Evangelists Slate Meets

A special series of Sunday night evangelistic meetings, to be held in the Seventh-day Adventist Church, will start on March 1. It is announced by Pastor Ronald Kegley Jr. The meetings will continue for 19 nights.

Pastor Kegley's first sermon of the series will be titled "The Heavens Are Telling," illustrated with colored slides of the sky.

Community singing, vocal and instrumental numbers are planned. Bibles and other prizes will be given away at each service.

The public is invited.

HEADED FOR DAVIS

The Rev. Dwayne Proett, one-time pastor of Peace Memorial Presbyterian Church who left Klamath Falls about two and one-half years ago to accept a pastorate in Monterey, Mexico, will go to the Davis Community Church in Davis, California, soon after Easter. His appointment has been approved by the Sacramento Presbytery. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Proett and their daughter and son, Debbie and Paul.

About one dollar of every five that Americans spend for recreation goes to the motion pictures.
