Burning Question Puzzles; Is Art Work Cheesecake?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress is planning to take up the burning question: When is an artistic masterpiece just plain cheesecake?

The particular masterpiece (or possibly cheesecake) in mind is Francisco Goya's painting "The Naked Majas"—a Spanish lady who lounges about in only an ambiguous loincloth.

The New York post office has banned an attempt by United Artists to send copies of the lady's portrait through the mail as an ad for a new movie, United Artists is fighting the ban in the courts.

Chairman Kathryn E. Granahan (D-Pa.) of the House postal operations subcommittee announced her subcommittee will "thoroughly explore" the entire situation immediately.

Mrs. Granahan said the subcommittee hoped that the postmaster general's arm "is strong enough" to prevent the sending of obscene literature through the mails. But she said if it isn't, the subcommittee intends "to develop and recommend legislation which will give him the necessary tools."

She brushed aside arguments that the post office was censoring art because the bare lady whom Goya immortalized in oils in 1795 is not a girly pinup but a great masterpiece known throughout the world.

"It is indeed a sad commentary on our sense of values when we cannot distinguish between objects of art which are a matter of national pride and the use of such objects as lures to the theater box office," she said in a statement submitted to the House.

Mrs. Granahan said the attempt to send the picture of Goya's lady through the mails "was not intended to raise the dignity of the painting."

"It was intended solely for the profit of the owners of the film," she said. "There is a great deal of difference between the student of anatomy at a great university and the student of anatomy in the front row of a burlesque theater."

Isle's Appointed Leader Happy About Losing Job

United Press International HONOLULU — There's a man back in Hawaii who Congress just voted out of a job. And he is just as happy as can be about it.

He is William F. Quinn, 39, last appointed governor of the territory of Hawaii. He plans on staying in the governor's mansion at historic Washington Place on the edge of Honolulu's downtown section. But he is going to have to get elected to do it this time. That suits Quinn just fine. He has a competitive soul, an Irishman's warm charm and a cheering section of wife, Nancy, and six little Quinns. He also seems to have his share of Irish luck.

Quinn attracted President Eisenhower's attention as a gubernatorial prospect by losing the only territorial election he ran in. That was in 1936 when he tried for a seat in the territorial Senate. A Republican, he lost in a Democratic landslide that year, but he polled more votes than any other Republican. That, plus the combination of his comparative youthfulness, decided the issue in the President's mind.

After 19 months in office, Quinn still remains a popular and respected public figure in Hawaii. Some criticize him for his quick temper and others for what seems a tendency toward showmanship. He likes to sing and dance and he acted in several community theater productions when he was just plain Quinn, rising young attorney, and not Hawaii's governor. Some compare his personality and career to that of Vice President Richard Nixon, and the two do have their parallels.

Quinn is a Harvard Law School graduate and also a graduate of St. Louis University in St. Louis where he was reared. He is born in Rochester, N.Y., in 1919. He is a Roman Catholic.

Agriculturists Ponder Ezra T. Benson Policies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Agriculture Committee has quietly begun a study of Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson's policies in the Commodity Credit Corporation—the agency which handles price support and storage programs.

In the House, a subcommittee headed by Rep. Paul C. Jones (D-Mo.) plans to open an investigation along the same lines March 24. He said he has information the government is paying commercial storage firms more than 16 cents per bushel a year to store grain, and that grain can be stored on farms for six to seven cents a bushel.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Officials of the National Farmers Union were called to the witness stand today at a House Agriculture subcommittee's hearings on new wheat legislation.

The Farmers Union testimony supports bills which would set up separate support and quota programs for each major class of wheat.

In general, the farm group doesn't want Congress to do anything that would reduce the income of wheat farmers.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Moisture supplies are generally adequate to excessive east of the Mississippi River and in the coastal sections of Texas, the Agriculture Department said in its monthly crop report.

Subsils in the Great Plains have favorable moisture supplies, although surface soils are dry in much of the northern and southern portions, the department said. It added that normal spring precipitation should provide adequate moisture in most localities.

Recent shows in the western mountains brightened runoff prospects, but snowpack is below usual, especially at the higher elevations. Irrigation water supplies from direct diversion of stream flow seem likely to be short, particularly in the southern Rocky Mountains, but reservoir carry-over supplies generally are favorable.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department said today 5,656,000 persons were working on farms during the survey week of Feb. 15-21. This included 4,597,000 farm operators and their families, and 1,059,000 hired hands.

The South Atlantic, Pacific, and West South Central states led in hired employment with the usual response to moderation of winter in these areas and were employing more than half of all hired farm hands estimated for the nation.

China has five principal religions — Confucianism, Taoism, Buddhism, Mohammedanism and Christianity.

GRAND MADAME President, Eagles Auxiliary, Mrs. Stella Moorehouse, of Illinois, will arrive in Klamath Falls today via United Air Lines to be present tonight for a banquet and special meeting to be held in her honor in the Eagles Hall. She will be greeted by Mayor Lawrence Slater and a delegation from the auxiliary.

Foreign Films Sponsorship Set By University Women

"Seven Deadly Sins" will be presented to the public at a movie showing at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, March 25, in Stearns School, the new elementary school on Crest Street.

This is a "trial balloon," according to Mrs. Murdo Morrison, who is chairman of the project of forming a foreign film or art film group here. The American Association of University Women is sponsoring the project.

The film consists of five French and two Italian episodes and features such stars as Gerard Philipe, Michela Morgan and Isa Miranda, and they have seven directors, including Roberto Rossellini. There are English subtitles.

In addition, Lotte Reiniger's Thumbelina, a short for children and adults, will be shown. She produced the first full length animated film in 1926 and uses black cut-out silhouettes and elaborate backgrounds for her fairy tales.

Letters went out last week asking persons interested in seeing this program of foreign films and in planning for a regular series for 1960 to come to the meeting at the Stearns School.

This is not a money-making project, Mrs. Morrison emphasized, and the pro rated cost will be very modest if enough people show an interest in the plan.

"We plan to hold a meeting on March 25 in addition to showing the film," she explained. "We hope to organize a board which will make the selection of films for 1960 to fit the wishes of those interested. Films available include experimental films and those of American, French, German, British, Russian, Swedish, Italian, Irish and Japanese production, to mention a cross section."

In order to get the project going and to pay the rental on the film to be shown, those interested are asked to send checks for $1.25 for each person attending. The checks may be made out to Helen Morrison, AAUW, and sent to Dr. Arthur Compton, 421 D. monument Street, who has agreed to serve as treasurer for the first meeting.

For further information, call Mrs. Morrison, TU 2-3960.

The original courthouse still stands in Pierce City, first county seat in Idaho.
