

JIM STEVENSON aboard Chief's Pride demonstrates the technique of cutting a "critter" from bunched cattle. The picture was taken near Chiloquin. Stevenson will be among participants in the cutting horse contests at the Klamath County Fairgrounds this weekend. Added attractions will be a jackpot calf roping and team roping exhibition. Saturday night, events get started at 8 o'clock to be continued Sunday, 10 a.m. to noon. A cutting horse judging clinic will be conducted by Carter Arnett, Menlo Park, California, one of the nation's leading cutting horse men. The public is invited.

LANGELL VALLEY CHAMPS
The Langell Valley Champ second meeting was held March 15 at the home of Mary Ann and Kathy Keyser. Patricia Spillane gave an interesting report on "Care of Lambs Shortly After Birth." We discussed several different ideas for a community project. Anyone living in Langell Valley having a suggestion may call Mrs. Brett, our leader, as we have not yet chosen one.

Our next meeting will be April 12 at 2 p.m. at the home of Susan Wooten.

BONANZA BAA BAA'S
The Three B's Sheep Club of Bonanza held its second meeting at the home of Robert and Ricky Steber. The meeting was called to order by President Eunice Hunt. The pledges were led by Cathy Angel.

The club decided to have a coffee hour as a community project. The money made is to be divided between the Bonanza Library and the Bonanza Park. The committee in charge is Susan Rice, Nancy Kelly and Eunice Hunt.

The club entered the contest in the Oregon Farmer and voted on how to place the four sheep shown in the picture.

MALIN WOOLIES
The second meeting of the Malin Woolies Sheep Club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Toffel on March 12. Our meeting was delayed several weeks due to speech festivals and achievement tests.

The meeting was called to order by President Evelyn Rajmus. Tom Toffel led us in the 4-H Pledge. The minutes were read and approved. Evelyn then asked for old business. This year's fair outfits were discussed. We decided that we would wear the same thing as last year.

Under new business Karen Gentry read an invitation from the Henley Beef Club inviting us to a dance. Evelyn told us about the window display at Kalina's. It represents the different 4-H clubs in the Malin area. Next we talked about things to do that would liven up our meetings. At our next meeting we will answer the minutes with the name of some things having to do with sheep. We briefly talked about having potluck and tours later this year.

After the meeting was adjourned, refreshments were served by Mrs. Toffel.

We wish to welcome Joan and Joyce Mullinix to our club. They are our second set of twins. We hope they will have fun this year.

JUNIOR BRONCS
March 11 was the date of the special officers' meeting at the home of the leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Woodard. The object of the meeting was to plan the regular meeting which was held at the home of Jerry Lancaster. The regular meeting was called to order by the president, Carol Woody.

Minutes were read and approved. As a roll call topic at this meeting, the members were to tell something at which their horses were good.

We further discussed the dance that the Henley Beef Club gave. On Saturday, our club met at Mr. Max Shot's ranch to learn more about judging horses.

Our next meeting is to be held at our clubhouse on the Warren Woodard ranch on April 9 at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting was adjourned, after which we enjoyed refreshments served by Mrs. Lancaster, followed by dancing.

Outpost Of Prohibition Waivers In New Drive

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — One of the last outposts of prohibition in Oklahoma is wavering in the face of another drive for legal liquor.

Surveys and vote samplings indicate the state may go wet. But drys are predicting this onslaught will be defeated as were six previous repeal attempts.

Oklahomans vote April 7 on changing the state constitution to allow privately owned package stores. They also vote whether to turn the entire state wet or leave that decision to individual counties.

Campaigns are being waged vigorously by the Oklahoma United Dry Assn., and the United Oklahomans For Repeal.

Scores of pastors, mostly Protestants, are asking their congregations to pledge votes against repeal.

"Hang down your head, boot-legger, 'cause you're bound to cry," is a repealist campaign ditty heard over Oklahoma radio stations.

Both sides seek support "for the sake of children."

Dr. Sam Scantlan, executive director of the dry group, said: "Oklahoma mothers are becoming alarmed about the safety of their children. They know that more people will be killed under repeal and that their own children will be subjected to new dangers if the liquor interests should win."

H. W. McNeil, coordinator for repeal forces, declared: "Liquor in bottles, plus some in fruit jars, is readily available throughout Oklahoma and will continue to be. Mothers and fathers are greatly disturbed by these facts, and the easy access their children have to liquor under our present system of illegal control."

Both drys and repeal advocates probably are concentrating more on getting out the vote than on changing people's minds.

Previous elections indicate the drys have some 300,000 votes and a turnout of over 600,000 is necessary for a repeal victory. A simple majority decides the issue.

A federal agent this week called Oklahoma "the only bone dry state in the union," referring to statewide prohibition. Sooner citizens will testify it is drier now than ever before in 51 years of prohibition.

Under a policy set by Gov. J. Howard Edmondson, the State Crime Bureau and Highway Patrol are waging warfare on boot-leggers.

Norman Hunter, Inspector of the crime bureau, estimates half the whisky merchants have been driven out of business. Whisky prices and 3.2 beer sales have boomed upward.

CRIME ON INCREASE
JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — The crime rate in this Indonesian capital increased 30 per cent in 1958 over the previous year, the police department reported today. The increase was attributed to population growth, unemployment and an insufficient number of policemen.

Communist-Led Premier Building Up Iraqi Army

By LARRY COLLINS
BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Soviet Union is pouring tanks and arms into Iraq for a major expansion of the Iraqi army by Communist-backed Premier Abdel Karim Kassam.

The Premier already has put one new, understrength division into the field since he took power in a coup last July, and plans for a second already have been completed.

The new divisions were scheduled to receive Soviet arms, which have been arriving steadily during the past eight months. The most recent shipment arrived at Basra last weekend and included 34 tanks.

It was the sixth Soviet shipment of arms since the coup and brought to 150 the number of Russian tanks now being readied for use by the Army. This is double the number of tanks in the late King Faisal's pro-Western army and enough to outfit a full Soviet-style mechanized division. The tanks include about 100 old-style T34 tanks and 50 of the newer T54 models.

In addition, the Soviets have delivered to Iraq about 20,000 Czech machine pistols, anti-aircraft guns, light and medium field ar-

New officers were elected for the coming year as follows: Mrs. Ernest Bishop, president; Mrs. George May, first vice president; Eldridge Anderson, second vice president; Mrs. Arthur Farr, third vice president; Mrs. William Graham, secretary, and Mrs. Eugene Favell, treasurer.

The flag salute was led by Mrs. Richard Beane's Girl Scouts. Mrs. Bishop read the thought for the day, Mrs. Mary Van Vactor presented her seventh grade chorus in "Oregon, Oh! Oregon," that was written by a member of the chorus, Marianne Gallagher.

Claudia Moore introduced her kindergarten group to demonstrate what preschool children learn in preparation for first grade.

LEGAL CHIEF DROPS SUIT
PORTLAND (AP) — Former Dist. Atty. William Langley Thursday dropped a $200,000 libel suit against The Oregonian.

Langley had filed the suit after a series of articles in the newspaper helped launch Portland's long vice investigation.

In that probe, Langley was removed from office after being convicted of failure to prosecute gambling.

The order that dismissed the suit was signed by Circuit Judge Charles Redding.

"The dismissal was voluntary on Langley's part and no payment of any kind was made to him by The Oregonian," the newspaper said.

That suit was the last of a series of libel actions filed against the newspaper after the vice probe began. The Oregonian said.
