

MALIN SCHOOLS

Combined 1959 enrollment of the Malin High School and elementary school totals 349 students. Both schools are in Klamath County School District. Jim Conroy is high school principal, Charles Hale, principal of the grade school, A. E. Street, retired and still living in Malin, has a 30 year record as a principal in the Oregon school system. Most of that time at Malin. Malin is the only county school with a nearby swimming pool. It was the county's first union high school, combining three and one half school districts, Malin, Shasta View, Bryant Mountain and half of Libby.

Arkansas Demo Raps Ike For Geneva Meet Views

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) took issue today with President Eisenhower's decision to shun a summit conference unless the foreign ministers at Geneva make "a measure of progress."

The President, in a news conference Wednesday, set as his minimum requirement Soviet acceptance at Geneva of Western rights to stay in Berlin until Germany is reunited into a single nation.

"I don't see how the head of any self-respecting government can go to an international conference in response to any kind of thing that can be interpreted as a threat," Eisenhower said.

But Fulbright opposed any advance requirement.

"The mere accomplishment of something in advance should not be the only basis for a summit conference," Fulbright told reporters. He is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"If a summit conference doesn't hold some prospect of benefit to the Western world, I wouldn't go," he added. "But the fact that nothing may be accomplished in the current session at Geneva should not be the sole reason for not trying to get some accomplishment at a higher level."

Fulbright conceded that the foreign ministers "haven't accomplished anything at Geneva."

"But," he said, "one might make an argument that there should be a summit conference in still another effort to make some progress. I think it is possible and logical to argue that the complete lack of accomplishment at the foreign minister level might justify a summit meeting."

For the first time, Eisenhower publicly disclosed the minimum price Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev must pay for a summit conference.

If the Soviets accept the Allied rights to stay in Berlin, the President said, he would regard that as sufficient progress to justify a later summit meeting.

He said that nothing has happened at the Big Four foreign ministers meeting so far which would convince him he should go to a summit parley.

His refusal to attend under a potential threat to Berlin was tantamount to serving notice on the Soviets not only to abandon their campaign to force the West out of Berlin but to confirm Western rights to remain there.

In spelling out his condition, the President took an indirect slap at Khrushchev, who repeatedly talks of signing a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

"Some of the statements made by Mr. Khrushchev were certainly not calculated to ease tension and promote, you might say, a relaxed atmosphere for the conduct of negotiations at Geneva," the President observed.

Delinquents Enjoy Lot

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Juvenile delinquents enjoy being juvenile delinquents, says the nation's top man in scouting.

"It's very difficult to get them to give up juvenile delinquency once they've got started," Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America, told a news conference.

"But if you have a constructive program, as we feel we have, you can keep the numbers down."

Schuck said too much emphasis has been placed on juvenile delinquents because "people get the wrong impression when this 2 per cent is played up. The future depends on the 98 per cent who stay out of trouble."

THE ARRIVAL of the first child in the new country was a good omen and as is the custom in a new land neighbors help one another. This was true of the birth of Rudolph, a second son of Mrs. Frank Paygr Sr., whose given name is Elizabeth. The boy was born on the original land bought from W. C. Dalton of the Lakeside Land Co. by the boy's father. Mrs. Paygr, now 74, still lives on land her husband owned. This is the first summer since she came to Malin in 1909 that she has not raised her own garden. She was born in Lipoljani, Yugoslavia, and in the early years in Oregon suffered hardships and privation. She helped clean the ground for planting and worked in the fields as did other women of the colony.

OIL'S CENTENNIAL

NEW YORK (UPI)—The U.S. oil industry—now a multi-billion dollar operation—celebrates its 100th anniversary this year. The first oil well on this continent was brought in on August 27, 1859, at Titusville, Pennsylvania, by Edwin L. Drake, a conductor for the New Haven Railroad. The first of America's "gushers" was brought in 1861.
