4-Day Meet Terminated; Baptists Head For Home

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Those singing Southern Baptists headed home Saturday, their annual convention chimes carried out—with some debate and a lot of song.
The old-time hymns, both solemn and lighthearted, were a big part of their big, four-day convocation. At lunch counters and in the corridors, you'd hear them humming "Blessed Assurance" or singing softly:
"Where He Leads Me I Will Follow."
And every session opened with what was called "fellowship in song." It was not just a formality. Those 15,000 Baptists could really shake the rafters of the huge Fairgrounds Coliseum.
In the last day's sessions Friday they also had a bit of their familiar free-swinging debate—before deciding to recommend a top-level conference of Negro and white Baptist leaders to seek solutions to interracial problems.
But Friday night, with many of the "messengers" leaving early, there was serene unanimity as the thinned-out meeting adopted what had been foreseen as a controversial plan—the posting of a Southern Baptist observer at the United Nations.
The step was proposed by a year-long peace study commission headed by Dr. Walter Pope Binns, president of William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo.
Some advance protests had been raised about the U.N. observer plan by Baptists who thought the step might be compared to proposals for the government to send an ambassador to the Vatican. Baptists generally strongly oppose this.
The peace commission said Baptists can contribute to the cause of peace by prayer, preaching the gospel, supporting agencies that seek peace, including the U.N., and by backing efforts for disarmament agreements.
In other major actions during their four-day convention, "messengers" of the nine-million-member denomination:
1. Urged a fight by Baptists against obscene literature, by keeping an eye on news stands, and turning over any indecent material received through the mail to local postmasters.
2. Urged increased vigilance to safeguard religious liberties in the current era of overlapping functions of church and state institutions.
3. Rejected a proposal that would require seminaries to become more self-supporting by charging higher student tuition fees.
4. Decided not to meddle in the problems of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary here, which has been working to overcome a faculty crisis that threatened the institution's accreditation.
5. Beat off an attack on theological teachings at the seminary.
6. Deferred action on a proposed constitutional amendment to expand into Canada, where other Baptist conventions now hold sway.
7. Elected the Rev. Ramsey Pollard of Knoxville as their new president, succeeding former Congressman Brooks Hays, who had finished two terms.
And before they rang down the curtain, the Southern Baptists sang some more:
"How Firm a Foundation, Ye Saints of the Lord!"

Threat Told By Timbermen

PORTLAND (AP)—Deer and elk are a threat to the reforestation of the Tillamook Burn and are raising havoc on tree farms, timbermen told a state Game Commission hearing here Friday.
Frank Sargeant of the Oregon state Board of Forestry told the packed hearing a 1958 field survey showed an average of 18 percent of the 38 million trees planted on 47,500 acres of northwest Oregon state lands were damaged by the animals.
A Georgia-Pacific Corp. spokesman said an estimated 20 million board feet of lumber was lost because of animal damages. He said the damage was heaviest in Coos, Curry, Lincoln and Linn counties.
The timber spokesmen urged an increased kill at the hearing on 1959 big game hunting regulations. The commission was scheduled late today to set tentative regulations for the year, with final regulations to be announced after a June 5 hearing.

Contractors Standing Pat

SEATTLE (AP)—Contractors apparently are standing pat on their opposition to a hiring hall clause despite an adverse ruling from the National Labor Relations Board.
The Associated General Contractors and Operating Engineers' Union have been at loggerheads over inclusion of a hiring hall clause in a new contract. Friday, NLRB regional director Thomas Graham dismissed the contractor's contention the hiring hall clause would be illegal under labor laws.
Later, Colton D. Harper, manager of the Seattle chapter of the AGC, said:
"We are still in the same position we were. The legality or illegality of the hiring hall may have been overemphasized. Our employers still demand the right to employ whomever they wish."
The contractors were given 10 days in which to appeal the regional director's action to the NLRB general counsel.
Meanwhile 15,000 men on multi-million-dollar construction projects in the western half of the state have been idled by the dispute.

Chiefs Slate Russia Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—Nine governors will visit the Soviet Union next month to see how the Soviets handle regional government.
The governors—5 Republicans and 4 Democrats—are scheduled to leave June 22 for a three-week tour of the Soviet Union. They will visit Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev, Tiflis and Tashkent.
They will also explore the possibility of setting up an exchange program for Soviet and American state and local officials.
Money for the tour will be provided by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund and the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation.
Among the governors are Leroy Collins of Florida, Democrat; George D. Clyde, Republican, Utah; John E. Davis, Republican, North Dakota; Luther H. Hodges, Democrat, North Carolina; Robert B. Meyner, Democrat, New Jersey; Stephen L. R. McNichols, Democrat, Colorado; Robert E. Smylie, Republican, Idaho; William G. Stratton, Republican, Illinois; Cecil H. Underwood, Republican, West Virginia.

Bureau Asks Dam Addition

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional authorization of Bully Creek Dam as an addition to the Vale Reclamation Project in Malheur County, Oregon, was recommended Friday by the Bureau of Reclamation.
Floyd E. Downey, in his first appearance before the House Reclamation subcommittee as commissioner of Reclamation, testified in favor of the project.
It would cost some $3,326,000 and provide a water supply for about 3,000 acres of the original project cannot serve. It also would provide flood protection for Vale and surrounding valley farms.
Ira D. Lytle, an attorney, and farmers Earl Flock and Frank Phillips, all representing the Vale and Warm Springs Irrigation District, supported the project.
The committee deferred a vote on the project.

Body In River Said Sailor's

ASTORIA (AP)—A body found floating in the Columbia River has been identified as that of a Portland seaman who vanished from a freighter on Jan. 10.
He was Allan Sampert, an electrician aboard the Hawaiian Freighter which was traveling upriver. The identification was made from dental work.
At first it was believed the body might be that of Ken Martin of Portland, who disappeared with his family while on an automobile outing on the Columbia River George last Dec. 7.
The Martins' family dentist, Dr. E. A. Waterman, was called to Astoria to check the dead man's dental work. He determined the body was not Martin.
Dr. Waterman then checked with Sampert's dentist and identified Sampert by his dental work.

Dulles Condition Still The Same

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said today there was nothing new to report on the condition of John Foster Dulles.
Dulles is at Walter Reed Army Hospital suffering from cancer complicated by pneumonia.
The last medical bulletin on May 19 said the former secretary of state continues to grow weaker, is receiving pain killers and is generally comfortable.

Space Pilots Witness Shot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force shot its 44th Thor intermediate range ballistic missile over the Atlantic Friday night.
The launching was the first ever seen by six of the nation's seven space flyers, one of whom will be the first American to be sent into space two years from now.
The 65-foot Thor roared off to a line start of a 1,500 mile reliability test.
The astronauts are at Cape Canaveral for a three-day familiarization visit as part of their rigorous training program.
It was the second Thor launching in two days at the missile center. On Thursday, a nose cone was recovered after a 6,000-mile flight.
A Discoverer satellite vehicle, using a Thor first stage, is expected to be fired from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., within the next few days. Three mice will be aboard.

CITY BRIEFS

Degree Of Honor—There will be an inspection Monday, May 25 at 8 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus Hall. A banquet will precede the meeting in the Willard Hotel at 6:30. All members are welcome.
Friendship — As a gesture of friendship, members of the Klamath Basin garden clubs and residents of Klamath Falls would like to share their gardens with Air Force personnel living at Kingsley Field Capehart Housing. Any householders living at Capehart who would be interested in receiving gift plants from local gardens are invited to call TU 2-5838, TU 2-5206, TU 4-5025 or TU 2-5335. Present plans call for the plants to be delivered Tuesday, June 2.

Medics Tell Nerve Theory

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A new theory of nerve impulses was discussed by bio-chemists and physiologists from nine nations gathered at the City of Hope in Durate for a three-day symposium.
The scientists said the most widely held theory today is that impulses bridge the gap from one nerve cell to another by way of a specially secreted chemical.
The older theory was that the impulses jumped from one cell to another as a spark jumps across a gap.
Dr. Horace W. Magoun, UCLA physiologist, pointed out that the nervous system not only carry impulses to incite activity, as stimulating muscles to move or glands to function, but it has an equally important function of inhibiting activity.

Traffic Roundup Told By Police

Leonard Derksen, 38, of Chiloquin, was issued a citation by state police for failure to stop at a stop sign on Friday afternoon following a two-car accident at the South Chiloquin Junction at Highway 97.
A southbound car driven by Thomas Lamont Ballantyne, 28, 345 Front Street, Klamath Falls, stuck the rear end of the vehicle operated by Derksen as it came onto Highway 97 without making a stop at the junction.
With Ballantyne were his wife, Pauline, 30 and son, James, 7. Neither was hospitalized and there were no other injuries, state police said.
The accident, which occurred about 4:15 p.m. Friday, did considerable damage to the front end of the Ballantyne car and lesser damage to the rear of the Derksen car.
