Ode Contest Now Open

Oregon writers have been invited to enter a Centennial poetry contest, it was announced this week by the Oregon State Poetry Association, jointly sponsoring the contest with the Oregon Centennial Fine Arts Advisory Committee. All contestants must be Oregon residents and may submit only one original, unpublished poem of not more than 30 lines. There should be related to Oregon or the Centennial celebration and publishing rights will belong to the Oregon Centennial Commission. First prize will be $250 with additional prizes of $300 and $150 for second and third places. Judges for the contest will be from out of state, the association announced. Entries should be sent to Mrs. Earl V. Dickensheets, president of the poetry association, 2928 N.W. Verde Vista Terrace, Portland, and must be postmarked not later than midnight, April 30. Mrs. Dickensheets says that each contestant must submit four typewritten copies, accompanied with the title of the poem on the outside of a sealed envelope with the writer's name inside. No poems will be returned.

Northern State Sportsman Plans Address To Chamber

DUNSMUIR—Henry Cline-schmidt of Redding, a recent Fish and Game Commission appointee and Northern California sportsman, will be the guest speaker at the March meeting of the Dunsmuir Chamber of Commerce, Chapman Wentworth, chamber president, announced to the board members Wednesday morning. Sportsmen from nearby communities will be invited to hear Cline-schmidt speak on the future of deer hunting at this dinner meeting at the Travelers Hotel on March 23 at 6:30 p.m. At the breakfast board meeting, Marjorie Young, beautification chairman, said city-owned property in the community was being mapped and service clubs and other organizations would be asked to take responsibility for landscaping these spots. Contributions of lawn seed and flower packets are needed for the city park, Miss Young said. Lee Huddle reported the city council would give favorable consideration to financing proper signing of the town and that the chamber would be expected to investigate highway restrictions, select possible sites and analyze costs. Frances McEnerney, urban redevelopment chairman, reported revision of building codes is under way and his committee will meet with Dick Mitchell of San Francisco, federal urban redevelopment representative in this area, on Tuesday evening at the city hall. Bob Dewey, planning commission member, announced the analysis of streets and highways in the area will be complete next month. Paul Alcouffe, public building chairman, was asked to present a definite plan for a community hall. Dom Sirmanni commented that plans for a public building or any other development should not be deferred in consideration of highway changes that might not take place for the next 10 years if at all.

Forest Service Purchases Inn

TULELAKE—Timber Mountain Inn, located in Modoc County on State Highway 139, a tourist attraction for the last 15 years, has been sold to the Modoc National Forest Service and its famous collection of 20 old music boxes, its glass chandeliers and other remnants of the Gay 90s have been stored. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hamilton, who came to Tulelake as homesteaders in 1922, plan to do some traveling. Mrs. Hamilton's sister, Miss Laura Westbrook, who has assisted with the business and done much of the repair work on the mechanical music boxes, will remain in Tulelake to care for the antiques. The forest service will use the building for a fire station, replacing the Dry Lake station.

Oregon Asks Education Aid

SALEM (AP)—A memorial asking Congress for federal aid to education was approved 15-10 by the Oregon Senate Thursday in almost a party line vote. The House had voted for it 33-25. All of the votes for the bill were cast by Democrats and Sen. Francis W. Ziegler (R-Corvallis). The opposing votes were by Republicans. The memorial has to go back to the House, which had voted that federal aid be used for school construction and teachers' salaries. The Senate knocked out that restriction, favoring the aid for any purpose. Sen. Monroe Sweetland (D-Milwaukie), chairman of the Senate Education Committee, told the Senate that Oregon needs the aid because it is reaching the limit on what it can raise by property taxes for local schools. He denied that federal aid would mean loss of local control of the schools. "But Sen. Carl Francis (R-Dayton) replied that 'one of the real perils is that federal subsidies eventually lead to federal control.'" Then Sen. Donald R. Husband (R-Eugene) argued that local school districts are the best insurance against expanding government. An argument that federal aid would improve education in backward states was made by Sen. Alfred H. Corbett (R-Portland).

Woolly Chinned To Be Guests Of J. W. Kerns

Over 100 hopefuls who have grown beards since last January 1 and residents of the Klamath Basin who would like to view the bearded beauties are to be guests of the J. W. Kerns Company, 734 South Sixth Street, on Tuesday, March 17, St. Patrick's night. The big party at the company headquarters, to begin at 7 p.m., will include awarding of the prizes for the longest, curliest, best trimmed and oddest trimmed beards. Grand prize, a Norge dryer goes to the owner of the best beard in Klamath County. Other prizes will include two electric razors, an electric travel iron and a barbecue. Members of the local barbers union will judge the entrants. The Klamath Falls Barbershop Quartet will sing. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Chief Re-elected By Tulelake ID

TULELAKE—Sam Anderson has been named president of the Tulelake Irrigation District for another term to serve with Frank King Jr., vice president; Maurice K. Strantz, secretary; Ivan Rose, Lester Cushman and Leslie Rogers, directors. The board reorganizes every two years. Anderson has served as president for several two year terms. The district will receive bids at 10 a.m. March 23 in the district office for farming for weed control purposes. Interested parties are invited to consult the maps in the district office. Bids will also be received on the same date for approximately 31 acres of berms in the public land areas. These areas are along the N Canal, and the N-12 laterals and presently are a weed control problem. Permission to farm these areas will be in an effort to control weeds.

Funerals

SELBY—Private services will be conducted for D. Daniel Selby Jr., 54, found dead northeast of Dunsmuir last Sunday. The sheriff-coroner's report attributed the death to natural causes. Selby, the object of a widespread search since his disappearance on February 5, was a native of Siskiyou County and had lived most of his life in Dunsmuir. He leaves his mother, Mrs. D. D. Selby Sr.; four sisters, Mrs. Elsie Rooney of Weed, Mrs. Bertha Kelly of Sacramento, Betty Selby of San Francisco, Mrs. Donald Tellow of Redding and a brother, Horace Selby of Hayfork. GONZALES—Recitation of the Holy Rosary for Guadalupe Gonzales will take place from the chapel of Ward's Klamath Funeral Home, Friday, March 13, 1959, 7 p.m. Requiem mass Saturday, March 14, at 8:45 a.m., Sacred Heart Church.

Happenings In Review Told By Assemblywoman

MONTAGUE—The office of Assemblywoman Pauline Davis in Sacramento has released some information concerning activities last week in the state capital. A bill, which would give the governor the authority to appoint the chief of the State Division of Beaches and Parks, was passed by the assembly and now is awaiting action in the Senate. This official currently is nominated by the State Park Commission and appointed by the director of natural resources. The contention is this makes his responsibility ambiguous and creates what is termed a "frustrating" situation for those persons attempting to do business with the Division of Beaches and Parks. In the Senate a hassle is developing over a Brown administration bill introduced by Senator Richard Richards (D) of Los An-

Name Sought By Rangers

ETNA—The Forest Service is seeking a name with local flavor for the proposed campground to be built just below the new Scott River bridge at the Dowling Place, 13.5 miles west of Fort Jones. During Conservation Week, March 7 to 14, suggested names may be submitted together with a statement, in 25 words or less, giving the reason for the choice of name. The school principals will choose the best from their school before submitting a name. Competition is limited to students attending Scott Valley schools. The judges will be Louis E. Haan of the Forest Service, Calvin Veale, Fort Jones merchant, and Mrs. William D. Mathews, Etna housewife. Winners will be announced prior to April 15, 1959 and decision of the judges will be final. First prize will be a horseback show-me trip of the Marble Mountains, conducted by the district ranger, in the summer of 1959. Second prize is a show-me trip of the Scott River District Lookouts, conducted by the fire control assistant during the summer of 1959. Third prize is a show-me trip of the Fort Jones Ranger Station conducted by the dispatcher, during the summer, 1959.
