

Legal Snag Impales Ark

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Charlie Poliquin's 23-ton ark was held fast on a legal snag Friday after slowly but successfully maneuvering sandbars, shallow water, rapids and sharp bends of the Minnesota River in the first five miles of his projected voyage to South America.

"Guess I'll just have to sell, or start dismantling it," said the man who sold his farm last year to finance the trip. "That divorce action just knocks the bottom out of things."

Wage Line Holding Asked

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Regardless of the consequences waterfront employees were urged to hold the wage line in their negotiations with longshoremen.

Poliquin's pregnant 22-year-old wife, who filed the complaint, was custody Thursday of their 2-year-old daughter and $20 per week support money.

"You put this idea of a South American trip ahead of your marriage," Judge Theodore Knudson told Poliquin, who appeared without an attorney.
