Check Charge Plea Delayed

A man secretly indicted by a grand jury two years ago and released Thursday from a California penitentiary was arraigned in Klamath County Circuit Court Friday on a bad check charge.

Appearing before Judge David R. Vandenberg was William L. Still, 42, charged with obtaining fishing supplies, a fishing license, gasoline and change from a worthless $50 check cashed at the Bly Service Center June 3, 1957.

Still was secretly indicted September 27, 1957. He was returned here by Deputy Sheriff Dale Mattoon from Folsom penitentiary in California where he was released Thursday.

In answer to a query from the judge, Still said he had "20 some odd dollars" which he had been given upon release from the penitentiary, but he said he didn't want a lawyer anyway.

The judge, nevertheless, appointed David Card to represent Still and granted, at Card's request, additional time to enter a plea. Entry of plea was scheduled for 10 a.m. Tuesday.

'Anti-Dis...' Wins Race

CHILQUIN—in a close race to the finish, the fifth grade room of Ross McIntyre won the ticket sale contest for the third annual PTA chiliburger dinner which will be served Tuesday, April 14, beginning at 5:30 p.m.

The grade school students brought in just over $300 on the contest which has been pictured as a horse race. Anti-Dis-establishmentarianism was the name of the winning horse. Second in the race, was Mrs. Lester Hoback's fourth grade horse, Slug, and in third place Mrs. Athel Roser's third grade horse, Pork Chops.

Highest selling students were Irwin Miller, Connie Wampler and David Jackson. Runnersup were Stanley Lobert and Gerry Wolff. Down the line but highest in their own rooms were Norman Anderson and a tie between Mary Kensler and Kathy Peters.

Tickets may still be obtained for the PTA event, but the contest for selling is over.

Kathy Fiscus Drama Ended 10 Years Ago

SAN MARINO, Calif. (AP)—It was a narrow hole, 14 inches wide, its top almost covered with weeds. Three children played around it, one pleasantly spring day a decade ago. Then, suddenly, only two children were there.

The hole was a 230-foot-deep abandoned well in a vacant lot. It had claimed Kathy Fiscus, age 3.

Kathy's cousin, Gus Lyon, then 5, heard her crying, and realized the sounds came from the ground. He ran for her mother.

Mrs. David Fiscus knelt by the hole. "Can you hear me, Kathy?" she asked.

Up came the faint reply: "Yes." "Kathy, Kathy," cried her mother. "Are you standing up?"

"Yes," came the voice, "I am." Mrs. Fiscus ran for help.

It was the beginning of one of the nation's greatest rescue operations—a futile one, almost from the first; an operation which the whole country watched.

On a warm Sunday, 52 hours later, the golden-haired child was brought from the well—dead. A nation wept.

Doctors said she apparently suffocated within two hours of her plunge into the well casing. She apparently slipped deeper into the hole after her last words to her mother.

A rescue worker—one of 132 who labored round-the-clock—found her 95 feet below ground. The rescuers had to cut a parallel shaft and then back their way through the well casing to reach her body.

The incident touched off a nationwide move to cap abandoned wells throughout the country. Contributions totaling $44,139 came from all over the world for the rescue workers.

Some of the workers gave their share to the Kathy Fiscus Memorial Fund, which turned over almost $4,000 to the Society for Crippled Children.

From the fund enough was diverted for this plaque, which is at Children's Hospital in Los Angeles.

"Kathy Fiscus—Aug. 12, 1945-April 8, 1949—in whose memory eternal vigilance in the field of child safety is hereby dedicated."
