

Institute Set June 29

Donald H. Whitner and Harold A. Bailey, instructors of higher mathematics at Oregon Technical Institute, have been appointed to attend a summer institute on nuclear energy for technical institute instructors.

The institute will be conducted June 29 to August 7 at the campus of Pennsylvania State University and from August 10 to 21 at the Argonne National Laboratory.

The institute is sponsored by the American Society for Engineering Education and by the Atomic Energy Commission.

About 25 or 30 technical institute instructors from the nation will be invited to participate.

The institute was offered for the first time last year. C. Fred Foulon, engineering instructor, and Hiram Hunt, science instructor at OTI were selected to attend.

Special nuclear energy and nuclear reactor courses are offered.

Fire Damages Roof Of Home

ETNA — Fire partially destroyed the roof of the Carl Czerwinski home on lower Main Street last week. The fire of unknown origin, was first reported by passersby, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis.

Immediate action of the Etina Volunteer Fire Department halted the blaze before it destroyed the house but extensive water damage was incurred. The Czerwinskis were able to save their personal possessions.

The amount of damage has not been estimated as yet. At present the Czerwinskis are staying with friends and relatives until they are able to find a house to rent.

WITH WARNING SQUADRON
Milton Wilson, aviation electronics technician chief in the Navy, is serving with Airborne Early Warning Squadron 14 at Barber's Point Naval Air Station, Hawaii. He is the son of Mrs. Maggie Wilson of Merrill. The squadron, affiliated with the Pacific Fleet, flies Lockheed Constellation, radar-equipped for spotting surface or aerial craft.

Today's Report May Reveal If Pupil Was Drug Victim

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP) — A toxicologist's report today may determine whether a University of Redlands biochemistry student died from the effects of a hypodermic drug last Tuesday.

Michael Hawks, 18, died shortly after he was found in a coma amid test tubes and vials in his dormitory room. Chemicals discovered tentatively as mushroom crystals, mescaline and lysergic acid, all of which produce hallucinations.

Rotarians Name New President

MONTAGUE — James B. McAdams was elected as president of the Montague Rotary Club at a recent meeting.

Other officers to serve with McAdams are J. J. "Jiggs" Kuck, vice president; Donald Gordon, secretary; Walter Simon, treasurer; and Elvin W. Reynolds, sergeant at arms.

It was also announced that McAdams with his wife, Mrs. Anna McAdams; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips are to attend the Rotary District Conference in Richmond, California on April 4 and 5.

POLIO SHOTS

MOUNT SHASTA — Ray Freeman, chairman for the International Woodworkers Union's Southern Siskiyou County polio vaccination program, stated that vaccinations for all who desire them will be administered at the Mount Shasta Community Hospital Thursday, March 25. The committee head stressed that all may secure this service who feel the need of it, but that sub-teenage youngsters are more susceptible to the disease than older persons, and should be treated. Time for treatment will be from 7 until 9 a.m.

Not So Young Delinquents Throw Big Drunken Brawl

LONDON (AP)—Nearly 200 not so juvenile society delinquents threw a drunken brawl in a London subway train Thursday night, but apparently nobody got arrested.

The revellers included debutantes, models, young Guards officers, university undergraduates and members of titled and socialite families.

The mob swarmed into a compartment of a train in the fashionable Chelsea district, armed with bottles, glasses and 35-cent tickets for a 13-mile, 50-minute round trip.

Bewildered passengers—including an elderly parson—escaped as soon as possible, but not before a homeward bound businessman parked his umbrella, doffed his bowler hat and floored an unruly party boy with an uppercut.

The shouting, fighting and drinking continued from station to station. Subway police chucked out a dozen or so of the unruliest at each station, but some got back into other cars.

At Baker Street the police made a determined assault and chased 50 squealing girls along the platform and up the stairs. Someone stopped the train for five minutes by pulling the emergency cord. Police struggles with the partygoers held it up at other points.

Survivors who made it back to Chelsea roared out into the street, leaving the train littered with empty bottles and broken glasses. The determined little band wound its way to an apartment and switched to pajamas.

Neighbors called the cops to stop the noise. The party adjourned to another apartment, and stragglers who caught up were told they couldn't get in without pajamas.

"Let's just strip," said a brunette, starting to take off her jacket.

"I say, steady on, old girl," said her escort, a Guards officer.

She steadied.

Once more the police rolled up in answer to neighbors' complaints. Again the party moved on, but its further route was not chronicled.

"I had a funny feeling something would go wrong," complained Maureen (Biddy) Lyle-Purdy, 24, a half-sister of Lady Suraide and the organizer of the soiree.
