PTA NEWS

FAIRVIEW

The Fairview PTA held its regular meeting on April 23 at Fairview School with President Mrs. Alice Badley conducting the meeting.

Name tags, designed in the Centennial theme and made by Brownies and Intermediate Girl Scouts, were given to members and guests on their arrival. Camp Fire Girls and Cub Scouts assisted the hospitality committee at the door.

The meeting opened with a flag salute led by Joyce Jolly, sixth grade student, and Leslie Nicodemus and Debbie Eccles, second grade students. Singing was led by second grade Brownies and the sixth grade Girl Scouts, and accompanied by Mrs. Bethmyrl McLin at the piano. Cub Pack 48 and Boy Scout Troop 48 characters for the year were presented to the PTA as sponsoring organization.

Officers and leaders of the youth groups active in the school were introduced by Mrs. A. R. Breitenstein.

It was announced that the next PTA meeting will be May 21, one week early. A study group and executive committee luncheon will be held at 12:45 p.m. on May 13 at Fairview. All are invited. Room count was won by Mrs. Isabel Sanders' seventh grade and a special prize was won by Mrs. Helen Crapo.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lillian Brandt's sixth grade and Irma Wauchope's second grade rooms with Mrs. Ladd Hoyt and Mrs. Bob Nicodemus in charge. Cub Scout dens and the Boy Scout troop had displays set up in the cafeteria, while the table decorations in the out-of-doors theme were the work of Blue Bird and Camp Fire groups.

Copco Files Condemn Suit

California Oregon Power Company has filed a suit for condemnation in the county clerk's office to obtain a right-of-way easement from Robert F. Barney, Charles C. Barney and others.

The power company seeks a right-of-way for a power line across the Barney property parallel to the Sprague River Highway. It said a $634 offer had been rejected by the property owners.

Other suits on file:

First National Bank of Oregon seeks $4,340 from Charles Surratt and Barbara Surratt, which the bank maintains is due from a $5,050 promissory note signed December 13, 1955. The couple since has been divorced, the suit says. First National seeks either the funds or foreclosure on a property lien.

William R. and Luella R. McCornor seek $8,188 it maintains is due from a $8,600 land purchase made by Ed. W. and Irma H. Miller last October 28, or re-possession of the property.

Dorothy Hale and Samuel Hale Sr. have sued Adolph Samplauski for full possession of property in the Buena Vista Addition which Dorothy Hale and Samplauski occupied when they were married. The suit maintains Dorothy Hale was awarded full possession and it seeks a $50 a month penalty against Samplauski for each month he withholds possession.

GRANGE NEWS

Members of Bly Grange 711 judged the local segment of the National Grange Sewing Contest recently in the Bly School home economics room.

Judges were Mrs. Doris Drake, an instructor in the use of sewing machines; Mrs. Della Baty, a sewing machine instructor, presently employed in a sewing mercantile store, who has taken home extension courses; and Mrs. Bertha Hewitt, who has a background of home extension sewing courses and who has been a leader of the unit for several years.

Winners of the contest were Mrs. Joyce Pohl who entered a cotton satin cocktail dress and jacket in the adult division, Marion Cline who entered a sailcloth dress with flared skirt in the 14 to 17 years of age group, and Caroline Obenchain entered a sheath dress made of blended material in the 12 to 14 years of age group.

Virginia Watts won in the "adult sew for others" division with her child's cotton dress. The winners are eligible to participate in a Pomona Grange contest to be conducted May 9. The Bly contest drew 74 entries.

Mrs. Vincil Rentel, home economics chairman; Mrs. Basil Hall, master of the Bly Grange, and Mrs. Hank Hall served on the project committee.

Top prizes in the national contest include a trip to Paris and several new automobiles.

Expert Says Gems In Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — There may be diamonds in the moon, says a Wisconsin scientist.

Dr. G. P. Kuiper of Yerkes Observatory, Williams Bay, Wis., said the craters on the moon shaped like big ice cream cones seem to be similar to the funnel-like craters topping the Kimberlite "diamond pipes" in South Africa. The African pipes extend deep into the earth, and it is from them that diamonds are mined.

Kuiper told about the moon craters discovery at a space symposium at the National Academy of Sciences. He spoke further about them in an interview.

He said the finding—made with an 82-inch, high-powered telescope—shows that there are now two known types of craters on the moon:

1. Bowl-shaped craters believed by many scientists to have been caused by the impact of meteorites bombarding the moon in ages past.
2. The cone-shaped craters which Kuiper theorizes were created by explosions caused by gas escaping from inside the moon when it was still hot.

TEACHERS MEETING

Junior-senior high school teachers held their final meeting of the school year on April 17. The exceptionally bright child was the topic for a talk by Mrs. Joy Hills Gubser, Robert Schmor, Bonanza, has been elected president for the coming year; Frances Koertje, Merrill, vice president and Mildred Tafel, Malin, secretary. Beulah Elliott, Altamont, was hospitality chairman.

Klamath Falls City Chief Speaks To Women Voters

Gerald Vergeer, Klamath Falls city manager, spoke Wednesday night on "Klamath Falls and the Council-Manager Plan" at a public meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters. His opening remarks were, "In the state of Oregon, Klamath Falls is recognized as a city that is expanding and growing and my first six months here have been remarkable."

"This is the third time that I have installed the council-manager plan in a city which did not previously have it. I could never have anticipated such a wonderful experience with the council as here in Klamath Falls. There has not been even one misunderstanding!"

Commenting on the responsibilities and objectives of a city manager, Vergeer included the relief of elected city officials from the burden of administrative work, which prior to Oct. 1958, was often done at the sacrifice of the council.

He is also responsible for the coordination of city departments and cooperation of the city with county, chamber of commerce, schools and utilities. The manager prepares the budget and recommends cultural and physical improvements, and as the chief administrative officer he carries out the orders of the governing elected officials, i. e. the council.

Vergeer emphasized, "In Klamath Falls the representation by words has the advantage of people being able to contact the councilman from their ward who not only feels this responsibility, but considers the wider view which includes the greater good for the greatest number."

Completing the list Vergeer added that as personnel officer of the city which employs 125 people he has attempted to attain better understanding among employees by giving due recognition to departmental achievements. Also an opportunity is afforded to employees to discuss with the manager personnel problems resulting in closer working relationships between the employees and administration. The manager is purchasing agent of the city and furnishes additional reports when needed. Vergeer also enforces the city ordinances, remarking, "The intent of the ordinance should be carried out; laws are for the protection, not abuse of people."

In comparing the council-manager plan to management in a private corporation, Vergeer stated that while earnings are the objective in industry and manufacturing, the goals in a municipal corporation are not profit-making, but the amount of services a city renders the community.

The manager of a private corporation carries out policies of a board of directors, but because city business is public the city manager operates differently. He is subject to many pressures that the manager of a private corporation doesn't have.

He concluded with a plea to every citizen in Klamath Falls, "I appreciate scrutiny and constructive criticism. You are welcome to come to my office anytime. I think that the feeling of local citizens is important because government must yield to the desires of people."

Honor Slated DAR Regents

Eulonia Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will close the present activity year with a Centennial theme banquet at 6:30 p.m. May 4, at the Pelican party room. Past regents will be honored.

Centennial gowns may be worn if desired. Mrs. Bert C. Thomas has offered to loan dresses from her collection.

Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Z. W. Dixon and Mrs. Hugh Estes for the banquet. Program Chairman Mrs. Guy Barton has announced that Mrs. Lewis C. Horny will discuss early American music and Mrs. Raymond Tice has arranged for a program on American music.

Mrs. H. A. Pedersen, junior past regent, states the Country Store will be open for customers at the banquet and that donations to the shelves will be welcomed.

Members should phone reservations before Saturday night to TU 4-6643 or TU 4-6582.
