Reds Plan Coup; Seek Anti-Nasser Chief

CAIRO (AP) — Communists in Sudan are trying to line up support for a coup to put in power an anti-Nasser strongman on the order of Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem.

So far the Reds have met with little success in their efforts to build up a popular front which would join in the opposition to President Gamal Abdel Nasser's brand of Arab nationalism.

But Sudan is so wobbly politically and economically that Communist activities are not taken lightly by observers.

The man the Reds are grooming to be their Sudanese Kassem is Brig. Abdel Rahim Shanan, who looks like the strongest man in the military junta now governing the country.

Shanan himself is no Communist. Like other senior Sudanese officers, he got his military training under the British. Basically he is a conservative and a genuine Sudanese nationalist. But he is ambitious enough to be vulnerable to leftist wooing and he is anti-Egyptian.

Shanan was not a member of the original junta headed by army commander Ibrahim Abboud which took over the Sudanese government last November. Shanan forced his way into the junta by marching his regiment into Khartoum last March.

The compromise junta that resulted disappointed a powerful clique of junior officers who had backed Shanan in the hope he would set up a completely new regime.

There is a wide gap between generals and captains in Sudan's 12,000-man army.

The Communists in the Sudan are not strong numerically but they dominate the trade unions and the Anti-Imperialist Front.

Abboud cracked down on the Communists on taking power last November, suspended trade unions and jailed many leftist leaders. Since the ouster of Gen. Ahmed Abdel Wahab as minister of interior, however, there is noticeable easing of pressure on the Reds.

KUHS Drama Students To Do 'Taming Of Shrew'

The Klamath Union High School Little Theater drama group is tackling Shakespeare's "Taming' of the Shrew."

It will run in the KUHS Little Theater May 7 and 12 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. and May 13 and 14 beginning at 8 p.m. Admission is free.

The play, one of Shakespeare's earlier works dealing with conquering and subduing a stubborn, scolding, evil tempered woman by her wooer and husband, Petruchio, has been cut to about half its original length for the KUHS performance.

The players will substitute a quick curtain to denote a script omission or a lapse of time.

Glynn Michael or Bill Rogers will play the leading male role—that of Petruchio. Amy Kerr, Trudy Evans and Nancy Rusth will alternate playing the female lead, Katharina.

Others in the production are Sam Henzel, Gilbert Smith, Larry Bishop, Karen Storm, Patty Swansen, Patty Propst, Trenton Douglas, Paul Guest, Ked Shroyer, Merle Sine, Bob Thompson, Joe Bisphatn, Tom Fredrickson and Penny Preston.

Seventeenth century wardrobe was designed and made by Gayle Osborne and Judy Rawson assisted by students from the dramatics department. Marylyn Metler will handle an Old English Morris dance.

The play will include eight scenes.
