

Wire Service Aiding Man To Bring Wife Into U.S.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — For nearly 10 years, Roy Huerta, 38, has been able to see his wife only on weekends.

Almost every Saturday, Huerta, a restaurant cook, has taken a 130-mile bus trip to visit his Mexican-born wife, Manuela, 32, in Tijuana, Mexico. She has been barred from the United States since 1949 as the result of a perjury conviction that started as a language mixup.

But now, Huerta, aided by a United Press International investigation, may be able in a matter of weeks to bring his wife and six small children to Los Angeles to live with him.

"This is wonderful," he said. "I'll take the kids out every day. I'll skip through the park with them."

Ironically, a law passed Sept. 11, 1957, probably would have permitted Mrs. Huerta to enter this country at that time despite the perjury conviction. But Huerta, a World War II Army veteran of the South Pacific campaign, didn't know about it until a UPI reporter investigated the case.

NEED DOCUMENTS.

"We feel this is a deserving case, and it shouldn't be too long before the family can all live together here if other things are in order," said F. C. Oswald, deputy district director of immigration in Los Angeles.

"That means they need documents showing they are married and that Huerta was born in this country. The Sept. 11, 1957, legislation permits the spouse of a U.S. citizen to enter the country even if he or she would be otherwise inadmissible because of a conviction."

Oswald said the last entry in the case was in 1953 when Huerta again tried to have her admitted. Mrs. Oswald, who said he felt the case was an isolated one, spent several days running down information called to his attention by UPI.

A week ago Friday he located the file listed under Mrs. Huerta's maiden name. He telephoned Huerta, told him about the 1957 law and advised him to start proceedings at the San Ysidro border station which could win her admission in four to six weeks.

WOULD BE CITIZENS.

The official also asked San Ysidro personnel to contact the U.S. Consulate in Tijuana across the border about the case. The children, he said, would become U.S. citizens without difficulty if the Huerta birth and marriage documents were in order.

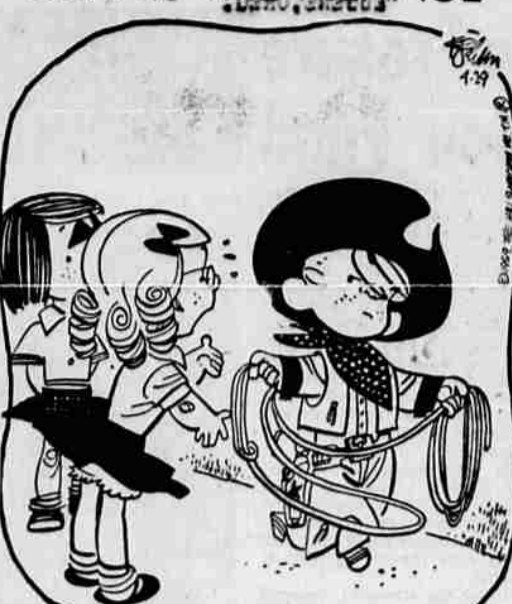

"This is wonderful!" Huerta told Oswald. "I'll tell Manuela about it when I go see her this weekend. She doesn't have a phone there. It will be a wonderful surprise. She'll fill out the forms and get going on it right away. It's wonderful."

The children range from infancy to nine years.

Huerta, born in Johnstown, Pa., was unable to arrange for a job in San Diego, Calif., a short distance from Tijuana.

Mrs. Huerta's difficulty occurred when the couple, married in 1947 in Los Angeles, visited Tijuana and then returned. Mrs. Huerta, who speaks only a little English, became confused and said she was a U.S. citizen. She later was accused of entering the United States illegally, convicted of perjury and deported.

'Home Frontiers' Theme Of Girl Scout Festival

"Home Frontiers" is the theme of the annual Girl Scout Festival to be held at Mills School Auditorium Saturday, May 2.

In honor of Oregon's Centennial year, Girl Scouts and Brownies from Klamath County and portions of California will present skits portraying historic events that have happened locally around 100 years ago. The program will extend from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Highlight of the day will be the Court of Awards. Girl Scouts who have earned First Class, Curved Bar and Five Point awards will receive them.

A council-wide art exhibit depicting scenery and life locally will be judged during the day by Gordon Kensler and Mrs. Jack Warwick. Winning entries from each age group will be sent to the International Art Exhibit at Colorado Springs in July.

The festival will include the following skits:

The Bloody Point Massacre by Newell troops, the hanging of Captain Jack by Tulelake troops, a Modoc Indian square dance by Alturas troop, school days in 1859 by Klamath Falls north neighborhood troops, an Adin flour mill by Adin Brownies, cattle branding by Adin intermediates, "Radio Comes to Oregon" by Fairhaven area girls, "Westward Ho!" by Klamath Falls north neighborhood girls.

Sisters at the academy said a large crowd attended the show, especially during the afternoon. Showing took place from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Visitors were served coffee, tea, punch, cookies and cocktail sandwiches by members of the hostess committee. Pleasant music, delivered from a hi-fi set was a bonus feature.

Serving tables were decorated with carnations and snapdragons and a pair of artist mannequins.

Farm Adviser Gives Report

A 43 per cent increase in a 10-year period. That's the record of American farmers in their crop yields per acre, reports Tulelake Farm Adviser Ken Baggett of the University of California.

Records show that in 1958, on the average, each 57 acres of crop land harvested in this country produced as much food, livestock feed and fiber as 100 acres yielded only 10 years ago.

Several factors have brought about this big increase. Growers have intensified production on the better lands and larger farms, thus increasing the average yields.

Farmers are constantly adopting new practices in land and crop management. They realize that high yields tend to bring lower costs per production unit. Then, too, good farmers like to exceed the yields of others in their neighborhood.

The increases in California since 1940, only 18 years ago, show the trend. Yields have increased 44 per cent for deciduous fruit trees, 116 per cent for potatoes, 168 per cent for tomatoes, 35 per cent for strawberries, 28 per cent for milk per cow, and 46 per cent for eggs per hen.

Red Council Axes Former Warlord

TOKYO (AP)—Red China today dropped Lung Yun, former warlord governor of Yunnan province, from its important National Defense Council.

Lung had been one of the vice chairmen of the group. He was accused of rightist deviation in 1957 for criticizing the Soviet Union and declaring that the United States had been more generous in its aid to China.

The former Nationalist official had risen high under the Communists even though he never joined the party.

School District Officials Fear Turndown Of Money

By NORM CARDOZA

Officials of School Districts One and Two are fretting this week about two moves made by the county tax assessor during the past few days.

They feel the untimely moves may prompt voters to turn down requests for money during the May 4 district elections.

For in a fell swoop the tax assessor's office declared a 17 per cent blanket increase in assessed value of all property within the two school districts. And it launched a campaign to reappraise much of the residential Hot Springs area east of Kit Carson Way.

Voters, without understanding completely the intricacies of tax assessment, may revolt against schools' requests for money, officials fear, since schools traditionally take the lion's share of property taxes yearly.

Schools are asking for considerably less money than they asked for and got last year. And the increase in assessed value does not mean that taxes have suddenly risen for everyone in town. Some may get cuts.

But fierce protest apparently is emanating from the Hot Springs sector—the assessor's target for reappraisal this year. Property there has not been appraised since 1951.

Through methods known, at present, only to them, Assessor Hap Caldwell and his staff have shot many appraisals skyward in the hot water hell. Those whose appraisals have risen will undoubtedly be taxed more. Theoretically, it's not precise to say yet that their taxes will increase.

How much they will be taxed will depend on four budgets in the county. They are those of city and county governments and of the two city school districts. None have yet been approved.

An additional factor, not yet determined, is how much taxable property the area has gained or lost during the year. Greater Klamath Falls has grown in population. But that does not mean that the value of taxable property has risen.

Basin Educators Name New Chief

Mrs. Dorthia Kuist, has been named president of the Klamath County Primary Branch of the Association for Childhood Education to succeed Mrs. Lucille West, Merrill. Other officers for 1959-1960, elected at the April 25 meeting were Mrs. Aura Mitchell, vice president and Mrs. Dorothy Glenn, secretary-treasurer.

The meeting was held at the new Stearns School with a coffee hour and school tour before the meeting.

Mrs. Buena Stone spoke on "What Oregon's Centennial Can Mean to Children in the Primary Grades." Reports were given on what schools have done to recognize the Centennial. There was a demonstration on Centennial dancing and singing by Mrs. Lorna Heilbroner's third grade pupils at Stearns School.
