Local Woman Attends Reunion

A trip by air, her first, taken by Mrs. Bert C. Thomas to attend the 50th anniversary of her class at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, included in addition to visits with many of her former classmates, a surprise on the return trip.

Mrs. Thomas received recognition and a gift for having traveled farther than the other 92 class members present. The original class included about 400 students. This was the first reunion that some of the members did not attend on crutches or in wheel chairs.

Transferring at Chicago, Mrs. Thomas boarded a United Air Lines plane, was comfortably settled and had a seat guest, her son-in-law, Joe Narcisso, San Francisco, a national figure in the field of archeology, who had been attending a meeting in Washington, D.C.

Each was aware of the other's travels but arrival and departures of planes had not been compared. Boarding of the same plane was happenstance. Narcisso was en route to his home at Navato near San Francisco where Mrs. Thomas continued for a brief visit with daughter Eleanor Narcisso.

Home again in Klamath Falls, a houseguest, Mrs. Ivy Kellerman Reed, and granddaughter Patricia Reed, La Jolla, California, arrived to spend a few days.

Word from another daughter, Mrs. Mary Smith of Anchorage, Alaska, tells of her honor in receiving a 15-year pin from Morrison Knudsen Construction Company. She is in the payroll department of the firm.
