

Scotsmen List Prices On Player

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The value of Willie Brown, a goal-keeper for Scotland's Dundee soccer team, is 15,000 pounds — or about $42,000.

That's what it says, right here in print, on a brochure put out by the club owners.

The brochure for the team, which plays an all-star club here today, also lists the exact value placed on every member of the squad.

The price of James Gabriel is listed at $50,000; of a lowly rookie named Ally Hill, $7,400.

Man, what an interesting brochure the rosters of professional baseball teams would make if the owners listed the estimated value of each player — and how those prices would fluctuate!

MANTLE'S PRICE
For instance, Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees probably would have been listed as a $450,000 chattel after the conclusion of the 1958 campaign. After the first month of 1959, the price would have dropped to just a little over $1.98.

The Scottish brochure on the Dundee players explains that the prices listed are the "estimated transfer value." For instance, Leeds United offered $47,600 for forward-center Alan Cousin recently, but this offer was declined. The estimated transfer value of Cousin, according to the brochure, is 20,000 pounds or $56,000.

Among the names on the brochure, right in with the professionals, is a lad named Andy Penman, aged 16. His value? None. He is an amateur. But he plays with the professionals. He makes his living as a motor mechanic.

Now this we've got to see in American sports.

It's just like a kid from the neighborhood high school baseball team signing with the Los Angeles Dodgers, making good right away, being inserted in the lineup—but getting no pay.

PLAYERS MIGHT REBEL
If the major leagues would list the estimated value of each player there would be a great tearing at the heart when it came to naming the value. For instance, the San Francisco Giants may list Willie Mays, for trading purposes, as a $500,000 chattel. But if Willie sees this, he might say:

"So how come I get only $80,000 a year?"

But if the Giants put Willie down as worth only $200,000 to the club, and other clubs went in for a trade with Mays as bait, the swap could come out with two broken-down pitchers worth only $100,000 each.

Don't know how the Scots get away with listing the valuation of the players — unless they have a much tighter control over them than the Americans.

But it would make interesting reading to see what baseball club owners think of their players.

Hank Aaron, Haddix Tie For Award

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Harvey Haddix of Pittsburgh, who pitched perfect ball for 12 innings and still lost, had to settle for a tie with Hank Aaron of Milwaukee today in the National League's "Player of the Month" award for May.

Haddix polled 17 votes, the same number as Aaron, from a voting committee of 40 baseball writers and broadcasters who participate in the NL's monthly balloting.

Haddix and Aaron were far out in front of their nearest competitors. Relief ace Elroy Face of the Pirates collected four votes and shortstop Johnny Logan of the Braves received two.

Aaron, the leading hitter in the majors, apparently was a cinch to win the award for May during which he batted .376, with 31 runs batted in and eight homers.

Haddix swung much of the voting his way, however, when he had a perfect game for 12 innings against the Braves, May 26, then lost in the 13th inning when Joe Adcock's double produced the only run of the game.

The Pirates' lefthander pitched well during May even though he won only two of five decisions. Haddix completed four of his six starts, allowed 34 hits in 32 innings, struck out 39 while walking only seven, and compiled an earned run average of 2.68.

For winning the award, Haddix and Aaron each will receive an engraved desk set, which includes a clock and two pens, from the NL office.

Ted Takes 2,500th Hit In His Stride

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Ted Williams, 40-year-old Boston Red Sox star outfielder who last night hit the 2,500th base hit of his major league career, took the occasion pretty much in his stride.

He might have been a little happier had not the Kansas City Athletics triumphed over Boston, 5-3.

Williams' hit was a ringing double into left center field in the first inning off righthander Ray Herbert. The game was halted while the umpires presented the ball to Williams.

After the game Williams said he well remembered his first hit. "It was off Charlie Ruffing in Yankee Stadium. It was a high, fast ball and I hit it over a 407-foot sign in right center field."

That first hit occurred April 20, 1929. Ted chuckled as he recalled. "After I made that first hit I got to second base and Joe Gordon (now manager of the Cleveland Indians) said to me, 'Kid, are you scared?'"

"And I said, 'Yes I am scared,' Gordon said to me, 'Kid, you got nothing to worry about.'"

"I also remember that I struck out the first two times up in that game," Williams said.

Squads Battle For A-2 Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sutherland will play Sherwood for the Oregon Class A-2 high school baseball championship in the second game of a prep title triple-header at Multnomah Stadium in Portland Saturday night.

Sherwood swamped Bandon, 15-1, in one semi-final contest Tuesday at Bandon. Sutherland traveled to Milton-Freewater to defeat McLoughlin High, 5-1.

Jim Regan allowed only three hits and no earned runs in pitching Sherwood to its victory.

Meanwhile he and his mates used 17 walks by three Bandon pitchers in the lopsided victory. Sherwood sent 12 men to the plate in the second inning, when it scored 12 runs. Bandon yielded six bases on balls, one hit batsman and only one hit. There was one error, too.

Two hits and four walks gave Sherwood four more in the seventh.

Home runs, with none on by Jerry Tucker in the first inning and by Don Ralls with one aboard in the third, were enough for Sutherland in its game at Milton-Freewater.

Five errors by the northeast Oregon team also helped Sherwood.

Vet KOs Spokane Youngster

SPOKANE (AP) — Massive Terry Lewis teetered off the threshold of boxing fame Tuesday night in the same manner he reached it—the knockout punch.

Lewis — who had knocked out 16 opponents in 17 undefeated fights — took three solid left hooks to his jaw from Pennsylvania heavyweight Earl Atley. The blows left him flat on his back at 1:07 of the first round of a scheduled 10-rounder. It was scored as a TKO.

The Atley fight was supposed to be a final tune up for the 237-pound Lewis before hitting the fistful palaces in New York, Chicago and Miami Beach.

His manager, Tommy O'Loughlin, was also thinking terms of the television circuit. After the fight O'Loughlin was pounding his hand on the dressing room table, pondering the sharp turn of events.

"I told Terry before the fight that this guy's (Atley) a converted southpaw, that he signed the hotel register with his left hand. I told my boy to keep his left hand up. You saw what happened."

Lewis just mumbled: "What a silly mistake."

Somebody asked Lewis if the Atley fight would discourage him and Terry replied, "I guess I'm just going to have to work harder."

O'Loughlin said he'd like to get a few more fights for Terry and bring Atley back here again for a rematch. "We'll fill this place," he said.

The Coliseum was less than half full for Atley. Some 3,000 persons paid a gross of $4,300.

Atley, whose chief claim to fame had been that he is a sparring partner of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, wasn't conceded a chance against Lewis. He had been signed as a last minute replacement for Emil Brikko of Pittsburgh.

"Atley is a better fighter than anybody ever gave him credit for," said O'Loughlin. "He'd have to be if he's getting paid to spar with Patterson."

Nobody in Lewis' dressing room argued the point.

The preliminaries: Bob McKinney, 175, Tacoma, stopped Bobby Harris, 169, Los Angeles, (1:45 of 4th).

Bill Bailey, 164, Tacoma, d. Bob Peacock, 157, Portland (4).

Kirk Barrow, 176, Spokane, d. Clyde Watson, 176, Los Angeles (6).

Johnny Riggins, 188, Spokane, stopped Tony Emanuel, 215, Los Angeles (1:33 of 5th).

Ingo, Ahlquist To Testify Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Swedish heavyweight challenger Ingemar Johansson and Edwin Ahlquist, a promoter-manager in Sweden, were scheduled to testify today whether there ever was a fighter-manager relationship between the two.

Johansson and Ahlquist were to make their federal court appearance in answer to a charge by California heavyweight Eddie Machen that Johansson ran out of a return bout with him after the Swede had scored a first round knockout over Machen last Sept. 14.

Machen is seeking an injunction to prevent Johansson from meeting Floyd Patterson for the heavyweight title at Yankee Stadium, June 25. He contends Ahlquist, acting as Johansson's manager, signed for a return bout on Sept. 15, 1958.
