

5 College-Credit Courses Get Underway In Klamath

Five college-credit courses for adults offered through General Extension Division of the Oregon State System of Higher Education are scheduled to open the weeks of March 23 and March 30 in Klamath Falls, and one course is scheduled to open in Lakeview, according to Raymond Pettey, Southern Oregon regional representative for the division.

Class meetings in Klamath Falls will be from 7 to 9:45 p.m. at the high school. Scheduled for early opening. Reading in the Elementary School (Ed 537) providing three hours graduate credit, will be offered on Tuesdays, beginning March 24. Instructor will be Dr. John W. Starr III, assistant professor of education, University of Oregon.

Other courses scheduled in Klamath Falls with credit hours, meeting days and instructors indicated, include: Composition and Visual Theory (AA 392), two hours, Mondays, beginning March 30, Howard A. Hall, specialist in art, Klamath Falls High School; Education Psychology: Evaluation (Ed 313), three hours, Wednesdays, beginning April 1, Francis J. Kelly, instructor in psychology and education, Southern Oregon College; School Law and Organization (Ed 476 G), two hours, Wednesdays, beginning April 1, Dr. Eugene W. Bowman, professor of education and mathematics, Southern Oregon College; Research Studies in Child Development (Psy 319), three hours, Thursdays, beginning April 2, Dr. Loren E. Messenger, professor of psychology, Southern Oregon College.

The Lakeview class, Literature for Adolescents (Eng 489 G), providing three hours undergraduate or graduate minor credit, will be under direction of Dr. Richard H. Byrns, associate professor of English, Southern Oregon College. Class meetings will be at the high school on Fridays from 7 to 9:45 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 to 11:45 a.m., alternate weeks, beginning April 3 and 4.

Fees are established by the State Board of Higher Education at $9 per credit hour. Students not wishing to enroll for credit may consider noncredit (audit) enrollment. Fees and classwork are identical for both credit and audit enrollments. Registrations may be completed at the first or second class meeting.

Each course offered through the State System of Higher Education's extension program originates on one of the state system campuses. In most instances instructors are members of state system faculties or in some instances particularly qualified persons have been asked to instruct courses.

Class schedules and detailed information about these courses and other course offerings in Southern Oregon communities may be obtained from Raymond Pettey, Regional Representative, General Extension Division, College Campus, Ashland.

KF Girl Attends Student Session

A Klamath Falls girl, senior at Oregon State College, Nancy Roberta Dewey was one of two OSC students to attend a conference of the National Independent Students' Association, held March 18-21 at the University of Colorado, Boulder.

The young woman and Larry Hogle, were the first delegates to be sent from OSC to the national conference. Fifteen colleges from the mid-west, the east and west were represented.

Young Hogle is president of the Oregon State Independent Students' Association and Nancy is secretary.

The trip was made by air, the students returning in time to spend the Easter vacation with their parents.

Alaska's 'Drink-Up' Girls Reaching End Of The Trail

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI)—Alaska's B-girls, the "drink up" kids of the 49th state, apparently have reached the end of the trail.

B-girls and their forerunners, the dance hall girls, have been a part of Alaska ever since the first sourdough hit it rich in the gold fields.

In Alaska's gold rush days, dance hall girls flocked to the territory by boat to carve their own pages in Alaska's gaudy history. Miners found in the dance halls an oasis of gaiety and, in the process, often departed poorer but happier.

Many of the dance hall girls found romance in the territory and later became among the most respected citizens in the northland.

In later years, B-girls took over the practice of enticing customers to "drink up" in various Alaska night spots. Many doubled as entertainers.

"It's my turn to entertain the boys, honey, why don't you buy another round?" was a standard bit.

Monday, this bit of Alaskan died forever when the Senate passed an anti B-girl measure by a vote of 19-1. The bill now goes before Acting Gov. Hugh Wade for his signature.

The lone dissenter in the Senate was Senate President William Beltz. He joined with Rep. Robert Sheldon in declaring the lone "nay" in each house.

In debate in the House a week ago, Sheldon made the declaration that a bit of Alaskan would die with the passing of the B-girls. He added that many people respected in the state today plied customers to drink in the famous saloons of Alaska's roaring past.

Thieves Make Haul From Modoc Home

Klamath Falls police learned over the weekend of a mammoth haul made by thieves from a home belonging to Mary Goldblatt in Modoc County near Tulelake sometime between March 12 and 15.

She told Siskiyou County Deputy Sheriff Charles M. Thompson of Tulelake that a waffle iron, a toaster, an electric iron, a coffee maker, a power mower, 25 pairs of pillow cases, four clocks, two small-denomination gold pieces, 50 sheets, a sterling silver tea set for 12, a picture frame, two 12 gauge automatic shotguns, a .22 caliber rifle, a complete set of carpenter's tools and four Irish linen table cloths were taken.

The Goldblatt home is located on Modoc County Road 182. Police arrested Gerald Weatherhold of 216 Lewis Street Saturday noon, charging him with driving a car belonging to Allen Mitchell of 103 1/2 Washington Street, causing considerable damage to the Mitchell car. The accident occurred at Eighth and Main streets.

Officers also charged Lloyd H. Ebinger, 47, of Klamath Falls with driving, while drunk, into a telephone pole at 1701 Siskiyou Street Sunday. The pole was severed and the Ebinger car was damaged extensively.

Officers are puzzled by the case of a vanishing parking meter. Sunday they found a vacancy where a parking meter should stand at 701 Main Street. The meter had been wrenched from its base and stolen.
