

State Stream Flows May Be Fifth Lowest In 25 Years

PORTLAND (AP) — Stream flows in Oregon this year may be the fifth lowest in the last 25 years.

Government forecasters, issuing a detailed report on Oregon streams, based on the March 1 snow survey, said there will be a drastic shortage in many areas.

Areas with reservoirs, however, will be in better condition for the reservoirs average 121 per cent of the normal storage.

Forecasts of streamflow for the April-September period:

ON THE HOUSE

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Buffalo police are looking for an accommodating two-gun bandit. While he waited for a tavern waitress to fill a green satchel with more than $2,000 in cash, the bandit calmly told several customers to "keep right on drinking."

WORKING CONDITIONS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Who said you can't beat the hours? As a ball player, the most money ex-first baseman Chuck Connors ever earned in one season was $6,500. As an actor, Connors, formerly with the Dodgers and Cubs, earned $41,000 last year.

HOSPITALITY OF THE BASIN area is exhibited by these two master sergeants in the Air Force who sampled the results of Agency Lake during last season. Left to right, M. Sgt. Louis Osina, who has since been transferred to the Philippine Islands, and M. Sgt. Charles Bennett, information services officer at Kingsley Field.

A PROFITABLE VISIT to Klamath Falls was made last year by F. M. Henry, Portland, Oregon, father of Danny Henry, Herald and News linotype operator. A portion of the catch from the Williamson River is shown here. Mr. and Mrs. Henry were visiting with relatives.
