

City Council Petitioned To Heed Street Repairs

DORRIS — A petition bearing some 70 names was presented by Scott Waisner and Hugh Gibson to the Dorris City Council at the regular meeting Monday night.

The petitioners are requesting that the streets in the north end of town be given attention, and that maintenance and funds be at least equally distributed between the streets downtown and streets in the northern section of town.

Councilman Arnold Skoog, street commissioner and acting mayor in the absence of Bob Edgar, explained to Waisner and Gibson that Orel Lewis, city engineer, will be in Dorris next week to find correct street and corner boundaries and to establish center of streets. Skoog said some fences are too far out and will have to be pulled in so the streets can be widened. He said the city plans to surface Butte, Oregon and California streets. The city hopes to obtain gravel for the purpose from the Harry Moore place east of town. Drainage, said Skoog, is quite a problem and some sumps will have to be prepared.

City Clerk Virginia Hamilton said there is approximately $3,000 available for street engineering. Waisner pointed out that there are holes in the north end streets that should be filled in now.

Notices will be posted on the passage of an ordinance on vacation of lots and alley of State and Third streets and alley and Triangle Street in the Mitchell Addition. The date of hearing objections was set for the next regular council meeting May 4.

Mrs. Hamilton read a letter from the city of Mount Shasta, outlining their water ordinance which, Mrs. Hamilton told the council, could be applied to Dorris.

The council agreed to allow salvage privileges of the Dorris city dumpgrounds to David L. Hill, Klamath Falls, in return for the keeping of the road to and the dumpgrounds clean.

Mike Chubb was allowed $40 for chores done this month and was hired to mow and water the city hall lawn and to care for the city park. He is to also sweep the business side of one block on Main Street. The job will start on May 1 at a wage of $80 per month.

A formal call for bids was issued last week by the council for a complete overhaul of the Dorris water tank. It is to be inspected and repaired, the interior sandblasted, and painted inside and out.

The bids will be opened at the regular council meeting June 1. Funds for the work were budgeted for this year.

An adjourned meeting was called for next Monday night for the purpose of meeting with Lynn Roberts, Yreka, Northern California veterans administrator and civil defense coordinator for Siskiyou County and Rex Riley, Redding, state civil defense coordinator.

The council will also consider the formation of a satisfactory water ordinance.

Building permits approved were Mrs. C. E. Molschenbacher, Broadway Construction Company, Klamath Falls, $2,250, duplex; Marguerite Burkhardt, dwelling with double garage, $2,200; Elsie Andreatta, bedroom, $500; Virgil Winkelman Jr., one story and one half seven room residence, $6,500; Lester Gerlt, repairs to house and garage, $250; Olin Bartlett, addition of three bedrooms and living room, $1,000.

The annual Vacation Bible School training clinic for Klamath Baptist Association is scheduled for Wednesday, April 15, at the First Baptist Church, Klamath Falls.

The first session will begin at 9 a.m., and the last conference will close at 3 p.m.

There will be conferences for each age group in Bible School, according to Mrs. E. M. Causey, who is Vacation Bible School superintendent for the association.

Mrs. George Casey will lead the conference for the leaders of the three-year nursery group; Mrs. Zan Edwards is planning for the workers with beginner children; Mrs. C. R. Larson will lead the primary workers; Mrs. K. G. West the junior workers; Mrs. E. M. Causey the intermediate teachers, and George Casey will be in charge of the conference for pastors and superintendents.

A nursery will be provided for the mothers who will need to bring small children. Each person attending is to bring a sack lunch, and the host church will provide coffee and punch for the noon lunch.

Mrs. Lou DuBois, of Vancouver, Washington, Northwest regional director of International Toastmistress Clubs, will be featured guest. She will participate both in the regional meeting and in the meeting of the local unit the evening of April 13.

Council 4 is made up of clubs from Eureka, Crescent City, Grants Pass, Medford and Yreka. Each club will provide a speaker for speech competition to be held Sunday afternoon.

Klamath Falls contestants will be Margaret Davies of the Ewauna unit and Virginia Fuller of the Mount Mazama Toastmistress Club.

Winner of the regional meet will compete in the Northwest regional conference to be held May 1, 2 and 3 in Bellingham, Washington.

Chairman of arrangements for the Council 4 meeting is Mrs. Helen Bassett, president of the Ewauna unit. She will be assisted by members of both local clubs.

Registration will begin at 10 a.m. during a coffee hour. A dinner honoring guests will be served at 12:30 p.m. The speech contest and judging will follow.

Approximately 150 members of Council 4 clubs will attend, according to estimates. The meeting will be the first regional meeting to be held in Klamath Falls.

GREY OWL KILLED
One of the trio of great gray owls that wintered two miles north of Fort Klamath on the Crater Lake Highway is dead. The rare bird was struck by a passing car Sunday evening and killed. The accident was discovered by Dick Brown, assistant park naturalist at Crater Lake. On Tuesday the bird was brought to the McLeod Research Center for preparation as a study-skin for the bird collection of Crater Lake National Park.

Cobalt Bullet Report Given

LAKEVIEW — Cobalt "bullets" are being widely publicized at present as great gain-booster in lambs. The literature reports some very good results from their use, according to Orie Rudd, Lake County extension agent.

It is well to note, however, that this literature refers specifically to cobalt-deficient areas. To date we do not know whether or not our area is cobalt deficient.

It is well to keep in mind that while cobalt is an essential element in ruminant nutrition, only very small amounts are needed. It is also interesting to note that cobalt deficiency is more likely to appear in cattle or sheep confined to straight grass pastures. Legumes seem to be better able to extract cobalt from the soil than are the grasses.

Symptoms of cobalt deficiency are rather difficult to determine, showing mostly as listlessness, lack of appetite and loss of condition. High mortality among young stock-calves and lambs is common with cobalt deficiency. Calves rarely live more than a week if cobalt is deficient.

Cobalt is essential in the synthesis of Vitamin B12. It is required by bacteria of the ruminant stomach for production of this essential vitamin.

The cobalt "bullet" is a heavy pill which is injected into the stomach of cattle or sheep where it weathers and erodes very slowly releasing small amounts of cobalt over a long period of time. Since animals cannot effectively store cobalt in the system, this is an effective method for providing continuous small amounts of this essential element.

To date, no deficiency has been proved in this area and no symptoms observed which would suggest a deficiency.

Oregon State College researchers and Extension Livestock Specialists have provided us with 15 of the "bullets" which will be used in a trial this year. A further report will be made next fall.

Speech Club To Be Hosts

Cancer Fund Makes Grant

The American Cancer Society's Oregon Division has made a research grant totaling $18,387 to Dr. Vinton D. Sneed, Emanuel Hospital pathologist, William B. Feldenheimer, division president, has announced.

Dr. Sneed and Dr. Thomas A. Treanor, obstetrician and gynecologist, will study the incidence of an embryonic structure in the cervix and its relationship to cancer in the cervix, a common location of cancer among women.

Emanuel Hospital will also contribute substantially to the investigation.

Dr. Sneed said the cancer funds will be spent over a 2-year period for salaries of needed personnel and special equipment. He has already done some study, but the new grant will enable him to make studies of at least 1,000 cases.

He explained that this congenital structure in the tissues of the cervix usually disappears with age. Early studies have shown, however, that it does continue to exist in some adults and his investigation is to determine the percentages of incidence where this is true.

Dr. Sneed and his staff said they found the structure continued to exist in about 7 per cent of the approximately 200 examinations made prior to the grant from the cancer society. One malignant growth was discovered among these.

Feldenheimer revealed that Oregon division funds totaling approximately $69,000 were allocated for research last year on a local and national basis.

The society is currently staging its annual fund-raising campaign.

Tuesday Voting Effects Noted

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Legal sale of liquor won't start in Oklahoma for several weeks. But business queries already have started coming in as a result of prohibition repeal Tuesday after 51 years.

The Chamber of Commerce said one letter arrived from Yugoslavia, asking if some Tulsa might want to handle import business on wine.

An out-of-state dealer telephoned to say, "I'm on my way down—tell me something about Tulsa."
