

Book On Rabbits' Wedding Withdrawn From Shelves

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A book for young children about a white rabbit marrying a black rabbit has drawn protests in Alabama.

It was withdrawn from general public library circulation because segregationists complained that it reflected pro-integration views.

The book is "The Rabbits' Wedding," published by Harper Bros. last year for children between the ages of three and seven. It was written and illustrated in color by Garth Williams.

The story tells of the marriage of the black and white rabbits at a moonlight wedding attended by all the other animals of the forest.

After criticisms of the book appeared, Miss Emily Wheelock Reed, director of the Alabama Public Library Service Division, which lends books to local libraries throughout the state, ordered the book placed on the agency's reserve shelves.

Miss Reed said the rabbit book had not been banned, but merely withdrawn from general circulation. Librarians seeking the volume for their local libraries may obtain it now only by specific request.

She said she and members of her staff had received complaints about the book and that a member of the Legislature, Sen. E. O. Eddins, questioned it.

She said it isn't unusual to take books out of general circulation in public libraries, and that it isn't always for racial reasons.

Meanwhile, the publishers issued a statement from the author saying the book had "no political significance."

Williams, now in California, added in the statement:

"I was completely unaware that animals with white fur, such as white polar bears and white dogs and white rabbits, were considered blood relations of white beings. I was only aware that a white horse next to a black horse looks very picturesque."

Williams said his story was not written for adults. He said they "will not understand it, because it is only about a soft furry love and has no hidden message of hate."
