Influx Of Beef Cattle Has Reached Its Peak

By MYRTLE WIMER

FORT KLAMATH—Truck shipments of white face Hereford cattle have been arriving in the Wood River Valley day and night for the past month, and this annual spring influx of beef cattle has now reached its climax. Ranch hands and cattlemen have been returning from their winter homes elsewhere and preparing for the seasonal pasture of thousands of stock which will graze on the 160,000 acres of the valley until late fall.

transported from their various winter ranges and feed lots to the Wood River Valley by means of diesel trucks and trailers, the exception to this rule here are those consigned from Hollister, California, by the Hawkins Cattle Company. Invariably, each spring they are shipped by cars to Chiloquin, the nearest railroad point, and from there are driven by buckaroos to the Hawkins ranch in the south of the valley. In the fall, Hawkins stock is shipped out the same way.

An encomium presented annually by the local Quill and Scroll chapter to the person in the community who has done most to advance high school journalism, went to Charles Carlson, KUHS principal.

Keynote address was delivered by James Boyle, supervisor of allied arts and science at Oregon Technical Institute. He spoke of ethics in advertising.

University of Oregon Journalism Department staff members judged awards and presentations.

Schools Honor Drilling Bids

Well drilling firms from Dorris and Bonanza won contracts Friday to sink deep hot water wells on the Lucile O'Neill and the Roosevelt School sites in Klamath Falls. Bids were opened by Klamath Falls School District One board of directors.

Oren Storey of Dorris bid $1,900 for drilling a well 700 feet deep with an eight-inch casing at the O'Neill school site. He bid $2 per foot of drilling in soft ground and $8 per foot in rock, if additional depth is needed.

The W. L. Hartley and Son Company of Bonanza bid $2,420 for drilling a well 400 feet deep with a 12-inch casing at Roosevelt School. The company also bid $3.50 per foot in soft ground and $12 per foot in rock, if additional drilling is required.

Four companies submitted bids on both projects. Work is due to start within the next few days.

Parking Expert's Discussion Open

An appeal for all merchants and everyone interested to attend the Tuesday, May 19, meeting with William H. Barr, noted parking authority, was issued Friday by Leo Morstad, vice president of the Klamath Merchants.

Morstad presided at the Friday morning meeting of the Merchants Association at the Chuck Wagon. He becomes president of the group, replacing Frank Kennedy, manager of Woolworths, who has been transferred.

Members of the Merchants Association agreed to be closed on May 30, Memorial Day, a Saturday.

City Manager G. S. Vergeur appealed to merchants to give him the name of itinerant salesmen who operate in Klamath Falls without paying occupation taxes.

Back at the Jim Owens ranch west of Fort Klamath (the former William C. Hackler place) are Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Reimers Jr. He is employed year-round by Owens and with his wife spends the winter months at Red Bluff. A newcomer to the Owens crew this year is Lee Grissom, who has an interesting background: he was at one time left-hand pitcher for the National Baseball League, and his brother, Marvin Grissom, is currently with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League.

Moving from the Jim Owens ranch residence which they have occupied as caretakers since last fall were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Feezer, who are now at the Loren Miller Company, Inc. ranch west of Fort Klamath (the former Lee Denton property). Feezer is employed as ranch hand by the company.

Newcomers this year for the Millers are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Drake and two children of Susanville. They are living at the second Miller ranch west of Fort Klamath (known as the old Siemens place), and he has replaced Marvin Cramer as year-round ranch hand.

The third Miller ranch, south of Fort Klamath, is called home by Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. (Pete) Wright, who moved back here this spring after living at the Loren L. Miller Jr. Fort Klamath residence for the winter. Miller Jr. was in Fort Klamath last week in connection with the company's cattle interests here.

Other ranch hands and their families back in Fort Klamath include Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Walker, Merrill, who are at the Ira F. Orem and Son ranch; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Kendall, at the Lloyd Nicholson ranch. The Lloyd and Stewart Nicholsons are among families remaining in Fort Klamath all year, and the two brothers have been driving to and from their holdings at Merrill all winter; the Merrill property and feed lot are in charge of Bill Nicholson, son of the Stewart Nicholsons, who with his wife and three small sons will soon return to the Nicholson ranch at Fort Klamath for the season.

J. Patrick (Paddy) McAuliffe has been busy in ranch work in Fort Klamath for some time, and his father, Patrick J. McAuliffe, is a frequent visitor from the family's winter ranch home at Cottonwood, California, in connection with the joint father and son cattle operations in the valley and on Klamath Marsh.

When the current school term ends in California, ranchers' families with children in school there will return to Fort Klamath until fall. Included among these are the Joseph C. McAuliffes, the Patrick J. McAuliffes, both of Cottonwood; the Tommy Hawkins family of Hollister; the Owens brothers' families of Red Bluff, and the Loren L. Miller Jr. family of Red Bluff.

The Paddy Kennelly family was among the first to return this spring from California; he is year around hand for Joseph C. McAuliffe of Cottonwood and Fort Klamath.

J. L. (Doc) and Mrs. Helms have been back for some time at their Fort Klamath ranch from Tulelake. Until recently they maintained a feedlot there, but this has been sold. Their son and family, the Robert Helms, will be back soon from Grants Pass, and Robert has been here often this spring in the family's local ranch interests.

R. Seth Dixon is back from San Francisco and will be joined soon by his wife. Ranch hands for the Dixons are Ash Morrow and Clarence McDonald, who stayed at the Dixon ranch two miles north of Fort Klamath during the owners' absence in the south.

Tax Protest

3. That all property in the county "be put on the same formula of 100 per cent of true cash value."

4. That the board permit no new assessments of Hot Springs, Mountain View, El Dorado Heights and Hillside additions to go on the tax rolls this year but get only the blanket, county-wide 17 per cent increase.

(It was the appearance of new assessments of those additions that raised the ruckus.)

5. That the board permit no new appraisals to go on tax rolls until the whole county had been reappraised (as suggested in No. 2 above).

6. That if any adjustments are necessary . . . (they be made) before May 1961.

Mack said the study to be made by a Tax Commission representative beginning this week would be a study required of the state under law.

Mack said the proposed study next week would seek to determine whether present property assessments are equitable to all areas. It is a review required of the commission anyway, and Mack said findings would be made available to the county board.

Caldwell and other officials repeated at the meeting that the reappraisal and reassessment of the Hot Springs section was part of the rotation used by appraisers who—under law—must reach all parts of the county every six years. He said this year was Hot Springs' turn.

Lee Stoner, Electronics Technician, Denver Bound

Lee Stoner

Electronics testing equipment and other intricate devices at Stoner Electronics, 4842 South Sixth Street, are being packed up by Lee Stoner for shipment to Denver to be used in his hobby laboratory there.

After operating his own business in Klamath Falls for five years, Stoner has accepted a position with Lahana & Company, 1228 South Broadway, Denver, effective June 1. He and Mrs. Stoner will leave on May 24 for the mile-high Colorado city.

It will be going home for Stoner as he was born at Denver. Upon graduation from the University of Colorado and receiving his electrical engineering degree, B.S. (E.E.), he served in the Navy as an electronics officer. He attended Harvard and MIT and, upon release from active military duty, moved to San Francisco. He served as a field engineer for Pacific Gas & Electric in the Bay Area and came to Oregon in 1948.

At Klamath Falls, Stoner was associated with California Oregon Power Company and then went into business for himself.

In addition to business interests, Stoner has played the piano professionally since high school days and had his own band in college. He has been a member of the LaMar Jensen Trio which was formed in Klamath Falls about five years ago and is one of the original nine members of the Starlighters here. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club, Elks Lodge, Klamath County Chamber of Commerce and Klamath Yacht Club.

During the last few years, he has accumulated eight graduate hours in University of Oregon extension art through courses taught by Howard Hall, local art instructor.

In his new post, he will be sales engineer of the Lahana firm which is a manufacturers' representative for electronics instrumentation. Lahana represents a long list of top electronics firms, including Beta Electric, New York City; MR Manufacturing Company, New Haven, a division of Textron, Inc.; Hewlett-Packard, Varian Associates and Dynas, Inc. all of Palo Alto; Kin Tel, San Diego; F. L. Moseley Company, Pasadena; Sorceson & Company, Stamford, Connecticut; and Sensitive Research Instrument Corporation, New Rochelle.

Obituaries

DUBOIS

James Bill DuBois, 54, Chiloquin, died here May 14. He was a native of Bogalusa, Louisiana, and a resident of this county for the past 19 years. He is survived by the widow, Nellie of Chiloquin; one son, Robert Wade DuBois of the USAF; two daughters, Marie Joyce Bickers of Chiloquin, Peggy June Popp of Klamath Falls; and two grandchildren. Funeral services will take place from the chapel of Ward's Klamath Funeral Home on Monday, May 18, at 10:30 a.m. with the Rev. Cecil Dye of the Chiloquin Open Bible Standard Church officiating. Concluding services and interment will follow in Klamath Memorial Park.

SULLIVAN

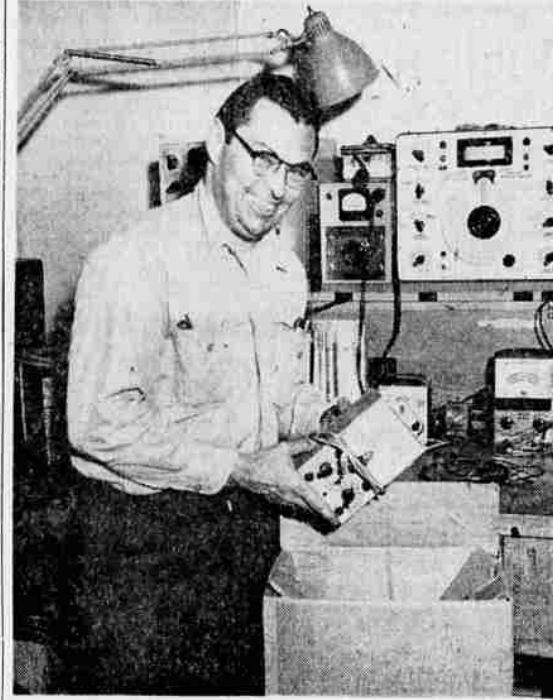

Word was received Friday by Mrs. Richard Lockrem, 1848 Bisbee Street, of the sudden death of Fred Sullivan in Salem Friday. Mr. Sullivan operated a furniture and decorating store in Klamath Falls for several years. Funeral services will be held in the Golden Funeral Home, Salem, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Sullivan may be reached at 575 24th Street N.E., Salem.

MEETING ACTIVITIES

ALTURAS—Pastor Bruce Babieno of the Alturas Church of Seventh-day Adventists will leave Tuesday morning, May 19, for pre-camp meeting activities at Lodi, California. During the retreat of the ministers at Lodi, they will set up tents and make other arrangements for the convenience of members and friends who will attend the annual camp meeting in that place in June. Mrs. Babieno and their infant daughter will also attend the camp meeting.

HAPPENED TOO FAST

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Judge Hu Tso-hui of the Quemoy District Court has resigned following his demotion for granting a woman a divorce and then marrying her himself in less than the six months required for the decree to become final.

LEE STONER

Lee Stoner, Electronics Technician, Denver Bound

His first assignment will be a six-month training course at various electronics centers. During that period, Mrs. Stoner, the former Ellenor Poole, will return to Klamath Falls to spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. Rose Poole.

GLENDIA BRANCH, another candidate for queen of the Lake County Roundup, is a junior at Paisley High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Branch of Paisley. The 16-year-old blue-eyed blonde is sponsored by the 20-40 Farmers. For the past seven years she has helped her father drive and separate cattle.

Three Compete For Awards

Three Sacred Heart Academy seniors recently took competitive tests at Medford that may win them Sylvania Scholarships to Stanford University.

They were Larry Jackson, of 2941 Bisbee Street, Douglas Kirkpatrick of 1981 Harriman Avenue and Tom Powell of 1890 Lowell Street in Klamath Falls. They are students of Sister John Magdalen, mathematics instructor.

The university has indicated it will award up to 10 of the scholarships to exceptionally apt mathematics students this year. Size of the scholarships will depend on students' individual aptitude.
