and is heading for Australia and a new start.

Since 1953, Yankus, married and the father of three children, has been fighting the government wheat acreage allotment program. He estimates he still owes about $2,600 in fines and penalties for growing more than the allotted wheat quota on his 100-acre farm near this southwestern Michigan community.

The government claimed about $1,700 of Yankus' bank account a year ago to settle part of the penalties. The farmer said he has asked the government to bill him as soon as possible for the rest.

"I'm infuriated by these actions and I'm going to leave the country because of them," Yankus said as he set the "for sale" sign in his front yard. Yankus has contended that wheat grown on his farm was used for feeding his poultry, not commercially. He sold about 53,000 dozen eggs a year. Yankus said he had been accepted by the Australian government as an immigrant and will leave the U. S. with his family as soon as his farm is sold and the rest of his fines are paid from the proceeds.

Yankus said he had decided to move to Australia because of his youngsters. "All I foresee here are more and more restrictions and no opportunities for my boys," he said. "They tell me they encourage expansion and initiative in Australia."

Girl Hoodlums Blamed By Police

PORTLAND (AP) — Police said today a gang of teenage girl hoodlums has been causing trouble in a Southeast Portland neighborhood.

The latest incident was a report by Ernest E. Osborn of 8065 SE 9th Ave. that the gang attacked his 12-year-old daughter, who said one of the girls had a knife.

Spotlight Falls On Femmes In Annual Oscar Carnival

By JAMES BACON
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The spotlight was on the ladies today in Hollywood's annual carnival of Oscars.

For the first time in years, there was no clear-cut favorite among the nominees for top actress. Not a tinted hair separates these five:

Elizabeth Taylor ("Cat on a Hot Tin Roof"); Susan Hayward ("I Want to Live!"); Deborah Kerr ("Separate Tables"); Shirley Maclaine ("Some Came Running"); and Rosalind Russell ("Auntie Mame").

With the men, the story is different. David Niven and Spencer Tracy were established as odds-on favorites with Niven given a slight edge in the early betting.

Niven was nominated for his role as the pathetic woman molester in "Separate Tables" and Tracy, up for his third Oscar, was nominated for his one man show in "The Old Man and the Sea."

Tony Curtis and Sidney Poitier, who went through "The Defiant Ones" handcuffed to each other, are expected to cancel each other out of the running by their well matched performances.

The fifth male nominee is Paul Newman for "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

"Gigi," already winner of awards from the Screen Producers Guild and the Screen Directors Guild, is expected to repeat in the Academy Awards as best picture come April 6.

But competition from the other nominees will be stiff. They are "Auntie Mame"; "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof"; "The Defiant Ones"; and "Separate Tables."

In the supporting categories, the nominees for the men are:

Theodore Bikel ("The Defiant Ones"); Lee J. Cobb ("The Brothers Karamazov"); Burl Ives ("The Big Country"); Arthur Kennedy ("Some Came Running"); and Gig Young ("Teacher's Pet").

The supporting actress nominees are Peggy Cass ("Auntie Mame"); Wendy Hiller ("Separate Tables"); Martha Hyer ("Some Came Running"); Maureen Stapleton ("Lonely Hearts"); and Cara Williams ("The Defiant Ones").

An oddity was Alex Guinness, last year's top acting Oscar winner, being nominated for the best screen play — "The Horse's Mouth."

As usual, the omissions caused almost as much talk as the nominations. Conspicuously missing were Ingrid Bergman for "Inn of the Sixth Happiness" and "Indiscreet"; Cary Grant for "Indiscreet"; Marlon Brando for "The Young Lions"; Jean Simmons for "Home Before Dark"; and Frank Sinatra for "Some Came Running."

All had been mentioned in pre-season predictions.

Blind Pupil Gets Degree

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — After 11 years in college, Stanley P. Zarlock, a former mechanic who lost his sight in 1943, has his doctor's degree in psychology.

The 34-year-old Phi Beta Kappa received it at the University of Buffalo's mid-year commencement Monday, while his wife and friends watched proudly.

"These are the people who made it possible for me to be here," Zarlock said.

After the factory accident that blinded him, Zarlock learned Braille and typing. His wife and friends helped by reading assignments to him. His wife also worked as a kindergarten teacher.

Four months ago he accepted a post as clinical psychologist at the Lexington, Ky., Veterans Hospital.

President Stuart Woods of the sponsoring University of Georgia Jazz Society, a senior from Manchester, Ga., said the society learned Monday that one of the performers was a Negro.

When notified of this, university officials decreed that the group, one of the top jazz bands in the country, could not perform on the university campus, Woods said.

Brubeck, reached by Woods in New York, termed the decree "un-constitutional and ridiculous." Asked if he would play without the Negro, Eugene White, Brubeck was quoted by Woods as saying, "not for a million dollars."

Astronomers Tell Finding Of New 'Neutron Star'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Astronomers think they may have discovered a "neutron star" in which matter has been packed to fantastic densities of millions of tons per cubic inch.

Whether it is a neutron star or not, it appears to be "a new stellar object" of a kind never before observed.

Some time between August, 1954, and November, 1958, the star exploded. Some time between last November and Jan. 12 it disappeared from telescopic view.

Radio telescopes are now being aimed in the direction of the "new object" in the hope of picking up signals from the turbulent hot gases ejected when it exploded.

No neutron stars have ever been detected before, but Dr. Fritz Zwicky of the California Institute of Technology had predicted them.

Zwicky calculated that in some dying stars forces of contraction become so great that atoms are crushed to the dimensions of their nuclei.

In normal atoms the nucleus is occupied by positive protons and neutral neutrons. In the neutron star negative electrons from the atom's shell are squeezed into the nuclear protons, which become neutrons too.

In such a collapse the atom loses nearly all of its volume, but retains all of its mass. According to a quick computation by Dr. Geoffrey Keller, astronomer of the national science foundation, this nuclear matter would weigh on the order of 100 million tons per cubic inch.

Astronomers have long been acquainted with a kind of dying star called the white dwarf which attains densities of 10 to 20 tons or more per cubic inch. White dwarfs, however, are fluffy compared to a neutron star.

The new object was discovered by Dr. W.J. Luyten of the Minnesota Observatory and Dr. G. Haro, Mexican astronomer, while studying photographic plates made at Mt. Palomar.

They found the star, 30,000 times too faint to be visible to the eye, on a plate taken Nov. 5, 1958. It does not appear on Palomar sky survey plates made in August, 1954. Some time between the two dates the star had faded.

By Jan. 12, 1959, when a photograph of the same region was made at the Tonantzintla Observatory in Mexico, the object had disappeared again. It had collapsed after the outburst that had made it optically visible as recently as last November.

Luyten and Haro ruled out the possibility that it could be an ordinary Galactic Nova, a familiar kind of exploding star, or a flare.

Jazz Concert Called Off

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—A March 4 jazz concert featuring Dave Brubeck's orchestra has been canceled because the bass player is a Negro.

President Stuart Woods of the sponsoring University of Georgia Jazz Society, a senior from Manchester, Ga., said the society learned Monday that one of the performers was a Negro.

When notified of this, university officials decreed that the group, one of the top jazz bands in the country, could not perform on the university campus, Woods said.

Brubeck, reached by Woods in New York, termed the decree "un-constitutional and ridiculous." Asked if he would play without the Negro, Eugene White, Brubeck was quoted by Woods as saying, "not for a million dollars."

star of any kind previously known to astronomy. They concluded that it "represents a new type of stellar object."

Radio astronomers of the Naval Research Laboratory, the National Radio Astronomy Observatory, and the Carnegie Institution of Washington hope the star's radiations will prove strong enough to give additional clues to its nature.
