Future Coeds Feted By AAUW

The junior and senior girls from the high schools in this area were the guests of the American Association of University Women at a College Preview Party on March 26 in the new KUHS cafeteria. Greeting the girls at the door as they arrived were Mrs. George Proctor, Mrs. R. J. Harralhill, Mrs. E. E. Howard and Mrs. Russell Smith.

Punch and cookies were served from tables decorated with whimsical Easter bunnies to the guests, vacationing college students and AAUW members. Mrs. William Ganong Jr., Mrs. Robert R. Harvey, Mrs. Frederick Ehlers and Mrs. Bruce R. Wirth poured the punch. When everyone had been served with refreshments, Mrs. James Pinniger, general chairman of the party, introduced Mrs. Philip Blohm, president of the Klamath Falls branch of AAUW, and Mrs. A. J. Patterson, the president-elect.

The highlight of the afternoon was a charming style show of college fashions presented by Mrs. Nellie Angstead from the Bon Bazaar. The models were all girls home from college. Carrie Heilbroner and Joanne Bogatay from the University of Oregon, Dorothea Geary and Mary Margaret Addison from Stanford, Suzanne Goeller, Nancy Todd, Nelda Snook and Mary Laurhammer from Oregon State College.

The cafeteria walls were adorned with pennants from many schools and after the style show each of the guests was invited to go to the table nearest the pennant of the college of her choice to visit informally with AAUW members and college students from that school.

Committee chairmen whose efforts contributed so much to the afternoon were the following: style show, Mrs. Paul Cruikshank; cookies, Mrs. Frederick Hayes; punch, Mrs. James Creswell; table decorations, Mrs. Rod Bell; table appointments, Mrs. Martin Franz; room decorations, Mrs. Mark Kochevar; name tags, Mrs. Arthur R. Gerlach; college information, Mrs. George Stevenson; contacting college women, Mrs. Richard Siegle and Mrs. Brian Walters.

TANGERINE NEW SHADE

The luscious new stocking shade in Paris is tangerine. This follows our own trend to pretty pastel hosiery.

Tea Honors Former Resident

CHILOQUIN — Mrs. David Schneider, former resident, was guest of honor at an afternoon tea Monday, March 23, given by her daughter, Mrs. William Norval. A number of friends from Chiloquin, Klamath Agency, and Fort Klamath called to visit with the honoree who moved from Chiloquin last June to attend with her husband, the Rev. David Schneider, three terms at Northwestern University near Chicago. They will leave next week for a five year service as missionaries for the Methodist Church in Costa Rica.

An attractive centerpiece of pussy willows and large crocus graced the refreshment table. Serving coffee were Mrs. Joseph Jackson and Mrs. Vernon Norval. At the tea service were Mrs. Elmer Heglund and Mrs. Gerald Wolff. Mrs. Donald Harris assisted the hostess.

CARPET BAGS

Those hand-loomed carpet bags, in large size and with leather linings, are well-liked by women who tote a lot of possessions about with them daily. Later on, for warm weather wear, they'll come in straw-and-leather combinations.

Church Guild Holds Meet

LA GRANDE, VILLAGE — The Lutheran Gift Guild met at 4 p.m. Monday, March 23, at the home in Upper Langley Valley. Afternoon of March 26, with 20 members attending.

The business meeting was in charge of President Marie Bland. She reported that 30 adult and four children's aprons have been turned in all complete for the fall bazaar, also eight tea towels, and three pair of pillowcases.

A discussion was held on rotation for the Sunday School teachers so they would be able to attend church services. Carolyn Dearborn and Marie Bland were appointed to attend convocation at La Grande April 3, 4 and 5. All dates have been filled for Sunday's altar flowers.

Members met for an all day meeting at the church the day before to clean the church for Easter. Luck was served at noon. Members cleaning the church were Marie Bland, Carolyn Dearborn, Betty Pepple, Jeanette Stewart, Margaret Anne Whitlatch, Grace Dearborn, Beverley Roberts, Sheryl Keady, Mary Anne Noble, Lois Monroe and Gloria Wooten. Choir practice was held at 4 o'clock that same afternoon.

Mrs. Gift had decorated the home with the Easter motif which was carried out in the refreshments. An Easter egg tree was on the children's table.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Bessie Frazier in Langley Valley on April 23.

We love to assist you in planning your wedding and in selecting your dress and trousseau for the happiest time of your life.
