

Border Violation Charge Fans Iraqi-UAR Flames

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—A new Syrian charge of Iraqi border violation added more fuel Monday to the burning feud between President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem.

In the third such accusation in a week, a spokesman for the United Arab Republic's 1st Army claimed that 30 Iraqis thrust across Syria's frontier Sunday and attacked two Syrian guards, wounding one.

Nasser predicted uprisings against the Iraqi premier would continue "as long as dictatorship and the heresy of communism continues" in Iraq.

In Baghdad, leftists called on Kassem to arm the people and purge the army and government of traitors. The idea obviously was to get rid of army officers and others sympathetic to Nasser's aim of Arab unity.

Some 50,000 students and workers paraded through the heart of Cairo Sunday in a demonstration against Kassem and Iraqi Communists. The demonstrators, led by Cairo University students, denounced Kassem's regime and pledged support for Nasser's campaign against Reds in the Middle East.

Leaders of Nasser's National Union — the only political party permitted in the U.A.R.—called on Arabs everywhere to help topple Kassem's regime and "check the Communist cancer in the body of the Arab nation."

The latest Syrian border charge said the Iraqi troops crossed the frontier near Talhamar village, in the general area where U.A.R. officials claimed three Iraqi fighters strafed villages Saturday. Last Tuesday U.A.R. sources charged that Iraqi planes shot up the frontier hamlet of Hamoudia and destroyed a house.

Cairo newspapers expressed belief the planes charged with Saturday's strafing were chasing rebel refugees from the northern Iraqi oil center of Mosul, site of last week's uprising.

The Iraqi government reported nearly a week ago that the rebellion was crushed, but reliable reports have indicated some fighting is continuing in outlying areas.

AP correspondent Stan Carter visited Mosul over the weekend and said the 100 or so foreigners there were safe. But he reported sizeable casualties in the fighting and many dead in a battle between fleeing rebels and pro-Kassem villagers on the road to Syria.

Taken on a tour of the city by the commander of a Baghdad battalion sent to restore order, Carter saw only a few scars of the bloody battle. The Mosul army garrison headquarters had a gaping hole where rockets struck the unoccupied office of Col. Abdel Wahab Shawaf, reported leader of the revolt. There was another hole in the conference room where Shawaf and his staff were conferring last Monday.

Iraqi army officers told Carter that Shawaf and his staff, wounded by rockets, had been killed by their own soldiers while being driven to a hospital.

U.S. Welfare, Security Felt Impact Of Legion

Editors Note: Tom Wheeler, 4th District commander, The American Legion, prepared the following story for release commemorating the 40th anniversary of the birth of The American Legion in Paris, France.

Members of The American Legion here and everywhere else have a right to be proud of the 40 years of service rendered their communities, states and nation.

As The American Legion celebrates the 40th anniversary of its birth, March 15 to 17, its members can gain renewed inspiration for the fifth decade of their accomplishments since 1919.

While it is possible to count notes and reckon expenditures, the profound effect of the labors of millions of legionnaires on American life cannot be measured. They had a tremendous and beneficial impact on the American scene.

Few have ever credited The American Legion with pioneering in new social concepts. But it is fact that through its rehabilitation activities for World War I veterans, The American Legion brought about enlightened new concepts in the care of all sick, disabled and physically-handicapped.

Likewise The American Legion, through its child welfare program achieved a recognized leadership in raising the standards of the care and protection of all children in America.

By its persistence on adequate national preparedness since its cradle days, The American Legion helped to convince the American people that peace can be insured only through strength and not by examples in disarmament.

The American Legion has made monumental contributions to the cause of education. It initiated American Education Week in 1921 to focus public attention on the accomplishments and needs of American schools. The annual observance of this week has become an American tradition. From its very beginning, The American Legion has supported, better pay for teachers and during depression periods fought against economies that would have closed schools. Through the educational provisions of its World War II and Korean War GI bills, The American Legion brought a boom to college and vocational training that has resulted in raising the intellectual level of the entire nation.

Through its unflinching and militant opposition to Communism, The American Legion was largely responsible for the creation of the House Un-American Activities Committee in 1938, whose exposure has aroused the American people and government to the Red conspiracy in the United States.

American Legion legislative efforts helped to bring about enactment of the National Defense Act of 1920 which gave this country its first workable plan for a small regular army, augmented by adequate National Guard and Organized Reserve components.

The Veterans Administration is The American Legion's greatest living memorial. Organized first as the Veterans Bureau, through American Legion legislative efforts in 1920, it became the VA in 1935.

The adjusted compensation for World War I veterans was largely the product of American Legion efforts.

Benefits taken away from veterans by the Economy Act of 1933 were restored by The American Legion-backed public law 141 over a Presidential veto, March 28, 1934.

The American Legion has been largely responsible for the entire structure of state and federal laws dealing with veteran affairs and the realistic compensation program for the disabled and their dependents.

The Widows and Orphans' bill, known as Public Law 483, 78th Congress in December 1944, marked a great American Legion legislative accomplishment.

The American Legion initiated and successfully backed the Veteran Preference Act of 1944. It also backed the creation of the Veterans Employment Service in 1949.

The American Legion was the first to label Hitler as an enemy of peace.

It was first to denounce Stalin as a foe of freedom.

It was first to oppose United States recognition of Soviet Russia.

It was the first to advocate strengthening of the United Nations Charter to eliminate the veto in matters involving aggression.

It was the first to send a commission to Europe in 1941 to study civil defense and was the first to issue an American manual on the protection of the home front.

The American Legion launched its first "Tide of Toys" in 1950 to send three million playthings to needy children in Europe. Its second drive in 1951 netted five million toys for the kiddies overseas.

During World War II The American Legion conducted vast scrap metal drives, collected playing records, playing cards and cigarettes for American fighting men and women overseas, staged bond drives, trained instructors for air raid wardens and established blood banks.

The American Legion in 1950 or-organized The All-American Conference to Corbat Communism with 60 national organizations participating.

Since 1925 The American Legion and its affiliated organizations have expended more than 148 million dollars for child welfare, most of this money going for food, clothing, shelter and medical treatment. It continues to spend about eight million dollars a year on this work.

In 1925 The American Legion raised a five million dollar endowment fund, the earnings of which help to finance its national rehabilitation and child welfare activities. This was increased to seven million dollars in 1945.

In 1946 The American Legion and its auxiliary contributed $50,000 to start The American Heart Association on its career.

In 1950 The American Legion gave $25,000 to the National Association for Mental Health to launch this organization.

The American Legion launched its Junior Baseball Program in 1925; its Boys State Program in 1935 and its Boys Nation Program in 1947.

The American Legion National Child Welfare Foundation was incorporated in 1954 to make grants within its means to finance needed surveys and studies relating to childhood diseases and improved services for mentally retarded and partially-sighted children.

The American Legion launched its nationwide, non-denominational "Back to God" Movement in 1950 with its main objectives of promoting daily family devotions, regular Sabbath attendance and the religious training of youth.

More than two million teen-age boys and girls participate annually in such American Legion youth training programs as its annual, national high school oratorical contest, the school medal awards, Boys States and Nation, Junior Baseball, Sons of The American Legion, and in the 4,300 Boy Scout Troops sponsored by posts.

More than 60 per cent of the 17,000 American Legion Posts today own their homes. A recent survey of 12,539 posts found 7,733 owning their homes with a total valuation of $263,375,000.

Where To Place 50th Star Perplexing To Everyone

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States flag is going to have a 50th star—but no one here knows when it will be added or precisely where it will be placed.

Flagmakers, who tensely awaited the decision on the design for a 49-star flag to accommodate the admission of Alaska, were up a pole once again.

To make it worse, Hawaii's certain addition as the 50th member of the Union came before it was actually proper to display the 49-star flag.

The flag design adding a star for Alaska was approved Jan. 3, when the state joined the Union. But President Eisenhower's proclamation also pointed out that individuals and private firms were not supposed to fly the new banner with seven staggered rows of seven stars each until July 4, 1959.

Group Seeks Tax Increase

ALTURAS—A citizens committee of the Alturas Elementary School District, of which Dean Hall is superintendent, is now circulating a petition which calls for a 45 cent hike in taxes. A tax hike of $1.15 was voted down last fall and a tax raise of 50 cents was turned down last spring. These were presented to the people on a ballot requested by the school board.

The initiative petition is now being passed by a citizens committee and has not been officially endorsed by the school trustees. The Rev. Karl E. Olson, pastor of the Federated Community Church, heads the committee.

The petition needs 181 signatures of registered voters to insure a place on the ballot May 19, when the people will go to the polls to elect school trustees.

The proposal limits the additional tax for a three year period, at the end of which the whole financial picture will presumably be reevaluated, the committee contends.

The petition must be cleared by the county clerk not later than Friday, March 20.

Extension Set On Water Line

HAPPY CAMP—The water line on Live Oak Drive was voted to be extended by stockholders of the Happy Camp Improvement, Inc. at their last meeting recently. The contract for extending the water line, which had been requested by 11 residents in that area, was awarded to Luttrell and Davis of Fort Jones.

L. G. Hill, president of the board, presided at the meeting.

The board was authorized by the stockholders to turn off the water on delinquent accounts. Mrs. Cerny, bookkeeper for the water company, also asked that the stockholders pick up stocks which have been left in her office.

Carl Pardee was elected to the board of directors to fill the vacancy left by James Watson.

In order to form a quorum, one member had to act as proxy for his wife, although there are 135 stockholders in the corporation.
