Vets Planning Holiday Rites

Klamath County veterans' organizations are preparing their annual Memorial Day program to be presented Saturday at the shaft on the county courthouse grounds.

The Rev. Father Robert Simard of St. Joseph's Catholic Church will deliver the invocation at 11 a.m. An Eagle Scout, yet to be selected, will recite Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

Featured speaker will be Col. Jack W. Williams, commanding officer of Kingsley Air Force Base. Following his address, organization and individuals will present memorial wreaths. A Kingsley Field squad of riflemen will fire a salute to servicemen killed in action.

The program will close with taps, followed by benediction conferred by Father Simard. Announcement of further activities will take place after the program. Members of the veterans' organization invite and urge individuals to present wreaths at the program.

The Allied Veterans' Council will post flags on graves of all veterans during Memorial Day.
