Stocks WALL STREET NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market closed mixed today after motor shares sparked a rally from earlier lows. Late trading ran at a fast pace. Volume for the day was estimated at 2,800,000 shares against 3,510,000 Monday. Some high-priced shares fought the general trend to post brisk advances. Rohn & Haas, a glamor chemical stock, zoomed 31 points. Actively traded on the losing side were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Dupont, Southern Railway and Standard Oil (New Jersey). American Telephone slipped around 2 points. Vick Chemical, a big gainer Monday, dropped more than 7.

House Trailer Overtips; Ruined MOUNT SHASTA — The side-swaying of a house trailer caused it to break loose from its hitch and overturn last weekend near Hazel Creek in Northern Shasta County on Highway 99. No personal damage was reported but the vehicle was badly wrecked. It was being driven by Lee Roy Cole of Fresno. Another non-injury accident occurred about two miles south of Mount Shasta on Highway 99. Jerome R. McLeod of Redding allowed the front of his machine to strike the rear of a truck driven by James C. Cook, listed as being from Red Bluff. Damage to the truck was slight, but the front of McLeod's car was badly smashed. McLeod was cited by the California Highway Patrol.

COOKIE SALE MOUNT SHASTA — Mrs. Velma Brown, chairman of the Shasta Division of Girl Scouts, has announced that the annual cookie sale will begin here Monday, April 13. Both the Girl Scouts and Brownies will participate. Mrs. Brown stated that a prize would be awarded to both the winning Brownie and Girl Scout of the sales campaign. All one needs to do is place the most cookies among patrons. Several newspapers that circulate in the area will also run pictures of the winners, along with their adult leaders.

Insurance Men Believe Merit-Rating Plan Fair DETROIT (UPI) — Most insurance officials feel the merit rating plan of automobile insurance is the fairest way to provide protection for motorists but many of them are skeptical over whether it will be practical, a United Press International survey shows. The merit plan, which will be tested on a large scale for the first time in California beginning May 1, provides lower insurance rates for motorists with good driving records and higher rates for drivers with poor records. Under the California plan, the drivers would be divided into three groups—those who have had no accidents or traffic violations in the last three years, those who have had only one violation or accident, and those who have had two or more. The first group would get lower insurance rates. The second group's rates will remain about the same. The third group's rates will go up. "We're glad to see other segments of the insurance industry adopt the plan we pioneered three years ago in Ohio and now have one in the pioneer state," said Charles Eberhard, vice president and treasurer of the National Casualty Co., Detroit, one of the first companies to experiment with merit rating. "We now provide this plan in Michigan too and will be introducing it shortly in other states. This plan recognizes that safe drivers should be able to earn a preferred insurance rating and that unsafe drivers should pay more for their insurance." Most state insurance commissioners favored the plan, although many foresaw problems connected with it. "A driver who goes three years without an accident is at least entitled to have his rates increased and a man who is a frequent violator should have his rates upped," said Florida Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson, who said he hoped the plan would be extended to his state. Lawrence Leggett, Missouri insurance commissioner, who already has seen some results of the plan because independent insurance companies are trying it there, also was enthusiastic about it. "Missouri would welcome such a plan that rewards safe drivers," he said. "It's something we have wanted for a long time." Other insurance commissioners preferred to wait to see the results of the California experiment, although they said they "personally think it is a good idea." Michigan insurance officials said the plan offers "great hope" but there also were "a great many things that could go wrong."

'Dead' Man's Rites Stated EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—Howard L. Apker, the man who came to die and lived, died Tuesday. A logger, Apker was sent to Everett General Hospital on Feb. 10, 1958, after a woods accident that left him with a broken back. Apker's doctor said the 52-year-old logger couldn't live. But Apker did live, although paralyzed from the waist down. Despite hours of surgery, he remained a smiling, friendly man who became known as the "pet of Ward E."

Cutter Waits For Red Ship JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI)—The 230-foot Coast Guard cutter Storj today was anchored at Akun Bay in the Aleutians awaiting a rendezvous with a Russian tug to give aid to an injured and unconscious Russian seaman. The tug Bditelnyj was due to arrive this morning at which time the injured man was to be placed aboard the Storj. He was then to be taken to Cold Bay, 150 miles east, and transported to an Anchorage hospital by Coast Guard plane. Coast Guard officials said here the tug took the seaman, believed to be suffering from brain injury, off the Russian refrigerated ship Pichavaysa Industriya early today in the Bering Sea north of Akun Bay. Akun Bay is on the west side of Unimak Pass. Radio contact was made with the refrigerated ship early today by the Storj. The Russians told Lt. Cmdr. Joe Kosnik, an interpreter for the Storj, that the injured man had fallen into a hold four days ago. He suffered a severe blow on the head and has been unconscious since but has no broken bones, the Russians said. It was earlier believed the man had broken arms and legs. Navy Dr. L. D. H. Varley, aboard the Storj, was waiting to treat the injured Russian when he arrives at Akun Bay. He said he suspects brain damage. The tentative diagnosis was passed to the Industriya.

Thor-Able Takes Trip CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A huge two-stage rocket was fired on the start of a 5,000-mile trip over the Atlantic today to test the performance of a nose cone that could carry the power-packed ICBM nuclear warheads of the future. If the 80-foot launching rocket, called Thor-Able, did its job, a search unit of ships and C54 planes planned to attempt to recover the elusive cone for the second time in 18 days. The missile blasted aloft at 1:35 a.m. and appeared to perform perfectly while in view. The main mission was to gather an electronic report on how the cone withstood the blazing re-entry from space through the earth's atmosphere at speeds in excess of 10,000 m.p.h.

Clerk Outbluffs Would-Be Thief SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The short, dark, Latin-appearing man had his hand and what looked like a gun in his pocket. "Gimme a bag of licorice candy," he told clerk Joan Williams, 35, who was tending the Powell St. candy store. "I got a gun in my pocket. Gimme all your money, too." "What for?" asked Miss Williams. The little man fled, without money or candy.

Pal Reports Solon Found ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP)—A report that Usher Burdick, 80, former North Dakota Republican congressman, might be missing was erased Tuesday night when the touring rancher was recognized here by a salesman acquaintance. Wes Wahlin, 41, of St. Cloud, said he had seen Burdick as their cars halted for a stop sign. Burdick joined him shortly afterward for a cup of coffee before continuing his long drive from Washington, Wahlin added. Burdick told the salesman that he had lost some horses from his Williston, N.D., ranch and was returning there to try to identify some that had been found. Mrs. Burdick, 31, wife of the former representative, told Washington authorities she had found him missing upon returning from church Sunday. Wahlin said he had telephoned Mrs. Burdick at the former congressman's request to tell her that Burdick was fine and had been taking his medicine. He suffers from diabetes.

Labor Chief Gives Views SEATTLE (AP)—Harry Bridges said Tuesday his West Coast longshoremen would not refuse to handle Japanese salmon shipments under any circumstances. Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash.) had suggested at a Senate subcommittee hearing here last week that dock workers might boycott Japanese imports in protest over Alaska fisheries problems. Bridges, here for the convention of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union which he headed, said in an interview: "I don't think this would be constructive. We know something ought to be done in the Bristol Bay situation, particularly regarding conservation as well as possibly subsidies. "But we don't think the type of action such as the boycott proposed or mentioned would do any good at all." The subcommittee hearing over which Magnuson presided was on a bill which would ban Japanese canned salmon imports unless the Japanese curtail their fishing in the North Pacific. Alaskans blame Japanese catches of Alaska-spawned salmon for declining runs which forced closure of Bristol Bay to commercial fishing this season.

Meeting Held By TB Group

WEED—Mrs. Marion Newberry, Mount Shasta, and Mrs. Bessie Higgins, McCloud, represented the Siskiyou County Tuberculosis and Health Association at the annual meeting of the California TBHA last weekend at the Villa Hotel in San Mateo. They were among the more than 500 physicians, nurses and leaders in the campaign against TB who convened jointly in three day sessions with the California Trudeau Society and the California Conference of TB workers. Mrs. Newberry, county public health nurse, also attended the meetings of the Board of Directors of the state-wide organization as the delegate from the northern counties. Mrs. Higgins is seal sale chairman of the local TB association and one of its directors. Among other speakers at the conference, Dr. Hurley L. Motley, director of the cardio-respiratory laboratory at the University of Southern California, reported on his tests of the effect of smog on lung function. Urging stricter air pollution control, Dr. Motley linked air pollution with deaths from emphysema, a common lung ailment that makes breathing difficult and sometimes causes heart failure. The annual Trudeau Award for research in pulmonary disease was awarded to Henry Ehrlich, laboratory chief at Arroyo del Valle Sanatorium in Livermore, for the second year in a row.

Engle Calls For Hearings WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clair Engle (D-Calif.) Monday called for early congressional hearings on proposed construction of the Hidden and Buchanan dams and reservoirs in California. "The time for study has ended and the time for action is now," Engle said. In a letter to Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.), chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee, Engle requested that representatives of the Corps of Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau be invited to testify on the feasibility of the long-pending projects. The units have been delayed because of a dispute between the corps and the bureau over which agency should build them. Engle said a recent water development agreement signed by the two agencies should clear this up. Engle told Chavez the reservoirs are needed "more than ever" now in order to provide flood control on the Chowchilla and Fresno rivers as well as supplemental irrigation storage for Madera County.
